Indian Summer Enhances Gayety of Social Events During Autumn Season

LANGOROUS Indian summer days, with just a tang of frost in the morning and evening air, and what does it matter if more man pine for prompt meals, a tidy house, and a serene wife to welcome him home after a trying day at the office?

The golf links cry for enthusiastic players, there are bridge luncheons and afternoons to attend, and club activities are more pressing than ever before.

After the instantaneous success of the book and magazine drive, sponsored by the Women's Library club, one of the most important civic organizations, virtually all of the members, and, yes, their menfolk, too, are hurrying to enroll in the many interesting adult education classes to be held during the coming months.

Dancing parties, which have been almost nil during the summer, have come into their own again, and they, too, lure the home bodies out for a gay evening now and again.

In fact, until the winter winds blow cold and chill, the home fires do not attract, and outside life and pleasures are the only alluring ones during the gorgeous fall days.

"I have not washed the dishes, Nor made my rumpled bed; But out along the roadside, The trees are turning red.

Oh, I can wash tomorrow, And sweep behind the gate; But gold is not enduring, And scarlet cannot wait.

For while I polished silver, And raked the withered grass, And straightened out the blankets— The sweet parade would pass.

"Be proper to be tidy And thrifty, if you must; But I'd rather see October Than save a house from dust."

Klamath Club Activities

Opening an interesting year's program, Mrs. A. E. Stonehouse will present an afternoon of Japan, it's people, customs, the country and its political history, before members of the Klamath Falls Women's Library club at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the library club rooms.

There will also be presented at this time a beautiful musical program which Mrs. Stonehouse has arranged in keeping with the subject.

A brief business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Rollo C. Groesbeck, president. All members and their friends are urged to attend and are also reminded that dues for the year, which are one dollar, are now due.

The November program will be directed by Mrs. Mortimer Hartwell of Portland, well known in civic and club circles in the northern city, who will be kind enough to pay Klamath Falls a visit. Mrs. Hartwell at this time will present a program of readings.

Men and women of Klamath Falls, whether they have degrees from any number of schools and colleges, or on the other hand, if they possess a meagre grade school education, will learn with interest of the classes in adult education which will be conducted this winter under the direction of the Klamath Falls Women's Library club.

This is the second program to be sponsored by the club this year, the first was the highly successful book and magazine drive which brought many hundreds of volumes to the city and county libraries.

On Tuesday night, October 10, in the library auditorium, W. G. Beattie of Eugene, with the extension division of the University of Oregon, will meet with all those interested to discuss the classes. It depends upon the response received Tuesday night as to the success of the classes.

It is the present plan of the Library club to present a 16-week course of study along such subjects as Americanization, parliamentary law, psychology, English, English literature, French, geology, ancient and medieval history, and public speaking.

It is probable that the American Legion will take over the classes in Americanization and this class will be open to all. A number of excellent teachers in the city have volunteered to take classes and among them, thus far, are Paul T. Jackson, principal of Klamath Union high school, Mrs. Victor O'Sell, Mrs. S. R. Berry, Mrs. Ralph Stearns and Rollo C. Groesbeck, who will conduct classes in law.

It has been brought out that there will be two types of work offered, credit and non-credit, those working toward degrees and those who wish to study for personal enjoyment and advancement.

Results of the meeting Tuesday will be made known immediately after the decision reached by Professor Beattie. Just whom

All the beauty, color and lavishness of the fall months, with hints of winter beauty, will be displayed Monday evening at the Pelican theatre by LaPointe's, when ten beautiful girls model the charming frocks, furs, coats and accessories collected from fashion centers from all over the United States.

Mrs. LaPointe, who is at the heart of the fashion world in New York, has been assembling these gorgeous creations, sending them west day by day, has even chartered an airplane to arrive Monday with the latest word in gowns and costume jewelry to be exhibited by the attractive young models on the stage Monday evening.

Settling for the Fashion Review have been designed especially for the event, and the lovely models will display their beautiful gowns before a silver and black background, promenade down an elevated cat-walk across the stage and into the wings.

Music will be furnished by Roy Clark's orchestra, and Lillian Hills, talented young singer, will present several groups of songs throughout the program.

Weeks have been spent in the preparation of this lovely fashion event, and several surprise features have been provided for the entertainment of breathless Klamath Falls women and their escorts who will attend the review.

Opening the fashion program will be an "X-Ray in Fashion," one of the loveliest of features, as introduced in Harper's Bazaar.
