

MIDWEST FARM STRIKE OPENS IN QUIETNESS

ended the government's vast campaign to lift him from one of history's worst depressions.

Action, demands, legislation and manifestos came with machine gun rapidity, while the nation awaited President Roosevelt's heart to heart talk with the people tomorrow night concerning the multitudinous problems which face them.

The developments included:

1. At noon many thousands of farmers in 27 states—so many that even the leaders in Des Moines, Iowa, refused to estimate their number—were called on to strike. They were pledged not to sell corn, wheat, hogs or any other farm product until prices reach the cost of production. They were pledged further to buy no more dresses at the general store, no more gasoline, nothing but absolute necessities until their objectives are reached.

All Pledges Broken

2. Milo Reno, president of the National Farmers' Holiday association, said the farmers were striking because "every pledge that has been made to them has been violated, every promise broken."

3. President Roosevelt gave some hint of what is in store tomorrow night in making an address at Washington college, Chestertown, Md. He pleaded for cooperation "in carrying forward a program looking to national rehabilitation."

4. Senator George Norris, the Nebraska Progressive, sent a telegram from McCook, Neb., to the weekly publication, "Labor," demanding again that the president hasten action looking to national rehabilitation.

5. General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, wrote Keith Neville, recently resigned NRA chairman in Nebraska, telling him that the Blue Eagle cannot be blamed for slowness in the farm relief or public works programs. He said that NRA was only a part of the president's recovery program, but that he believed the agriculture and public works plans were under administration of "able, honest, vigorous and devoted men—crusaders in a common cause."

6. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Agricultural Adjustment Administrator George N. Peek and other officials of the farm relief setup, planned to stay at their desks over the week-end, working on further plans to hasten cash to the farmers.

7. Stock market prices skidded one to eight points. Brokers were deeply concerned over the farm strike.

8. Rye Bought Abroad Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska endorsed the farm strike with the warning that he approved only so long as the strikers remained within the bounds of order.

9. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit association, started an intensive investigation of the Louisville Farm Loan bank after three Ohio congressmen charged the bank with inefficiency in refinancing farms.

10. Governor Langer of North Dakota, who called an embargo on wheat from his state, criticized large purchases of foreign grown rye. The bureau of agricultural economics reported that whiskey distillers are buying rye abroad because the domestic crop this year is only half normal.

ASTORIA PRINCIPAL NAMED STATE HEAD

SALEM, Oct. 21. (AP)—E. D. Fowler of Astoria was today elected president of the State High School Principals' association in session here.

Fred Wolf of Salem was elected vice-president, and R. W. Tannen, also of Salem, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The financial plight of Oregon's public schools was charted for the principals by Charles A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction. Howard renewed his recommendation that permanent financial assistance be given the schools by the state.

Action will be taken late today on a number of committee reports, including a recommendation that students be given school credit for outside music studies.

Roosevelt Calls For National Aid

the president in his collegiate cap and gown, "but we can't reach the goal in a couple of months."

Old Philosophy Recalled

"Some countries where there are dictators have laid down what is called a five year program or a ten year program. In this country which has not got a dictator I think we can move forward toward our goal without laying it a definite term of years."

To the crowd covering the spacious campus lawn in front of the flag covered brick administration building, Mr. Roosevelt also significantly recalled the advocacy of an old professor of his for distribution of wealth.

"In wealth and education," said the president, "there is represented only a minority of the people. As I recall the words of a professor in my school, the wider a distribution of wealth there is the proper way, the more we can make it possible for the men and women of the land to have the necessities of life in such shape that they will not have to lie awake at night worrying where the food for tomorrow will come from. Then, and only then, will we have the security necessary for the country."

"Today we are making many changes in the machinery of life—not in government alone. It is perfectly proper but at the same time old fashioned boyhood ideals, the old fashioned principles are things that are going to keep this country going."

SOVIET OFFICIAL SLAIN IN POLAND

LWOW, Poland, Oct. 21. (AP)—A woman whose name police kept secret, but who said he was a member of an Ukrainian organization, today shot and killed Alexander Malinow, a Soviet consular officer, in the consular building.

Another official named Dzugala was wounded in both hands. The assailant appeared at the consulate and asked to see the consul. When Malinow asked him his reason, the man drew a revolver and fired. The vice-consul called the police from an upper floor. The officers climbed through a window, and seized the killer.

Numerous arrests of young Ukrainians in the city followed the incident.

Fight on Tax Waxes Warm

buildings in which they do business is small, he said, and they will be unable to absorb the tax.

Labor Feeling Told

Rice described conditions among the laboring people of the city, cases, he said, which "will wring your heart." The lot of these people, he inferred, will be hardened by the passage of the tax.

"In ordinary times, the bond holders on Wall street in New York who have bought bonds on our city and now demand their interest and principal would be paid, but at this time I appeal to the mayor and council in all fairness—should not these bondholders and mortgage holders wait for their interest and principal payments until our home people can pass through this winter and be assured of food and shelter?" asked the speaker.

The revenue derived from the gross sales tax will go into the bond interest and sinking funds if the measure passes.

Rice urged the city council to "turn from the money changers of the east and face your home people, many of whom are almost starving, and then ask yourselves if you can pass a sales tax in this city that will increase the cost of living of our people."

Rice asserted that the financial condition of Klamath Falls is good, and for this reason "there would be crime committed if the administration should be tardy or even miss an interest payment on the city's mortgage."

Rice urged all persons objecting to raising the cost of living to attend the council hearing Tuesday night and urge the defeat of the proposed tax. For once, he said, the money power is reaching into every home.

A petition bearing the names of ten apartment house owners in Klamath Falls, endorsing the proposed tax on gross sales here, will be submitted to the city council Monday night.

The petition says that "it appears plain that our present system of taxation has failed, since approximately 55 per cent of the taxpayers have been unable to pay their taxes, leaving us to face complete ruination of the owners of homes and real property."

Signers are F. W. VanBuskirk, M. P. Evans, H. E. Peltz, Marion J. Barnes, Chris Blanga, H. E. Rosekamp, E. G. Arraras, McClellan, M. E. Cooper and C. L. Snodgrass.

U. S. COLLECTS CLAIMS AGAINST SOVIET RUSSIA

claims total between $300,000.00 and $400,000.00.

Two of the larger claimants were understood to be the Singer Sewing Machine company and the New York Life Insurance company.

Mr. Roosevelt and Litvinoff are expected to set up a Soviet-American claims commission to consider the obligations of each government and its citizens toward the other.

As legal adviser, Green H. Hackworth compiled his claims. Protocol Officer James Clement Dunn wrinkled his brow trying to decide how the state department should welcome a man who, although foreign minister of a great power, is not officially recognized by the United States.

State department experts meanwhile are jotting down memoranda of subjects which Mr. Roosevelt and Litvinoff must discuss when they sit together around the White House hearth. They probably include:

1. Claims. They probably will be swept from the White House agenda into the hands of a commission.

2. The status of Americans in Russia and Russians in America. "Propaganda. Each state is said to be willing to promise not to interfere in the domestic affairs of the other. The Russians will promise not to proselytize Americans into the Communist fold. America will promise not to proselytize Russians into the Communist fold. The Russians will promise not to proselytize Americans into the Communist fold. The Russians will promise not to proselytize Americans into the Communist fold."

4. Trade relations and trade financing.

5. Establishment of embassies and consulates.

6. Possible negotiation of a military and commercial non-aggression pact.

GRANGE ANNOUNCES BOOSTER MEETING

PORT KLAMATH, Ore.,—The monthly social meeting of Fort Klamath Grange was held in the club house Tuesday evening with Nicholas Master Theodore R. Nicholson in the chair. Nineteen members and one visitor were present.

During the evening, it was announced by Lecturer Lucille Nicholson that a Grange Booster meeting would be held in the clubhouse on Saturday night, October 28. Tentative plans were made, which included a program, and dance, with music to be furnished by Jerry Pearson and his Old Timers of Klamath Falls. Lunch will be served free at the close of the evening.

All local grange members are urged to be present at the first meeting on November 7, when officers for the year 1934 will be elected.

At the close of the brief business session, a poem, "October Days" was read by the Lecturer, following which games were enjoyed until a late hour, when refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Leever.

KELLY DISCOVERED AS 'GOOD FELLOW'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 21. (AP)—A dangerous criminal to the law, George "Machine Gun" Kelly is just "a jolly good fellow" who played with me and bought me pretty clothes," to Geraldine Arnold, 12-year-old girl who told officers of his hiding place and played a major part in sending him to the penitentiary for life for the Urschel kidnapping.

"He was a jolly good fellow. He and Mrs. Kelly bought me pretty clothes. They bought this dress, see?" she said, turning to display her neatly-fitted sweater suit.

"And besides this one, they bought me another pretty one and once he gave me $20 to send to my mother."

EXPLOSION WRECKS SANTIAGO EXPRESS

HAVANA, Oct. 21. (AP)—The locomotive and two baggage cars of the Santiago Express were derailed early today when an explosion blew up nearly 400 feet of track near the town of Empalme, Matanzas Province, about 50 miles from Havana.

The explosion came amidst unsettled labor conditions that grow more serious steadily, despite the government's vigorous moves to settle the difficulties.

Railroad connections between Havana and points east of Matanzas Province were stopped by a strike of railroaders who seek annulment of a rule which prevents the transfer of employees from one division to another.

Copco Hearing Will Open Here Monday Morning

pany was granted a 50-year lease with the right to use waters in excess of those needed for irrigation purposes, for power.

Agreement Under Fire

This agreement between the government and the power company has been frequently under fire. Thomas is now taking it up upon his own motion.

It is understood that 15 or 20 witnesses in this area have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing. These include farmers and early settlers, expected to testify as to their understanding, when they bought land here, as to how the waters were to be used.

W. E. Mahoney, mayor of Klamath Falls, is expected to appear on behalf of the city. Mahoney made rate reduction an important part of his contest for election last fall.

The power company officials said they had not been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing.

The rate question rests largely on matters of valuation of the property of the power company. While the commissioner may order a change in rates, it was pointed out by authorities here the matter can be taken into the courts by the power company for a final decision. In the case of Copco, the federal court would probably have jurisdiction.

Some political significance is attached to the Copco investigation and hearing here. Thomas is talked as a candidate for governor.

MINIMUM PRICE PROGRAM DOOMED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Proposals for government sanction of a minimum price margin to retail stores face almost certain rejection by the administration.

Authoritative officials say President Roosevelt definitely has shelved the plan to prohibit, in a master code, retail sales at prices below invoice cost plus 10 per cent. To what extent the NRA may go in banning price slashes and under competition is up to Mr. Roosevelt.

F. D. R. PREPARES RECOVERY ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—NRA officials are looking forward to President Roosevelt's Sunday night address to the country in expectation he will express himself to ally farmers' objections against the recovery unit, delay in the public works program and disparity of farm and industrial prices.

The president will speak by radio over the National and Columbia chains.

Policy Not Known

No official word would hazard any definite forecast of what the chief executive has in mind nor do they expect any departure in policy.

Hugh S. Johnson today followed up a statement over the resignation of Keith Neville, Nebraska state recovery board chairman, in which he yesterday expressed confidence farmers' discontent will vanish once everything is in full swing.

Making public an exchange of letters between Neville and himself, the NRA leader showed, the bulk of Neville's criticism and the reason for declaring himself out of sympathy with the NRA's application in the farm regions was directed at delay on the part of the public works administration in getting Nebraska projects started, while NRA itself has placed a burden on the small merchant by requiring them increased payroll expenditure.

In replying, Johnson pointed out the public works and NRA were separate organizations and contended his unit should not be held responsible for the protested delays.

At NRA there were hopes the basic retail code would receive the president's signature within a day or two.

This document will contain modification from the last published draft, designed to meet the farm opposition to its minimum price control feature.

There were definite suggestions the code as finally drawn would exempt from any tax maintenance provision those establishments in the smaller cities and towns, the limit being either 2,500 or 5,000 population. Officials have argued these communities, generally catering to farm trade, have experienced few of the more destructive price cutting practices and therefore have little need for price regulation.

GANGSTERS RAID INDIANA POLICE

PERU, Ind., Oct. 21. (AP)—The second raid within a week on an Indiana city police station placed in the hands of gangsters today most of the armament of the Peru police force.

Two men armed with a sub-machine gun and a sawed-off shotgun, herded three Peru officers into the basement of the station late last night and escaped with guns, revolvers, badges and nine bulletproof vests.

Machine Guns Taken

At the Auburn, Ind., police station last Saturday night, three gunmen obtained a machine gun, rifles and a number of revolvers. One of the men who confronted Patrolmen Eldon Chittum and Eddie Roberts and Merchant Policemen Ambrose Clark here last night, told them, "I haven't killed anyone for a week and I ought to shoot you." No shots were fired.

Conflicting identifications were made. Deputy Sheriff Robert Killitt, who saw the men drive away with a companion, said they resembled Charles Mackley, one of ten convicts who escaped from Indiana state prison Sept. 26, and Harry Copeland, on parole from the prison. Mackley and Copeland face murder warrants in connection with last week's raid on the Lima, Ohio, jail, where Sheriff Jess Sarber was killed as several men released John Dillinger, alleged bank robber.

Leo (Red) Eakins, 53, night cook at a nearby restaurant, who entered the police station and was lined up with the officers, said he believed the men were Harry Pierpont and Joseph Fox, two of the fugitive convicts.
