Editorials on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

This paragraph appears in a
Washington dispatch:

Agricultural department economists noted today (Thursday) a traditional sign of prosperity—declines in the farm population.

In good times, they explain, young men and women from the farm go to the cities to get jobs. (Also to live in the glare of the bright lights.) In hard times, they come back to the farm to get something to eat and a place to sleep.

There are years when farming is good and years when farming is bad, but jumping ALL the years together twice as many go HUNGRY less often than sick or people.

From Spokane comes another interesting farm note:

Tenants farmers in the Pacific Northwest are working themselves rapidly into the landowner class, the vice-president of the Spokane Federal Land Bank said today (Thursday). Of 125,000 property sales during the first five months of 1937, 112 (or approximately one-third) were to tenants.

There is a good sign. It's always a good sign when people work and save and acquire property. That's how civilization has been built.

From Johnson, Ohio, comes this note: "Business leaders protest forced closing of steel plants."

MERRILL, K. F. BANKS BECOME BRANCH HOUSES

Local Firms Placed Under First National of Portland in Big Deal

Klamath county banking history entered a new chapter Thursday morning when the First National bank of Merrill opened as a branch of the First National bank of Portland, and with the further announcement by E. B. MacNaughton, president of the state-wide banking system, that the First National bank of Klamath Falls will open Sunday, June 28, as the Klamath Falls branch of the First National bank of Portland.

Both institutions will open in the quarters now occupied before becoming branches, the bank buildings, fixtures and all assets having been retained in the two transactions. Combined deposits of the two institutions exceed in the merger amount to more than $1,000,000, of which approximately $400,000 are at the Klamath Falls bank and more than $600,000 at Merrill, all of which are assumed by the First National bank of Portland.

Lorenz Vice-President

G. C. Lorenz, who was named president of the First National bank of Klamath Falls following transfer of control to the Standard Banking Company, last summer has just elected a director and vice-president of the First National bank of Portland, and will have supervision of the bank's policies and particular sections of the Klamath area. In view of this important appointment, it is expected that Klamath Falls will remain as a separate banking district prior to the opening of the new combined banking entity.

Mitchell Tillotson, vice-president of the Klamath Falls bank, has been appointed manager of the new Klamath Falls branch, and Louis L. Porter, present manager, has been named assistant manager.

Warren Fruits, former cashier of the Merrill bank, has been named manager of the new Klamath branch of the First National bank of Portland, with Morris Danzig as assistant manager. The present president of both the

SEAPLANE OFF ON TRANSCONTINENTAL NON-STOP FLIGHT

SAN DIEGO, CAL., June 24 (UPI)—Richard Archbold, 28-year-old founder of a Standard Oil company founder, took off from here at 4:30 p.m. PST, today on the first non-stop transcontinental flight ever attempted in a seaplane.

The big plane, similar to flying boats used by the navy, rose from the harbor without difficulty, despite the load of five crew members and 1,750 gallons of gasoline.

Archbold, grandson of the late John D. Archbold, one of the founders of the Standard Oil company, planned to fly by way of Dallas, Tex., and Atlanta, Ga., then up the east coast to New York.

There are but four possible landing places for the huge craft between here and his goal—Salina sea in eastern California, Lake Meade behind Boulder dam, the Mississippi river and the Ohio river.

The plane, purchased by Archbold for $250,000, will be used for exploration work in New Guinea next winter.

WINDSOR REPORTED TO HAVE BOUGHT ENGLISH ESTATE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., June 24 (AP)—An agent for the Duke of Windsor was here today to have purchased a 100-acre-old estate in Lancashire, England, for former King Edward VIII, who is to live there after the return of his abdication here.

The Duke, brother of Queen Elizabeth, was seen by agents of his former king to be here again.

Marion Hall Lee, over the pretense of being a tourist, a close friend of Windsor who accompanied the Duchess of Windsor—then Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson—when she fled the country at the height of the abdication crisis brought about by the King's determination to marry her.

The estate is located in the English hunting country, only a few miles from Melton Mowbray, center of the celebrated region where the duke often rode as Prince of Wales.

Some of his most celebrated spills were taken with his favorite hunt, the Belvoir, Belvoir castle, the hunt's headquarters, but three miles from Melton Mowbray.

AMERICA HOME TUESDAY

OAKLAND, June 24 (AP)—America Hartshorn intends to conclude her flight around the world in Oakland next Tuesday, her husband, George Palmer Putnam, disclosed today. Putnam said he talked to Miss Hartshorn by telephone shortly after midnight from Cheyenne, Wyo. The aviatrix was in Soerabaja, Java.

"Jesus Christ" Hunt Opens Defense on Morals Charge

LOS ANGELES, June 24 (AP)—Federal Judge Leon H. Yankwich denied a motion for a mistrial today in the Mann act case against round John Quest Hunt, 33, and three other followers of Father Divine, Negro cult leader.

They were accused of bringing Delight Jewett, 17, here from Denver for immoral purposes and she has testified Hunt betrayed her.

Judge's Statement

Judge Yankwich's ruling ended an extended argument of opposing attorneys both in court and in the judge's chambers. The argument was over a defense motion that the case be thrown out of court because of Judge Yankwich's statement from the bench yesterday excoriating the defendants and saying he believed the jury would be justified in finding them guilty.

Judge Yankwich made the statement in the absence of the jury, but defense attorneys contended some of the jurors had read the statement in newspapers.

LOS ANGELES, June 24 (AP)—A round John Quest Hunt, disciple of Negro cult leader, Father Divine, opened his defense today against the federal government's charge that he brought 17-year-old Delight Jewett from Colorado to California and debauched her.

As the government closed its case, Judge Leon Yankwich denied a defense motion for acquittal and commented:

"I am satisfied that the facts here are such as to justify the jury in finding all defendants guilty on both counts of the indictment. The evidence shows that Hunt satisfied his lust at the expense of this mere child, keeping up a pretense that it was being done in the name of holy religion."

Also indicted with Hunt were H. B. Smith, Mrs. Agnes Gardner and Mrs. Elizabeth Peters.

Paul J. Cotter, agent of the federal bureau of investigation, was the last prosecution witness. He said Smith told him Miss Jewett's parents were not notified when she left Denver and came with Hunt to his Beverly Hills home. He said Smith also told him Hunt spent $50,000 in a period of four months, buying, among other things, a house in Los Angeles, a car and a boat.

Klamath Banks Alter Status

Both the Klamath Falls First National bank and the Merrill First National bank, which have been operating independently since they were merged a year ago, are to be made direct branches of the First National bank of Portland. With the change, G. C. Lorenz (left), president vice-president initially, becomes manager of the Klamath branch, and Warren Fruits (right), cashier at Merrill, becomes manager there. JUDGESHIP BACK IN JUSTICE HANDS

PORLAND, June 24 (AP)—A special dispatch to the Oregonian from Washington said today the selection of a federal judge for Oregon was again in the hands of the department of justice, the name of Claude McCollum, previously sent to the White House, having been withdrawn at the request of Attorney General Cummings.

The dispatch said that Dr. C. J. Smith, former democratic national committeeman from Oregon, was in the national capital working for the appointment of Judge Hall Lusk, and that labor representatives still supported Henry Hess of La Grande, despite having been advised that Hess had been eliminated.

Judge Yankwich made the statement in the absence of the jury, but defense attorneys contended some of the jurors had read the statement in newspapers.
