LOCALS BEAT WEED OUTFIT

Invaders Turned Back By 11-3 Score Before Big Crowd of Fans.

Defeating the Weed Sons of Italy, 11-3, Sunday afternoon at Modoc field in a fray featured by heavy slugfests, the Klamath Falls Red Sox overpowered the existing tie with the Sons for Northern California league leadership and jumped into sole possession of the top spot.

It was plainly a case of too much Carlstrom for the Weed Sons. The local hurler pitched flossy ball, allowing six scattered hits and whiffing 11 Weed sluggers.

The Weed Sons made but one real threat during the afternoon in the first inning, before Carlstrom had settled down for the grind, the California boys slugfests to two hard hits, scoring twice to jump into an early lead. In the sixth canto the Sons pushed over another score, but were unable to complete the trip around the diamond thereafter.

Three big innings for the Sox put the game on July 4 and 5. In the second, fourth and seventh frames the locals scored 10 of the 11 runs made in the game while cracking out nine bingles off Martin and Espino, Weed choppers.

Roy Wheeler topped the slugfests Red Sox with three for four at the plate. Harshbarger collected a double and a triple for himself, with D. Barber of Weed duplicating the act.

All around, the Weed Sons have a much better ball club than is shown by the score. Five costly errors sent Red Sox players across the plate three times besides allowing extra bases on several occasions.

Portland Salvages One Game From Series With San Diego

WEEKEND RESULTS Saturday San Diego 11, Portland 9. San Francisco 10, Seattle 2. Missions 6, Sacramento 5 (10 innings). Sunday Portland 5, San Diego 2. San Diego 6, Portland 2. Seattle 12, San Francisco 2. Missions 7, Sacramento 2. Sacramento 4, Missions 3. Oakland 6, Los Angeles 2. Los Angeles 2, Oakland 1.

By The Associated Press The Pacific Coast league baseball race entered its fourteenth week Monday. Sacramento topped the circuit three full games ahead of the San Francisco Seals—just where they were a week ago. Sacramento can blame the San Francisco Missions for keeping their percentage the same. Sunday the Missions robbed the Seals of an opportunity to gain another game on the Seals by winning the opener of a twin bill, 7 to 2, before losing the second 2 to 0.

Seattle's Indians were in an ugly mood as they clubbed the Seals into submission twice, 12 to 3, and 11 to 2.

Joe Willie Ludolph, Oakland's pitching miltman, won his third game when he pitched the Acorns to a 6 to 2 win over Los Angeles in the curtain-raiser. Oakland then lost its thirteenth consecutive game.

Max West, who slings a wicked bat for the San Francisco Missions, was the hitting hero of their 7 to 2 victory over the Seals when he slashed a two-bagger and a brace of homers. Steve Barath of the Missions also hit a homer.

By Associated Press You couldn't blame major magnates if they peeked under second base or back of the scoreboard or some such place today in the hope of glimpsing a rivalry to match the Carl Hubbell-Diz Dean duel.

For, win, lose or draw between the Giants' southpaw ace and the Cardinal's stout popper offer, any time those two go to the post against each other, they pack 'em in to the rafters.

To the moguls, it didn't matter so much that Hubbell topped Diz like a tent Sunday, to take an 8-1 decision in the latest renewal of their pitching rivalry. What was more interesting to the front offices was the fact that $3,719 fans made it look like world series day in Sportsman's park for the battle.

The crowd made it more than 120,000 who had turned out for the three team-Hubbell clashes this year.

"Experting" faces are plenty red these days over the Hubbell progress. Old Squarepants, after winning 24 straight, bogged down recently, dropped four in a row and was belted out six times running.

Immediately the wolves were Wheeler. Double plays, Martin to Valencia, Carlstrom to Brooks to Bernadon, F. Big Lakes Wins Over Dorris in 11-Inning Game The Big Lakes ball nine won its fourth straight game of the season at Dorris Sunday when it finally annihilated the Timber League opponent, Dorris, with a seven-run burst in the last frame of an 11-inning free-for-all, making the final score 20-13.

FALL RIVER BEATS SONS

Local Club Receives Surprise Licking By 9-6 Score.

The Klamath Sons of Italy were home Monday from a week-end excursion to Fall River, and they returned with their ears neatly and securely fastened to the rear of their heads.

To be truthful about the matter, they trekked shamefacedly back on the short end of a 9-6 score, their first defeat of the Inter-Wonderland league season.

Fall River came to Modoc field early this month for the first of two games with the Sons and was administered a pitiless 33-2 shelling. Consequently, when Manager Louis Pastega and his gang went south for the return contest Sunday they were looking for easy pickings.

Indeed, they were looking for such easy pickings that Pastega didn't even call on Harry Griffith, his prize pitcher who had won every game of the year, for mound duty, but instead started a lad named Strothede, whom he figured would be good enough to throttle Fall River's supposed weak threat.

Alas, the Fall Riverites nicked Strothede for four runs in the first inning, and the Sons were in a hole from which they never recovered.

But that wasn't the worst of it. Those ornery Fall River fellows, without even telling Pastega about it, had picked up a new battery since they appeared here, and it developed, not only had won every game they had played since the 33-2 slaughter but were practically in the league lead.

At any rate, Pastega promptly shoved Griffith into the gap after Strothede's demise, and Griffith held Fall River to five additional runs while the Sons were manufacturing six. But five and four make nine, and six is not as many as nine, and there you are.

Next Sunday the much-deflated Sons will tackle Adin on Modoc field, Griffith will start the game and the boys will be out to do big things. The contest will start at 5 o'clock instead of the usual 2:30, in order not to conflict with the Buckaroo Days rodeo program at the fairgrounds.

MAIN EVENTERS WAIT FOR BELL

Black Dragon, Belcastro Eager to Jump At One Another's Throats.

They didn't even ask what night it was going to be, Pete Belcastro and the Black Dragon didn't, when Promoter Mack Lillard offered them a chance to break each others' necks in front of a big gang of people who like to see necks broken, especially Black Dragon and Belcastro necks.

They were just that anxious to exhibit their propensity to neckbreaking and related arts and, it is possible, to make one another the victims of a little legal murder.

Now they know that Tuesday night is the big night, and both are planning big—and not too gentle—things when they climb through those armory ring ropes for a main event set-to.

Lillard was amazed at the alacrity with which both Belcastro and the Dragon took him up on his suggestion that they renew hostilities here. The hoodlum has been notorious in the past for the number of stipulations, exemptions and kindred clauses he demands be written into his wrestling contracts, and wild Pete is equally famed for protecting his own interests before as well as during a match.

When Lillard sought to match the pair for Tuesday night's main event, however, they both accepted without hesitation. There was no insistence on special regulations, no objection to the referee, no request, even for a bigger purse, even though both Belcastro and the Dragon realize they are up against superior talent. And for once, the Dragon had nothing to offer on the subject of his mask. It'll come off, he agreed, if Belcastro should reduce him to the state where he can no longer defend it.

Lillard said there would be no holds barred except the struggle and each would be severely handicapped if restrictions were placed on any other type of subrosa activity.

The promoter was at a loss to explain the basis of the feeling of intense rivalry in last Tuesday's battle-royal, when the pair refused to quit pounding each other, even though one had already been officially eliminated from the fray and the other had been assured a place in the final event.

The fact that Tuesday night's battle will be in the nature of a "rubber" match may be one reason. Along in the middle of last winter, the Dragon crunched Belcastro here, with his back-cracking crashhold after Pete had the mystery man's mask around his ears and then thumping him solidly on the chin with drop-kicks.

Following that affair, Pete went south for a spell, returning a few weeks ago with a new assortment of villainies as well as a novel trick or two of the legitimate variety. Last Monday night, St. Medford Belcastro took on the Dragon for a second time, and when the dust had cleared away, the ringside customers had counted their bruises and the weaker-hearted clientele had been salvaged with the help of a palmtop, it was found that Pete boy had thrashed the hooded wonder.

So Belcastro and the Dragon will go into Tuesday night's embroglio all even and in quest of the deciding victory. And if you plan to look on while the decisive campaign is waged, better hold your hat and sit tight, because here we go.

The Belcastro-Dragon debacle, which is calculated to pack 'em on their own merits, is not however, the only highlight on the imminent wrestling program. Lillard has also arranged a couple of other promising matches, one between Frankie Taylor of Ohio and Frankie Stojack of Washington, two youthful exponents of grappling in its scientific form, and the other between Monte LaDue of France and Dale Haddock of Los Angeles, two medium-young exponents of grappling of the more neanderthal variety.

Taylor will outweigh Stojack by a good 15 pounds, but he will have to have his flying scissors and all other personal resources functioning at full capacity if he expects to overcome Stojack, who boasts lightning speed and as sensational maneuvers as have ever been unfolded on the armory carpet. From a pre-match viewpoint, it looks like about an even bet, with Stojack, perhaps, holding.
