

Red Sox Romp Over Hilt in League Contest

LOCALS MAKE BLOWS COUNT

Klamath Retains League Lead on Strength of 14-7 Victory.

Ability to come through with base knocks when needed gave the high-flying Klamath Falls Red Sox a 14-7 victory over the faltering Hilt, Cal. nine Sunday afternoon in the tenth game of the Northern California league.

The Hilt game turned out to be a stubborn affair with "Hoosier" Hoffard's slugers nailing Klamath pitchers for 13 blows, but the California team was unable to gain a lead in the fray which took place on the Hilt diamond.

Hoffard, slugger star of the Hilt combination, collected a triple and a double off the Klamath hurlers while G. Trinca, Donovan and Favero likewise were banging out extra base hits.

Costly errors led to Hilt's downfall with ragged support being given Bowman, starting chucker, and Merritt, young righthander for the California team.

Turpin, starting on the mound for Klamath, pitched the first five frames, being relieved by Carstrom with the score 9-6 in favor of the Sox. Turpin yielded eight biggies in five innings and Carstrom allowed five hits in four frames.

Outstanding in the Red Sox slugging line was Paul Bernadon, first sacker, who banged out four base hits in five trips to the plate, two of them going for triples. Cometock helped himself to a triple and two doubles, while Donaldson, Sox outfielder, collected three singles in four trips.

The victory over Hilt keeps the Red Sox in first place in the Northern California league, the local nine having won 9 of the 10 league games played so far.

Next Sunday the Sox will entertain Dunsuir on Modoc field and will endeavor to keep up their record of no defeats on the home diamond this season.

Records Disclose Early History of Oregon Baseball

PORTLAND, July 12 (AP)—Back in post Civil war days Sunday baseball was frowned upon to such an extent by pioneers in Oregon that baseball clubs themselves legislated against it.

WPA project workers uncovered records of 1857 which revealed the attitude at that time. A resolution printed by The Oregon City Enterprise, August 3, of that year, stated:

"The practice of playing ball on Sunday is not only very immoral, but disturbs the peace and quiet of the neighborhood where it is practiced. x x Names of club members will be erased from books if they use the grounds or any implements belonging to the club on Sunday."

One of the first inter-city games on record was played between the Dyoside Baseball club of Salem, a "society organized for the development of muscles," and the Portland club at the state fair. The score was 22 to 25 in favor of Portland.

PORTLAND, July 12 (AP)—Oregon's tenth annual state junior golf championship which opens today at the Riverside Golf and Country club was expected to attract a field of more than 200 youthful players.

From California, of Course

Far western experts not only predict national junior singles honors for 15-year-old Bob Carrothers this year, but in the not too far distant future, the senior title as well. Carrothers, shown executing a forehand drive, has been victorious in every match played this year. Although the Coronado boy has been performing for only two years, he has won several outstanding tournaments. He is the southern California junior singles champion and coupled with Woodbury of Los Angeles holds the doubles title. The national junior is listed for the Culver Military Academy courts, Culver, Ind., Aug. 2. With lanky 17-year-old Frank Kovacs of Oakland also a standout, California once more takes it upon itself to see that America is supplied with Davis Cup talent.

and take the series from the Missions, four games to three.

Both the Solons and the second place San Francisco Seals split doubleheaders Sunday. Seattle won the opener from the Solons, 13 to 7, but the Seals, with the aid of homers by Nick Cullop and Joe Orengo, won the second game, 10 to 1. Herman Michael of the Tribe accounted for its only run in the seventh with a homer.

San Francisco lost the first to Los Angeles, 8 to 4, but took the second game by the same score.

Just homesickness and not an "unfortunate love affair" as first reported was responsible for Bob's mysterious disappearance of Mattick, Los Angeles infielder, just before game time last Thursday.

Mattick was found at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mattick, at St. Louis. He said he wanted to see them and scotchers at the report he left his team because of a love affair.

He said he would start back for the coast baseball team Wednesday.

Oakland, reverting to old form, lost six out of seven of its games with the Portland Beavers last week. The Oaks clinched the series double with a double loss to the Beavers Sunday, 2 to 1 and 3 to 2.

Merrill May of the Oaks and Mike Treash of the Beavers connected for the circuit in the nightcap.

The veteran Mrs. Gross teamed with Cecil Miner to take the women's doubles championship from Hazel Schenck and Ruth Roland of Portland in easy style, 6-2, 6-0.

Third place San Diego Padres were still only two and a half games behind the leading Sacramento Solons in the Pacific Coast league Monday, but were home-bound without their first string catcher, George Detore, left behind in a San Francisco hospital with a serious head injury.

Detore suffered a possible skull fracture in the first game of a doubleheader with the San Francisco Missions Sunday. He was struck on the head by the back of swing of Chick Outen's bat. He was taken to a hospital, where doctors ordered X-rays taken.

Detore was the first of two Padres injured in the game. Pitcher Dick Ward suffered a side injury and was forced out of the game and probably will be on the casualty list for several days. The casualty list not only lost the services of two ball players but the game as well, 10 to 2. They came back in the nightcap to win, 5 to 2.

Favorite Wins Oregon Tennis Men's Singles

PORTLAND, July 12 (AP)—Tail, spectated Sam Lee, pre-tournament favorite, blasted his way to the men's singles championship in the 39th annual Oregon state tennis championships yesterday by defeating youthful Darrell Kelly in an all Portland final, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

Paty Canning, Alameda, Cal., won the women's singles crown by defeating Petite Cecil Miner, Long Beach, Cal., 7-5, 6-3.

Bill Canning of Alameda matched the strokes of his sister to win the junior title over Jack Gurley, Sacramento, 8-6, 6-2. C. I. Grimm upset top-seeded Catlin Wolfard, both of Portland, 8-6, 6-0, for the veteran's title, and Ned Junck, Portland, annexed the boys' singles, 5-7, 6-2, 6-0, in the only maximum set battle.

Lee had little difficulty with his 19-year-old opponent, except in the first and last games of the sets. Kelly played his usual cautious game.

The Canning brother and sister paired to take the mixed doubles title to give the California family a big day at the meet. They defeated Mrs. Golda Mayer Gross and Ed Amark, of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-4.

The San Francisco duo, Amark and Jack Lundy, won the men's doubles from Don Lewis and Sam

All-Star Poll Begins Again

PORTLAND, July 12 (AP)—The Oregonian announced today its fourth annual all-star football poll to determine the personnel of the collegiate all-American eleven to play the Green Bay Packers, world's professional champions, at Chicago, September 1.

Fans will make the selection by their votes of national heroes. Last year's poll drew 11,747,961 votes.

Northwest fans in 1926 rallied to put Johnny Graves of Willamette university and Chuck Mucha of the University of Washington on the all-star squad.

BLACK DRAGON TO DOFF MASK

Erstwhile Hooded Horror Promises Harsh Fate for Stojack.

Mr. X, now the Black Dragon, Monday announced himself prepared to wipe the armory mat and adjoining premises with the slim torso of one Frank Stojack when the pair tangle in the main event of Tuesday night's wrestling program here.

Whether Mr. X will be able to accomplish his purpose is another matter. The gentleman is notorious for his inclination toward boasting, and although he sometimes produces as much as he claims he will here are other times when his efforts fall far short of his promises. Plenty of fans, especially those who sat in while Stojack mopped up Dale Haddock and Frank Taylor with graceful ease, believe that Tuesday night will be just such one of those occasions.

At any rate, the late Black Dragon has set forth his usual pre-battle statement and seeks to bolster it by pointing to the fact that he will wrestle within full view of the audience, cold, stark bare—at least, without his hood.

This denuded condition was his own request. The knitted cap, he claims, is a handicap, and since his sharply chiseled features are no longer a mystery, having been witnessed two weeks ago by some 1200 armory customers through the courtesy of Pete Belcastro, he figures there is no use going any farther with the attempt at camouflage. With or without the cap, his identity remains as much a secret as the first night he strutted across the armory ring early last winter.

The erstwhile Dragon does not bother to explain in what manner the headpiece handicaps him nor what advantage he expects to gain by its removal.

There is the possibility, of course, that it might be a little stuffy inside that hood, especially on a hot summer night such as Tuesday evening is likely to be. In that case, bareheaded grappling would be more comfortable.

There is also the possibility that the hood might feel he will appear more ferocious without the hood. On the two occasions when he has had the covering forcibly removed, he has managed to muster under conditions of defeat, and there is anything in an opponent's trying to scare an opponent, the volunteer wrestling may indeed prove of benefit.

A third suggestion is that the mask may be coming off for economic purposes. The wear and tear on the all-over headgear has been terrific during recent weeks, and at least two of the quantities with which he has been stretched and torn are many beyond repair.

Now even if the knitted coverings are the product of his grandmas' needles, the former Black Dragon cannot expect the little old lady to turn out a new one every week, and if he has to buy them from the store, you can see how heavily that would cut into his profits.

So the ex-Dragon was prepared Monday to enter the armory ring Tuesday evening without adornment but full of bombast relating to his projected course for annihilating Stojack.

On the same evening, but a little earlier, similar efforts will be made by four other wrestlers. Frank Clemens, the Indian "wonder boy," will attempt to stretch out Jack LaRue, replete ruffian from Kansas, and LaRue will conduct related experiments on the torso of Clemens. That's the semifinal bout.

In the opener Dale Haddock, popular Los Angeles villain, and Prince Mihalikis, equally popular Arabian hero, will engage in what promises to be a spectacular session of mutual destruction.

McCloud Golf Team Swamps Locals, 53-18

A team of Klamath golf players suffered a severe lopping Sunday when it invaded McCloud for a return match with the California linksmen. Score was 53-18.

The visitors found some consolation in the fact that Les Avrit of the Klamath squad tied for medalist honors with a McCloud player at 76, but for the most part they were bothered by the sand greens on the beautiful McCloud course, nestled at the foot of Mt. Shasta, and proved no much for their opponents.

Klamath's golfers defeated McCloud here a few weeks ago in the first of two home-and-home matches, but not by any such margin as they themselves went under Sunday.

The case of Bobby Feller—or what's in a fast ball—bobbed up Monday as the year's most baffling baseball mystery.

Although he has the makings of just about everything an elbow-nerd, Cleveland's Lightning-ball youngster can't seem to find his name on the winning side of the scoreboard.

One whispered suggestion was heard Monday that a spot of seasickness, of the minor league variety, might do something towards solving the problem—that a few months in fast Class AA company might teach young Bo' by the tricks of the trade and make him pay dividends.

In his last two starts he has pitched fine ball but has lost both decisions through no one's fault but his own.

Bob made his first start last week since the opening days of the campaign and lost the ball game because of his own fielding error—a peg to an uncovered base. Sunday, in his second time out, he and the Tribe dropped a 3-2 decision to the Detroit Tigers, largely because he had as much control as a cross-eyed man in target practice.

Chiff Melton, young Giant left-hander, the best first year man in the National league... Lee Grissom of the Reds is a close second.

Schnapps, one of the favorites for the rich Hambletonian trotting stakes, is named after this writer's favorite brand of chewing tobacco... Jack Dempsey, who may turn his restaurant into a night club, will take his heavy-weight, Red Burke, to Los Angeles this week to fight Alberto Santos Lovell for good old Joe Levy, July 26... London wants Jimmy Braddock to fight Max Baer, and there is an offer from Pittsburgh for Jim to meet John Henry Lewis.

Just 15 years ago today Rogers Hornsby, playing for the St. Louis Cardinals, bettered the National league home run record by slugging out his 25th circuit drive... The former mark was made in 1915 by Gavy Gravy of Philadelphia... (Don't be surprised if Joe DiMaggio clouts 55 this season)... One coach you don't hear moaning is Mike Jacobs of the heavyweight squad... He's got 'em three deep—Louis, Schmeling and Braddock... Francis Blain says in the Washington Star the American league wants the all-star game "by courtesy of Col. Jacob Ruppert"... which is just about right.

Merced School Teacher Breaks Half-Mile Mark

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Elroy Robinson, who had just run the half mile in 1:49.6 to better the world record, sat quietly in a noisy locker room and admitted he had expected to break the $50,000 mark once "he had a good fast quarter mile under his belt."

"I felt I could do it after I ran at Milwaukee last week. All I had to do was step up that first quarter and I was in," said Robinson, a teacher in Merced, Cal., between track meets, who ran for San Francisco's Olympic club, yesterday. "I did, too, 33 something wasn't it?" Someone said it had been 33.5. "That's fast enough," said Robinson.

It was fast enough to give the 16,000 fans who crowded Rand, all island stadium for the second annual world labor carnival, a terrific bit, as big a one as they got out of Glenn Cunningham's mile victory.

Robinson's mark bettered the 1:49.8 posted by Ben Eastman in the 1934 Princeton invitation meet.

John Woodruff, the University of Pittsburgh runner who beat Robinson in the AAU games at Milwaukee a week ago, trailed Cunningham, Archie Blain, and Gene Venzke home in a 4:11.4 mile race in which Cunningham named San Roman 50 yards from the tape with a killing spurt and won by four yards.

Veteran Sports Promoter Dies on Long Island

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Jack Curley, one of the country's leading sports promoters, died at his Great Neck, Long Island, home today, of heart disease. He was 61, a veteran of 23 years in sports promotion.

Although wrestling was his favorite and most lucrative field, Curley's experience covered a wide range. He promoted the Havana bout in which Jess Willard won the heavyweight boxing championship from Jack Johnson, staged ball fights and flea circuses and engineered public appearances of Annette Kellerman, Enrico Caruso, William Jennings Bryan, Rudolph Valentino, the Vatican Choir, George Carpentier, the French fighter, and William Tilden.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beale Grobeld Curley, and two children, Jack and Jean.

Born in Strabourne, Alsace, as Jacques Arnaud Schuler, Curley came to this country as a youth and re-named himself after his hair.

Curley entered sports as trainer to Barney Oldfield, who then was a bicycle rider. At the turn of the century, he began sports promotion in Chicago, staging the famous match between Frank Gotch, then world's champion, and George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion."

Wrestling soon went into a decline but its recent revival is accredited to Curley more than any other one man. He put theatrical effects into the sport, adding grunts, grins and groans to the wrestler's tactics and otherwise amusing the fans with rare not essentially athletic.
