stitutional right of our citizens."

In other words, it might not be disastrous under Roosevelt, but WHO WILL FOLLOW ROOSEVELT?

That thought has been in the minds of millions of people since this scheme to weaken the independence of the supreme court (which is the interpreter of the constitution) was first broached.

It has been voted in this column, for example, many times.

WE live today, and have lived for more than four years, under a virtual dictatorship. Suppose we decide that it is a BENEVOLENT dictatorship.

But how do we know that the dictatorships that follow (if they do) will be benevolent?

FACING that disturbing thought, Governor Lehman is forced to put his love for his country AHEAD of his friendship for Franklin D. Roosevelt.
