Bats caused the discovery, in 1901, of the Carlsbad Caverns, in New Mexico. Seeing what they believed was smoke, cowboys investigated and found millions of bats emerging from the caverns. This can be avoided by greasing it every 5000 miles. There were 22 scheduled air lines operating in continental United States as of Aug. 1, 1936, as compared with 25 on the same date last year. The eyes of the heron are placed on the lower slope of its head, making it possible for the bird to watch for prey in the water at its feet. A clicking or grating sound sometimes indicates that the speedometer cable needs lubrication.
