SUN ACTS AS TONIC ON HAIR

"Certain rays of the sun promote the healthy growth of hair," says Joseph Hermes, hair therapist. "Therefore, if taken in moderation, sunshine will make the average woman's shining tresses even more shiny, thicker and healthier."

Mr. Hermes explains that the action of sun on the skin enables the body to make effective use of calcium, the mineral which makes bones strong, nails and hair healthy. He warns against too much sun, of course, and advises those with dry hair to use a scalp oil during and after exposure.

"The summer sun is a boon to health, but only when its rays are courted with caution. The sun's rays render three important services: heat, light and stimulation. The short rays, tapering from blue to ultra-violet, are the ones with which we are concerned when beauty discussions arise. These stimulate growth, give flowers their color, your skin its coat of golden tan and your hair its very life."

Naturally, ardent sun bathers ought to renew their attention to brushing with new vigor. Experts agree that brushing cleans the scalp, removes every trace of dandruff or dry cuticle, brings oil from the scalp to the ends of the hair and gives each strand a lovely healthy sheen.

Everyone's hair should be washed once a week. In summer-time, it may be necessary to shampoo even oftener than this. However, if you are bothered with a dry condition which brushing does not correct, stick to the weekly routine, summer or winter, and depend on dry cleaning to supplement the regular shampoos. Simply rub a handful of loose cotton across the tips of the hairbrush bristles, then brush upward and backward. When the cotton is soiled, remove it and repeat with a fresh supply.

VACATION GIVES MOTHERS CHANCE TO MAKE CHILDREN VERSATILE

Make the child versatile. If you do this, you are being a fairly godmother indeed. Most children run on a track. They go to school, know how to dry dishes or rake grass, dress themselves passably and hold a fork correctly when they eat. Perhaps they take music or dancing, and know how to skate or catch a ball. But allowing for occasional permissions to attempt the unusual, they are in general entirely green about things outside their regular orbits. It is summer and an auspicious time to show them a few things that life is made of. They will spoil a lot, mess around a bit, and try your patience, but when I say that they will remember and profit by what they do, I certainly mean it.

There's James. And there are three faucets that drip and need new washers. Let his father show him how to fix one and then let him try his hand at the others—alone.

Time Makes No Matter If you need a ditch dug and a water pipe run to the garage, the boy can do most of it, and learn by watching the plumber do the rest.

Say to James, "I want a rock garden, my dear. Dig a shallow hole, get me some big flat rocks from the creek and then look at ones you see there." Don't explain too much. Give him the job to do. It may take half the summer, but what of it.

There's Betty, all of eleven years old, who never held a needle or ran a machine. "Betty, I want you to make yourself a dress."

"Who? Me?" says the astonished child.

But go and buy three yards of print, and a very, very simple pattern. Help her cut out the dress. Give her seams to baste together and then let her run them on the machine. Let her hem the skirt and sleeves by hand, and finish the neck also. It will probably be crooked here and there, but a real dress, at that. Have her make another from the same simple pattern, still helping a little. Buy another very simple pattern, help her cut it out, and then let her alone. She can run up shorts and shirts, too, recover old pillows, and make a new spread for her bed.

Beginnings of Cookery Let Betty learn to cook. Baked with eggs and toast and baked potatoes. Show her how to fix vegetables, time their boiling and salt them. A girl of ten or twelve should be able to get a good meal.

Let both boys and girls learn how to paint furniture, or better still, how to take off old paint, then stain and wax the wood.

James can easily put a new pane of glass in the broken garage window. The store will cut it to size and sell him putty. Show him what to do. He can finish it himself very nicely.

Let them work with their hands. It is good for them. Betty should learn to iron. She should know how to fix flowers and hang an attractive table. James should know how to slack lines, and whitewash the fence or cellar.

Why? Obviously because they will be able to keep a good house some day, and to have that feeling of power and appreciation that knowledge in any line gives to life. In short, because it is good for them.

Flagship of Asiatic Fleet to Shanghai War Zone

Representative of Washington Efforts to Keep Cool

The Washington, D. C. weather hardly suits anyone in summer—except electric fan and air conditioning salesmen—so Congressmen's wives just suit themselves to the weather while their husbands swelter on Capitol Hill to wind up the legislative program. Bathing suits and long, cool drinks on the shady porch of the Shoreham Cabana Club enable Mrs. John J. Dempsey, left, New Mexico; Mrs. D. Worth Clark of Idaho, and Mrs. Harry B. New Canopy Sign Identifies Union Oil Service

Over 400 Stations on Pacific Coast Now Feature Orange & Blue Panel Which Depicts Spic-Span 'n Speedy Service

During the past two weeks motorists in Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington and Nevada have watched with interest as beautiful new panel signs have been mounted on canopies of Union Oil Service stations.

"The striking orange and blue colors of these new signs have not only beautified our stations but more readily identify our locations," said A. C. Stewart, manager of Union Oil Stations on the coast.

"Down Pacific Coast can easily identify 'Union Oil Service' and be sure of receiving the same uniform attention to their car needs wherever they see the Orange and Blue Sign."

"We have adopted the phrase 'Spic-Span 'n Speedy' as the best method of describing Union Oil Service," the oil station executive continued.

"Cleanliness and neatness of both personnel and stations goes hand in hand with courteous, alert attention wherever the new sign is displayed."

"Many of our salesmen are college graduates and all have received our special course of training in 'personalized service' before starting in the station."

"We are particularly insistent that each customer of Union Oil Service receives exactly the kind of attention he desires," Mr. Stewart continued.

"Our salesmen are trained to realize that the busy executive wants 'speedy' service when he is in a hurry and that ladies usually like to have the car completely checked. We see that the motorist who is in a hurry gets out in quick order but the car owner with time to spare will receive every attention to his car, from checking the air pressure of his tires to giving his battery a drink."

Mr. Stewart told how "76" was publicized as the leader of all gasolines through orange and blue signs up and down the Coast. He emphasized the fact that Triton Oil became a sensation overnight through the same medium augmented by newspaper advertising.

"We hope to acquaint Pacific Coast car owners with our Spic-Span 'n Speedy Service in much the same manner with the Orange and Blue Signs of Union Oil Service and a consistent newspaper campaign," the petroleum head concluded.

Quickly Made Cakes Will Save Hottest Summer Day

A quick answer turneth away a wrathful appetite. So when baking seems a chore, try one of these time-saving recipes invented by busy women on summer afternoons.

Busy Day Cake
 Three cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 3 cup softened butter or other shortening, 3 eggs, well beaten, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift three times. Add butter. Combine eggs, milk and vanilla, and add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened. Then beat vigorously 1 minute. Bake in three greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 minutes, spread luscious lemon frosting between layers and on top of cake.

Luscious Lemon Frosting
 One tablespoon grated orange rind, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar, 1 tablespoon water, dash of salt. Add orange rind to butter; cream well. Add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Combine lemon juice and water; add to creamed mixture, alternately with remaining sugar, until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add salt. Cover top of cake.

Shoes and Feet Are At Foot of Comfort

Generally speaking, the woman who exercises her feet, keeps them immaculately clean and wears properly fitted shoes and stockings will have few, if any, foot ailments.

Authorities agree that the majority of corns, callouses and bunions are caused by shoes which do not fit and that a large percentage of arch and instep pains would not exist if the patient would walk more and do a few simple foot exercises now and then.

Do not buy shoes with heels which are too high for you. The fact that your neighbor is comfortable in spike heels is no sign you will be. There is a certain height which is comfortable for each individual, and the sooner
