north of here. Blacktail not only are smaller but less numerous, according to reports from woodsmen.

Superintendent B. G. Cortwright of the Klamath Indian reservation telephoned The Herald and News Monday afternoon, stating that there apparently is widespread ignorance among hunters of the law against whites hunting on the reservation.

Charged with "spotlighting" deer in the Greensprings country, Mike and Frank Ladouceur were arrested by state police and taken into justice court Monday.

They pleaded guilty. Each was fined $100 and guns, flashlights and a spotlight were confiscated.

held. Lack of a quorum required abandonment of the meeting. The mayor said that the new plan "makes things look a lot better."

Believed Acceptable
G. S. Paxson, bridge engineer, wrote the letter, which came from the office of State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldock.

When the undercrossing plan was recently disclosed by the highway department, it provided a long cut and retaining wall blocking off several important streets.

As an alternative, there was talk of a possible over crossing at Oak street, approximately on the site of the Southern Pacific depot.

were filed against Jesse Colman Tittle at 1:17 a. m. Sunday following an automobile crash at the intersection of Main street and Riverside avenue, according to police reports.

Glady E. Ervin was the operator of the other machine involved, and she reported to police that Tittle's car skidded to the wrong side of the highway, hitting her automobile head-on.

Two Receive Cuts
Ted Roberts and Peggy Roberts, occupants of the Ervin car, received cuts about the head and face and on their legs. Both machines were damaged.

Tittle pleaded not guilty to the drunken driving count in police court Monday morning and posted $50 cash bail and his automobile in lieu of an additional amount.

Hearing has been tentatively set for Wednesday, September 22, according to Police Judge Otto Langelet.

Runs Over Pig
South Sixth street was the scene of a number of weekend accidents. Drivers of cars involved in such mishaps, according to reports to the sheriff, included Jack Hoppa and D. E. Hunt, Edgar Kelley and Justin Anderson.

Lee Scrogin reported that his car struck a pig in the road near Main. The pig, property of Tom O'Keefe, sustained a broken leg.

Paul T. Jones and C. Dalla Bona were drivers of cars in a mishap on The Dalles-California highway north.

Democratic senators who led the fight to defeat the project to pack the supreme court.

Republicans who support the form of government we have known in the past find themselves in close kinship with these Democrats.

SO FAR, this realignment is concerned principally with the leaders. As knowledge and conviction spread, the realignment that is already taking place among the leaders will begin to extend downward into the rank and file.

The old party lines, as our fathers knew them, are GONE.
