October I ushered in a new stream year for the Klamath dis-trict, and a light, misty rain which fell steadily during the day started to pile up precipitation for the season.

In the 1937 season, a total of 121,549 visitors went in by The Dalles-California highway enwind and dust, and so full of dust was the air that the first rain drops were virtually mud dobs.

The storm brought five or six inches of snow at Crater lake, according to telephone reports, and it was still snowing hard early Friday afternoon.
