She stated that problems in this community call for a carefully worked out and supervised program, such as no other county in the state, except Multnomah, has developed.

The Pomona grange through Master Alva Lewis filed a letter with the court giving figures on the salaries of juvenile officers in other counties and claiming that a salary of $200 for the Klamath officer is "out of line."

The letter stated that the grange does not mean to criticize Miss McCarter "who comes to us very highly recommended."

APPLICATIONS FOR TULELAKE LAND LAGGING

Although the deadline for filing on 69 Tulelake tracts opening for homesteads is October 25, less than two weeks away, applications are coming in very slowly, according to an announcement from the local bureau of reclamation.

Only 250 applications have been received to date, while more than 2000 requests for information and applications were received at the office.

It is expected, however, that the bulk of applications virtually all of which will be made by war veterans, will be filed during the last week. All applications received by 5 p. m., October 25, will be considered as having been filed simultaneously.

It will take more than two months after the closing date to make homestead awards, according to members of the board which will make the decisions.

As soon as references are checked, however, applicants will be called in for personal interviews with the board. This will take more than a month, and then the board will have to grade applicants and give final ratings before awards will be made.

It is expected that announcements of awards will be made about January 1.

SCIENTISTS TRACE GERMS WITH DYES

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—A pair of medical pathfinders from Portland, Ore., described to the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology how, with the aid of blue dye and cats they traced for the first time the path of dread sinus germs to the lungs of afflicted patients.

Dr. Ralph A. Fenton read a report prepared jointly with Dr. Olof Larzell, his research colleague at the University of Oregon, following ten years of study. Their work was financed for the past six years by the academy.

The blue dye, used as an indicator, was filtered through the lymph glands of the experimental cats but reached the lungs from the frontal and maxillary sinuses within a few hours. The dye, and later actual streptococci used without the dye, was found loaded "all through" the small blood vessels of the lungs.

The germs, Dr. Fenton said, eventually reached the liver and spleen where they were filtered out of the body.

"A sinus sufferer," he said, "may not even have a sore throat, but the infection may already have spread to his lungs. A serious inflammation is caused occasionally."

"And as it moves through the glands, those seemingly rheumatic pains in the neck indicate filtration of the streptococci as they move toward the lungs."

SEVEN THREE-C VACANCIES LEFT

G. N. PURCHASES SIX NEW COACHES

Delivery of six ultra modern first class passenger coaches to the Great Northern railway was announced Thursday by company officials.

Half of an approximately $600,000 order for new passenger equipment, the coaches already are in the service on the system's transcontinental Empire Builder.

Six additional coaches are scheduled for delivery October 15 and will be placed in immediate service between Chicago, the Twin Cities and Seattle.

The Great Northern's new coaches incorporate last-minute developments in railway passenger equipment design and construction. Mechanically air-conditioned, the coaches seat fewer passengers than the older type cars, providing more leg room and aisle space. The new coaches seat 58 passengers as compared with 78 in cars of earlier design.

Warren Cronon, stenographer in the local offices of the Great Northern, left Tuesday for Detroit and St. Paul, where he will enjoy a fortnight's vacation visit.

L. Wunder, Great Northern fireman, left Thursday for a brief business trip to Leavenworth, Wash.
