

RAYBURN GIVES SERMON ON SIN AT TABERNACLE

A big audience Wednesday night, although perhaps not so large as that of the night before, listened to what was termed "the greatest indictment of sin ever heard in Klamath Falls," as delivered by Dr. James Rayburn, evangelist of the tabernacle mission.

Preceding the sermon it was announced that Dr. Rayburn would speak Friday evening on "A Fatal Blunder." Parents are asked to send their children from the third to the sixth grades to the tabernacle to swell the junior choir, which meets daily at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Those having orchestral instruments were also asked to be present Friday evening.

The prayer meetings throughout the city and surrounding vicinity are growing in number and power. Some 142 were present Thursday morning in the various groups, with 126 taking part in praying. Everyone is asked to attend some one of these group meetings which are held daily from 10 to 10:30 a. m. Tickets are now available from the various pastors for the men's and boys' meeting to be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30, when Dr. Rayburn speaks on "Manhood." This is said to be one of the strongest sermons of the evangelist. Admission will be by ticket only.

Dr. Rayburn took as his text Wednesday night "All Unrighteousness is Sin." He said in part: "I have to speak on the most unpopular subject any man can preach on. Yet if a man is to preach the word of God, he must preach on it. There are only two subjects in the Bible, sin and its cure, sin and redemption, sin and what are we going to do about it, sin and the doing away with it. If a man is going to preach the book, he must preach about sin."

"All unrighteousness is sin. John defines any and all forms of unrighteousness as sin. There are many words for sin in the Bible. One in the old Hebrew means 'missing the mark.' It is for a son or daughter to miss the mark of their mother's prayers, their father's hopes. It is to miss the mark of manhood. There are only two classes of sin, positive and negative."

"First, I would deal with the positive sins. There are sins of transgression. Transgression means to step over the line, to trespass. Such sins as lying, stealing, slandering are sins of transgression."

"The Bible lists many of these. Covetousness is one that brought disaster to Israel and that brings disaster to individuals and to churches, one of the most reprobat sins of the Bible. Then there is envy, the besetting sin of musicians. It is the besetting sin of ministers also, and of many of us. Then there is the sin of hatred. Hatred stirreth up strife. And Paul lists anger, wrath, bitterness. Are you guilty of sins of transgression?"

"Then we would notice the sins of omission. Some of the most grievous sins are sins of omission. Those that are staying away from the tabernacle are committing this sin. They are not coming to the help of the Lord against the mighty. Ingratitude is such a sin, a deadly sin. The one day when the whole American nation is called to praise and thank God is given up to football games and feasting, and God is forgotten. Unfaithfulness is another sin of omission. The one guilty of it embroils time and talent. Are you guilty of grave negative sin?"

"How general is sin? There are regions where there are no deadly diseases, no smallpox or typhoid or leprosy or infantile paralysis, but there is no place where sin is not found, no climate where sin will not flourish. There is no altitude, high or low, where humanity lives that it will not live. No race so vigorous, no individual soul so robust as to be immune from sin's deadly contagion. God's word and human experience agree, "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

"John says, 'If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves.' One thing is sure, we don't deceive anyone else. If we say we have not sinned, we make Him a liar and His word is not in us."

"We have all kinds of classification of sinners, clean sinners, dirty sinners, literate sinners and illiterate sinners, rich and poor sinners, high and low sinners."

"But God has only two classes of sinners, saved sinners and unsaved sinners. 'In the devil's merry-go-round are all kinds of sins, repulsive sins, adultery, lasciviousness, idolatry.' Anything that takes God's place is idolatry. Anything that you give your whole attention to is your idol. 'Witchcraft.' Right in the same list with all the rest is this sin. There is some of it right in this tabernacle tonight. All forms of superstition come under this head. And so the list goes on. Of all of these the Bible says, 'they that do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.'"

"Sin is reproductive. It develops sin. It is like an infection. A sinner develops in sin to degeneracy. 'Even as I have seen, they that plow iniquity and sow wickedness reap the same.'"

"Sin blinds the sinner. 'His own iniquities shall take the wicked himself and he shall be hidden with the cords of sin.' Sinful habits become strong cords. Swearing grows on one. Lying blinds one. And so it is for all sins."

"Sin hurts the sinner. 'He that sinneth against Me wrongeth his own soul.' Sin is always an injury. It hurts reputation. It hurts credit. It hurts a man here and damns a man hereafter."

"Sin separates from God. Sin is incurable. We are powerless to rid ourselves of sin. 'Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?' Sin is fatal. It kills. 'But, thank God, there is a cure provided. There is a fountain opened in the house of David for sin and uncleanness.' 'Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins.' It is in Jesus and in Him alone, we find the cure."

"If angels care about the lost, isn't it about time we cared?"

"One reason why salvation doesn't mean anything these days is because damnation has ceased to mean anything."

"The church of Jesus Christ needs to get back to put some emphasis on the tremendous curse of sin."

"She was so homely you'd wonder how she could sleep nights. When she testified, she always broke down and cried. Her theology was fine, but her psychology was terrible."

"That's the trouble with America. She has lost the sense of spiritual values."

ALTAMONT

ALTAMONT.—The Altamont grange will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening at 8 p. m. The third and fourth degrees will be given to all candidates who haven't taken them. Later in the evening a kid party will be part of the entertainment with everyone bringing a basket of school lunch for the refreshments.

All grange members are welcome to attend. Mrs. O. A. Clark left for Portland, where she was called by the death of her father, who had been ill for sometime in a Portland hospital.

Buddy Tompkins had a tonsil operation Monday and is reported to be getting along nicely and has returned to school.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Peterson have purchased the Presly Thomas place on Third street.

The Altamont Home Economics club is meeting at the home of Grace Goodrick in Fairacres Friday, October 22. All women members of the grange are urged to attend. Work will be done on the quilt that the club is making. Anyone not having a way and wishing to go is asked to call 321W1.

AGENTS TO STUDY 1938 AAA PROGRAM

A series of district meetings designed to give county association leaders and county agents a thorough understanding of the 1938 agricultural conservation program so that they in turn may pass this information on to the farmers of the state has been arranged for the last two weeks in October, announces F. L. Ballard, vice-director of the Oregon extension service, which is in charge of educational work in connection with the program.

Each of these meetings will be of two days' duration. State officials who will attend each meeting to lead the discussion of the new program are N. E. Dodd, Haines, chairman of the state committee; P. M. Brandt, head of the division of animal industries at Oregon State college, and N. C. Donaldson, secretary of the state committee.

As soon as this series of meetings is completed, a series of one day meetings will be scheduled in each county in Oregon for all county and community committees, with those who attended the first series acting as instructors. These will be held during the first two weeks in November. Actual dates have not been set, but will be announced soon.

The third step in this educational campaign in connection with the 1938 program will be the holding of a meeting in each county in which farmers planning to take part in the program will participate and elect committeemen for the year. These will probably come the last two weeks in November, according to present plans.

Klamath county will meet with Deschutes, Crook, Jefferson and Lake counties on October 25 and 26 at Redmond.

WATER HELD BAD FOR HEADACHES

CORVALLIS.—That the "water balance" in a person's body may be the key to prevention of migraine or nervous sick headache is the theory advanced by Frank Thompson, graduate student in chemistry at Oregon State college, who recently reported his experiments and conclusions on this subject to the Oregon section of the American Chemical Society at its meeting in Portland.

When informed about eight years ago that this malady, from which he suffered frequently, and which, incidentally, afflicted from one to two per cent of the population, was incurable, Thompson began using his earlier scientific training in an effort to find out something about it for himself. His study of his own case and those of a number of others has finally convinced him that the secret of prevention of these headaches lies in keeping the intake of water or liquid at a minimum.

He recommends that persons subject to such headaches stay on the borderline of thirst at all times, and that if they feel an attack coming on wrap themselves in blankets in the warmest possible spot and sweat it out.

High School News Notes and Comment

By HEINZ DIETSCHKE

If someone from the student body criticizes KUH's, we can take it and grin, but if an outsider has the nerve to tell us that we lack school spirit that's an entirely different matter.

According to the Recreation Notes in yesterday's paper a good place for the Klamath student body would be in the portable bleachers on the other side of the field. "They would be visible to all—we can't hear 'em anyway."

Unfortunately, however, we resent the idea of having to sit with a Medford congregation at Friday's game or giving up our own territory snugly, the covered stands, for that matter. In reality what the writer heard when he claimed that the townspeople shouted the "high school pep section" was the echo of the rooks who have a tendency to wag their tongues a little more slowly than their older, more yell-experienced brothers.

When Phyllis Collier found herself in distress at the end of a long line waiting to get into the Pine Tree theatre it took all her feminine ingenuity to talk Clark Weaver into giving her a place ahead of him. Incidentally Miss Collier's pleasing words and manner had previously failed to move the hard heart of a certain rowdy.

NEWSPAPERS MAY BE "PIPED" INTO HOMES OF FUTURE

SACRAMENTO Cal., Oct. 21 (UP).—"Min, get up and turn on the newspaper."

This may be heard in American homes in the near future if plans of the McClatchy newspaper group of California are fulfilled. The newspapers today announced plans to install 100 machines in as many homes in Sacramento and Fresno for transmission of news facsimiles.

While the occupants are sleeping the machines will be bringing news and advertisements for family perusal.

Similar experiments are being arranged in the middle-west and east by other newspapers.

McClatchy manager, G. C. Hamilton, said applications have been filed with the federal communications commission for permits to inaugurate the service. The machines will operate from midnight until 6 a. m. giving complete coverage of spot news and advertisements.

The news will be transmitted on a two column width roll to start, and later be increased, as the technique is developed, until American homes may receive a veritable complete newspaper.

Hamilton said that the new service was intended as a supplement to the evening newspaper, not as a replacement of it.

"The service is designed to be a supplement for use of evening newspapers," he said. "It will permit evening papers to provide service to their subscribers between publications."

"It will give the subscriber in permanent form what otherwise would have to be in the form of a memorandum if they took it from the radio, such as temperatures, and wished to retain it."

"It also will be used to promote the newspaper, present headline news and other such material."

It was at this point that he said that he has "no thought of eventual elimination of newspapers."

The service involves special handling of news pictures, advertisements, typefaces, makeup, and writing, both of stories and headlines. The reproductions in the homes will be facsimile. Consequently much experiment is necessary.

COLLEGE ENGINEER NATIONAL OFFICER

CORVALLIS.—S. H. Graf, director of engineering research and head of the department of mechanical engineering at O. S. C., has been elected president of the National Council of Engineering examiners, of which he has been a member for the past 11 years. He was vice-president of the national body last year.

Graf is also a member of the Oregon board of engineering examiners, and has been a member of the Oregon State college faculty for 20 years. In addition, he has served in a consulting capacity for such organizations as Portland Gas & Coke company, the state highway commission and others.

The National Council of State Boards of Engineering examiners is composed of member boards of 25 states having registration laws covering the practice of professional engineering, and is said to be the largest engineering group in the world. It has more than 50,000 licensed members.

MOORE WEARIES OF STAGE ACTING

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (UP).

Victor Moore—remember Vice President Throthbottom in "Of These 1 Sing?"—reported today that he is through with the stage.

For 30 years he's trod the boards, he said, and lived in hotel bedrooms and ridden in day coaches and he's tired of it. From now on he'll stay in Hollywood, so long as Hollywood will have him, and go to bed every night in his own bed and plant flowers in his back yard and otherwise do the things which were denied him so long.

Victor, who is plump and jolly and as funny in the movies as he ever was behind the footlights, is playing now in R-K-O's "She's Got That Swing."

"And it is fine," he said upon the stage where he was waiting comfortably for his call. "I get to work every morning at nine and I go home for dinner and I don't have to work at night."

"I never knew that a pair of house slippers could be such fun. And as for going to sleep at night, boy, it's great. Why, I frequently go to bed at seven o'clock, just for the satisfaction of it; me who never used to get into the hay before two A. M. if he then."

Twenty years ago, he said, he was in Hollywood and made a couple of pictures, directed by Cecil B. DeMille, who was just another struggling young movie man then. Two decades ago the films looked not so hot to Victor, so he returned to the stage, playing in stock, in vaudeville, and in musical comedy.

He reached the top with his characterization of Vice President
