Park Releases Rock for Army Airport Work

The city park board, in session Tuesday afternoon, granted permission to US army engineers to use rock from the city owned quarry at Moore park for airport purposes and that the city be paid a minimum of 10 cents per yard. It was ordered the army engineers include in the stipulation that the contractor may use from the quarry under certain conditions.

In discussing present work at the park it was suggested no new projects be started until the old ones are finished. Brush was ordered cleared away from the lake front in order to give a better view, but that the larger trees remain.

The city engineer was authorized to proceed toward the construction of a warehouse to house Klamath relics until such time as they can be properly exhibited.

Trees from the national park service will be obtained through Mr. Brooks of Tulelake following an offer made by the service. It was decided by park board officials, these forest trees to be planted as soon as possible.

On motion of O. D. Matthews, permission was given Mrs. F. O. Small to mark all flowers and shrubbery in Moore park.

It was agreed that everyone interested should be given an opportunity to submit bids on the "stand" in the park during the summer months, bids to be received at the April meeting of the board.

E. E. Spencer, Moore park caretaker, told the board he could not obtain a siren to use at closing time in the park for less than $60, and it was suggested that he obtain a large steel triangle. An electric whistle was also discussed but no action taken.

Try, Try Again Not So Hot for Youthful Pair

VANCOUVER, Wash., Mar. 6 (UP)—Persistence is a great virtue but not recommended by Robert M. Dobbins, 18, and a young friend who were in jail Wednesday because they possessed it in copious quantities.

Officers said that the pair stole a truck from the Marchant's delivery service and drove off. They got as far as the Portland-Columbia airport when it had a flat tire. Unable to change it, they walked back to Vancouver.

Then they stole another truck from the same lot, police said. They had to push it two blocks when it failed to start. Giving it up, they went back to the lot and got still a third truck.

While they paused at truck No. 2 to get equipment to drive to Portland in truck No. 3 to change the flat on truck No. 1 police caught them. Officers said they admitted the thefts.

Ceiling Falls, But Kids Gone

PENDLETON, Ore., March 6 (UP)—A portion of the ceiling of the Pendleton Junior high school cafeteria crashed down Tuesday shortly after 70 children had left the room.

The plaster and heavy steel mesh lath left deep gashes on tables and chairs. Engineers were unable to give any explanation of the collapse of the square of plaster 20 by 80 feet.

Companies Want Full Amount for Fallen Bridge

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 6 (UP)—Insurance companies holding policies on the collapsed Tacoma Narrows bridge Wednesday filed with the Washington toll bridge authority a demand for an appraisal to determine the "actual amount of damage."

The authority had filed a claim of complete loss — $5,300,000, but the companies maintained all damage could be fully repaired at a cost "not exceeding $1,800,000."

The filing was accompanied by a statement that: "The insurance companies have not at any time indicated they are not willing to pay the actual amount of damage when determined."
