

SENATE BEATS AID TO BRITAIN AMENDMENTS

"meaningless" but proponents contended the amendment would make it clear the bill was not authorizing the sending of troops to Europe or the conveying of war shipments by the navy.

Further delaying a vote on the administration-sponsored Ellender amendment, Senator Norris (Ind-Rep.) arose to propose a substitute for it.

Written out in longhand on a scrap of paper, the amendment was as follows:

"Nothing in this act shall be construed as authorizing the president, without the consent of congress, to send armed forces of the United States to fight on foreign soil."

Convoys Change

The chamber first defeated, 63 to 28, a proposal to forbid the conveying of war materials shipped out of this hemisphere. It then rejected an amendment by Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) to prohibit the use of future appropriations for the maintenance of military forces outside the western hemisphere or in combat areas fixed by President Roosevelt.

The Johnson amendment, supported by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) and other opponents of the bill, was defeated by a vote of 56 to 35.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) offered the first amendment.

Senator Johnson said "the whole question," presented by his amendment was "whether you want to send boys to Europe." Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic leader, disagreed sharply.

Rejection of the two restrictive amendments led Barkley to forecast final passage of the measure by tomorrow night.

With a night session already planned for this evening, Barkley told reporters he would call another for tomorrow night if that were necessary to dispose of pending amendments and bring a roll call on passage.

Senator Nye (R-N. D.), an opposition leader, declared, however, that it would be impossible to obtain a final vote before next week.

Seattle Has First Real U. S. Blackout from McChord field, army air base south of here, and civilians in commercial ships flew overhead.

Beneath them, they reported, not a light was visible in the entire Metropolitan area.

Most popular spot in the city was a ballroom which had advertised a "blackout dance," 15 minutes of waltzing without light, while the band played "Dancing in the Dark."

Coast guardsmen cruised along the waterfront, where no light was visible.

Thousands thronged the downtown business district, and liquor stores and beer taverns experienced a brisk "pre-blackout" trade. Crowds were orderly, although in carnival mood.

Conciliation of the Rutland railroad dispute was effected by a special mediation board named by President Roosevelt. The railroad workers had been disturbed by scheduled pay cuts. The mediation board reported an agreement satisfactory to both sides had been worked out.

Settlement of a steel strike at Orange, Texas, which had delayed work on naval destroyers was announced last night, although terms of the agreement between the Consolidated Steel corporation and its employees were withheld. The walkout of 247 men last Saturday was reported to have involved wages and working conditions.

Meanwhile CIO employees at the Edgewater, N. J., plant of the Aluminum Company of America balloted on whether to authorize union officials to call a strike for wage adjustments.

NAZIS POISED FOR DRIVE ON GREECE AREA

gested to Prince Regent Paul and other Yugoslav leaders the non-aggression pact as the only alternative to Yugoslavia's adherence to the German-Italo-Japanese alliance in the same manner as Rumania and Bulgaria.

The Belgrade government submitted to the accord with Germany over the strong protests of opposition parties, including Serbian nationalists, who sent resolutions to Prince Paul complaining of the course of the nation's foreign policy.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Mar. 7 (AP)—A visit by Regent Prince Paul to Adolf Hitler's fateful Berchtesgaden conference table was disclosed today and the Yugoslav government — under mounting diplomatic pressure from both Britain and the axis — was expected momentarily to proclaim closer friendship with Germany and Italy, but also to reaffirm its strict neutrality.

With a statement clarifying Yugoslavia's position anticipated within 24 hours, it was learned authoritatively that Prince Paul went to Berchtesgaden last Monday, returning to Belgrade Thursday.

Informed quarters said the Yugoslav statement would explain the government's attitude "in the light of the new situation" arising from the occupation of axis-aligned Bulgaria, Yugoslav's next door neighbor.

Developments on other Balkan fronts indicated that the spread of war in southeastern Europe might be only a matter of hours. Greece bolstered fortifications in the Struma river valley in Macedonia while the Germans commandeered every available means of transport to rush troops to the Bulgarian frontier facing Greece.

It appeared that the Greeks, reiterating their determination to fight any German invasion, intended to abandon Thrace as indefensible and attempt to make a stand against the threatened should not be considered in distribution of old age pensions. The fair trade bill would have permitted district attorneys to bring suits against stores selling articles below cost. The measure, supported by independent stores and opposed by chains, was the same as the Washington State fair trade law.

Under Oregon's existing law, stores must bring suit individually. The defeated bill would have permitted associations of independents to bring suits.

Debate Limit
The house took the first steps toward ending the session today — 54th day of the session — by limiting each member to five minutes of discussion on any measure. The senate has been enforcing a three-minute rule for 10 days.

A resolution will be introduced Saturday or Monday calling for adjournment next Wednesday, although leaders said they expected to finish up next Thursday or Friday.

The two per cent retail sales tax, providing tokens and to be referred to the people, will be on tomorrow's house calendar.

The house defeated 44 to 13 a motion to send back to committee a bill to give the state liquor commission the authority to regulate drinking in clubs. The measure was passed last session, was referred to the people and then defeated.

The present club bill, on today's calendar, has an emergency clause so it would take effect immediately, the clause precluding the possibility of a referendum being filed against the bill.

The house action will be on a senate amendment removing Benton county from the proposed district.

RHODES TRIAL STARTS FRIDAY

day, when he talked to Rhodes in the county jail.

Photographer
Wesley Guderian, The Herald and News photographer, took the witness stand to testify that he had taken pictures of the wreck on November 11. Three pictures, which the court accepted as Exhibits B, C and D, were three shots he had taken of the wrecked car and truck, Guderian said.

He explained to the jury the positions of the vehicles and pointed out their positions on the road.

Rhodes took the stand and little by little his story unfolded. He said he noticed a car about 200 feet ahead of his truck which was either parked or moving very slowly. As he attempted to pass the car, it suddenly picked up speed, he testified, and the Johnson car came swiftly over the crest of a hill. He could not avoid the crash, he said.

One of the State police officers testified he found a pint whiskey bottle on the floor in front of the seat in the Johnson car. He said the bottle was less than half full of liquor.

Several other witnesses testified in the afternoon session. Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg recessed the court until 9:30 Saturday morning.

PRESIDENT HAS PLAN FOR NEW LABOR AGENCY of a general situation that is under study, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, but he admitted he did not know exactly what might be done about them.

The proposal to set up a new labor board in Washington, he said, would not require legislation.

The chief executive emphasized that the board would not be superimposed over the office of production management, but would be a separate agency.

He said it would look ahead toward longer range policy, and even to the distribution of plant facilities, so that it could consider an unwarranted concentration of labor at any one point after the current emergency is over.
