

BLY SENIOR PLAY HELD SUCCESSFUL

BLY—"A signal success," was the consensus on the play "Here Comes the Prince," presented at Bly gym Saturday, April 12, by the senior class. The cast, which had been changed at least five times because of illness, outdid itself in portraying characters realistically. Both leads dropped out last week and were filled by Freddy Kobler and Pearl Bowers.

Other members of the cast were Bob Krog, Hank Hall, Frank Meiser, Marycile McMillan, Lyle Weaver, Bonita Gooch, Martha Givan, Lenore McMillan and Rosemary Hannigan. Lorraine Richardson and Russell McLeod were forced to abandon leading roles on account of illness.

The stage was made attractive by recently acquired stage furniture and beautiful draperies; spring flowers also were featured.

Between acts, Dale Smith and Ray Harris played trumpet duets and Delmar Mabee presented violin solos, accompanied by Mrs. Archie Strong.

Those who were further responsible for the success of the play were G. N. Elliott, senior sponsor; Mrs. Helen Hoffman, director; Ben Poole and Dale Smith, stage managers; Paula Blanton and Shirley Harris, posters; Jimmie St. John, publicity; Bill Alcorn and Cecil Nicholson, ushers; Bonita Gooch, who had charge of ticket sales and Mrs. Frank Obenchain, who assisted in the make-up.

The proceeds will be used for the purchase of the traditional senior gift to the school.

'Pastor of the Pines' at Fort Rock for Easter Day

By LOIS M. SMALL
SILVER LAKE—Fort Rock people celebrated Easter with an all-day meeting Sunday in which all northern Lake county communities took part. A sunrise service in which 35 persons participated at the foot of Fort Rock began the day, followed by noon services in the guild hall and a basket dinner served to 82 persons.

Services were conducted by the Rev. George H. Redden, Presbyterian missionary, who covers a district of central and eastern Oregon comprising 42,000 square miles. Dr. Redden is a modern incarnation of the old-time circuit rider, who pioneered this state. The circuit rider's plodding nag has been exchanged for a well-worn car that takes him on regular visits to 29 logging camps and many lonely ranches and small communities that otherwise would be without any church services. "Pastor of the Pines and the Desert," he is called by the hundreds who look forward eagerly to his cheery calls.

son were in Klamath Falls Sunday.

Ivan Trapp was a visitor here Monday morning.

Carol Stebbins returned to school Monday after being absent a few days due to illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Short will leave soon for Richardson Springs, Calif., where Mr. Short hopes to get relief from rheumatism.

Rowe Kinny and Frank K. Benard of Olen were business callers here Sunday.

Pansy Kinney has been confined to her home the past few days with the measles.

Alton Short has a spud crew at work in his cellar at this writing.

Sprague River

SPRAGUE RIVER—School attendance here has increased 40 per cent over that of 1940, according to Roland Parks, principal. There are 162 students enrolled for 1941, while in 1940 there were 113.

Although the maximum attendance has been around 170 there is the yearly slump due to winter employment closing and children dropping out of school. Sprague River is the only major school in the county having no school buses. The entire school population is from the town and several farms nearby.

With a large incoming first grade and only one senior graduate it is estimated that around 200 pupils will be in attendance next year. Superintendent Peterson is now working on plans to provide facilities for the increase. At present space is at a great premium as the building was constructed for around 100 pupils.

Optimism is the core of his valiant spirit. "Faith," he says, "was the seed from which grew every great discovery, every marvelous invention, every step of progress the world has made."

"In our present turbulent times," he said, "we should have faith in our president; stand behind him. Believe in democracy and be willing to sacrifice for it."

In Dr. Redden's scattered flock are 2200 children, each of whom he remembers at Christmas with a small gift. This is made possible by generous contributions of the businessmen of Bend, where he makes his home between tours. Through donations of his Bend friends he is able to buy a motion picture camera, screen and projector for use in his work.

With Mrs. Redden he plans to attend a national convention of his church in Boston next month. His greatest present need is a new car, which he has faith he is going to receive from the mission board which supports his work.

camp and a large influx of workers. Farming in this region is very much on the upgrade and it is believed that a few more years of rural growth will necessitate bus service for the school children

Easter Morning Services Held At Bly, Beatty

BLY—Rev. Bert Bradshaw, who supplies the pulpit at both Bly and Beatty, reports very successful Easter services at both places. At 5 a. m. over 100 worshippers gathered on the hill-top above the Indian cemetery at Beatty. After a short address by Rev. Bradshaw, the crowd joined in singing songs of praise as the sun rose over the hills. After the worship service, breakfast of ham, eggs and coffee were prepared over bonfires. Following this, everyone enjoyed an Easter egg hunt. The crowd adjourned about 8 o'clock.

At 10:30, the services at Bly community church opened with a prelude played by Mrs. Archie Strong. The professional "Holy, Holy, Holy," was sung as the choir entered and proceeded to their places in the loft.

The invocation was followed by congregational singing. Each class in Sunday school then presented their part of the program. Mrs. Earl Cooper presented the beginners in an Easter exercise. Mrs. Inez Harris' primary class rendered two appropriate songs. A duet by Bonita Gooch and Pearl Bowers, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," was enjoyed. Reading and songs by other children were interspersed throughout the morning service. Mrs. Earl Cooper and Mrs. Jim Dixon sang a duet; the choir sang two anthems. Rev. Bradshaw spoke briefly after which several local people were baptized and children christened. At the occasion of the birthday offering, Mrs. Etta Vennen Hartman, teacher of the adult Bible class, was presented with a sewing basket heaped with cards and gifts.

Bly

Mrs. Warren Osborne entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Roush, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hoffman.

Bly Community church is getting a new coat of paint. Joe Harris is doing the work.

The young Oregonians who appeared in a variety show at the high school gym on Thursday, April 10, were well received by a large group of school children and patrons. The demand for housing is becoming acute at Bly as more and more families move in for work in the lumber industry. Ethel Lien, Florence Trapp and Louise Swemelaar spent the weekend in Klamath Falls and vicinity.

Several early fishermen reported nice catches on Sunday. Home economics girls realized enough from their candy sale at the senior play to pay their way to the conference at Merrill next Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Abbott and Betty motored to Beswick, Calif., where they visited Major and Mrs. Spencer, parents of Mrs. Abbott, over the Easter weekend.

Buck Alcorn spent the weekend in Bly and enjoyed the senior play in the high school. FTA executive meeting met at the high school Thursday evening to discuss plans for the remainder of the year.

Miss June Harrison of Missouri is spending some time with their brother Jack Harrison and family at Beatty.

A. T. Hoffman was recipient of a new car delivered last week by Ray Morris of Klamath Falls.
