OREGON VIEWS EXTRA SESSION OVER DEFENSE

SALEM, April 24 (AP)—There is a strong possibility that the Oregon legislature will hold a special session within the next year to consider defense legislation, Speaker of the House Robert S. Farrell Jr., said today after returning from a vacation trip to Washington, D. C.

"If the country gets much closer to war," Farrell said, "Oregon probably would have to adopt defense legislation in order to cooperate with the federal government. Several congressional leaders said they believed a special session of the Oregon legislature, as well as legislatures of other states, would be necessary."

The next regular session will be in January, 1945.

Farrell said the 16-member industrial development committee, authorized by the recent legislature, might have a report ready within the next year. The committee will study methods of attracting new industries to Oregon, and will attempt to learn whether Oregon taxes have influenced some industries in going to Washington state.

"If the committee has a good program that would result in new industries locating in Oregon," Farrell said, "the logical thing to do would be to hold a special session to adopt the committee's recommendations. Then we could start as soon as possible on our campaign to get new industries."

President of the Senate Dean H. Walker and Farrell were busy today working on interim committees, including the industrial development committee. Personnel of these committees will be announced in a few days.

Britons Grumble at Recent Setbacks in Balkan Area
By HARRY L. PERCY
United Press Correspondent
LONDON, Thursday, April 24 (UP)—Newspapers and the people of Britain generally today were grumbling at British setbacks in the Balkans and Greece. Increasingly vigorous demands were being made for a clear explanation from the government.

King George VI and Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill had a long conference in Buckingham palace yesterday as the capital heard reports the British expeditionary force in Greece might try to escape to Crete and other islands of the Aegean sea.

The position of the government, however, did not appear to be one of imminent peril since Churchill indicated in commons Tuesday he would make a statement about the situation as soon as it had been clarified by more complete reports from the men in charge.

With opposition definitely developing in parliament it was believed the prime minister would hold his own, at least for a time, against attacks by such veteran campaigners as David Lloyd George, liberal; former War Minister Leslie Hore Bell, liberal national; Emmanuel Shinwell, laborite, and the Earl of Winterton, conservative.

All these statesmen were believed whetting their knives for the prime minister but it was not believed their opposition would assume dangerous proportions for at least a month, unless new disasters hit the nation.

As for the people generally they were beginning to realize the forces of the empire probably will be compelled to quit Greece sooner than expected because of the collapse of the Greek northern army.

And the news came as a shock, followed by noticeable anger.

STOP FOREST FIRES WEEK PLANS MADE

"Stop Forest Fires Week" will start in Klamath county May 5, it was announced Thursday by Angus Newton, commander of the American Legion post. He stated that Walter Wiesendanger will again be chairman of the committee in charge of this campaign.

Newton said he plans to attend a meeting Monday in Portland, called by Governor Sprague for the purpose of discussion of national defense as it affects forests and forest fire protection.

The Klamath post, which started the Stop Forest Fires campaign, has watched the movement to grow into national recognition among American Legionnaires, Newton pointed out.

"Klamath is justly proud of having been the starting point for this program," said Newton. "It has been growing every year. This year, more than ever, there is a need for public concern over the forest fire menace. The forests are a national defense resource and it follows that their protection is a matter of national defense interest."

SENIORS TO DANCE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

On Friday, April 25 the students and faculty of the Interstate Business college are sponsoring a dance for the seniors of the Klamath county high schools and surrounding communities at the ball room of the Willard hotel. All the seniors and former students of Interstate Business college have been mailed invitations which they will be required to show at the door. An invitation will admit a senior and a friend.

The management of the college believes that this dance will give the seniors of the Klamath basin an opportunity to become acquainted, and at the same time afford them an evening of pleasant entertainment. The dance will become an annual affair if the seniors this year show sufficient interest. It is to be a "hey! hey! dance" with calico dresses and cords or overalls the rule, and the most appropriately dressed girl will be crowned the "Calico Queen" by Mayor Houston. Emil Buzaid's five-piece orchestra will furnish the music.

If any senior in the basin or former student of the college, did not receive an invitation, he may call at the college for one.

Champion Named in Crochet Test

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24 (UP)—Relentless drive and a technique polished by 30 years of practice carried Mrs. Peter Barta to victory in Portland's first major league crocheting contest Saturday.

She won the title of "Lady Nimble-Fingers," and a $25 prize, by crocheting a total of 81 scallops in the allotted time to 75 by Barbara Dracanovich, her nearest rival.

A field of 109 women and one male, Albert Schubach, competed. Not one of the women in the contest uttered a sound but Schubach put his feet on a chair and chatted freely, he finished far down in the field, with 52 scallops.

LEGION WORKS FOR ARMY ENLISTMENT

An "all-out" campaign in cooperation with Oregon's "To-the-Colors" committee for the purpose of promoting enlistments for the regular army in Oregon was announced here today by Angus W. Newton, commander of the Klamath Falls American Legion post No. 8. The local recruiting program is to be a part of the state-wide campaign put on by various civic organizations to assist the army recruiting service.

Legion organizations throughout the state of Oregon are participating in the campaign. Newton said, with the burden of the effort resting upon the various national defense committees. Principal phase of American Legion activity will be to report the names of all prospective eligible applicants for enlistment in the regular army to personnel of the regular recruiting service.

The movement has strong backing from department headquarters of the Legion in Portland, with a recent communication.
