

UNIONS CARRY ELECTIONS AT WEYERHAEUSER

Unionism won a triple victory at the Weyerhaeuser Timber company in national labor relations board elections held Wednesday and Thursday, it was revealed Friday by Robert Davies, NLRB field representative who conducted the polls.

Weyerhaeuser trainmen and machinists all voted heavily for affiliation with two railroad brotherhoods and the AFL Machinists' union.

Of the three ballots staged, the timber firm's 12 eligible trainmen voted unanimously for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Out of 22 eligible firemen and engineers 21 voted for the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers. The other did not vote.

The International Association of Machinists (AFL) was the victor, when out of 106 eligible Weyerhaeuser machinists, 76 voted in favor of affiliation, 18 against, and 12 failed to cast their ballots.

The election was the first of a series of labor board polls scheduled for the basin in the next week. Monday and Tuesday polls will be held at the Algoma Lumber company mill and woods in which the CIO, AFL and "no-union" are the principals. On Wednesday and Thursday Chiloquin Lumber company employees will vote either for or against the International Woodworkers of America (CIO) as their bargaining agent.

Use Substitutes for Aluminum, Defense Metal, Housewives Urged

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Service Staff Writer

BETWEEN kitchen utensils, and the president's recent statement, "We cannot escape our collective responsibility," there is a close tie-up. Housewives who assume their share of "collective responsibility" by learning to use substitutes for aluminum ware are cooperating in national defense by helping to conserve aluminum for army and navy needs.

Harriet Elliott, consumer commissioner of national defense advisory commission, explains this in housewife terms "The imposition of priorities on aluminum is a measure to facilitate defense production. Consumers can help conserve the nation's existing supply of aluminum through the use of other readily available materials and thus avoid harmful price increases in existing stocks of household aluminum goods." Miss Elliott says:

MANY SUBSTITUTES
The consumer division and the Bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture report that there are highly satisfactory cooking utensils made out of materials not affected by the defense program. Such substitutes include enamel ware, flame-proof and heat-proof glass, cast iron, and earthenware. Since aluminum ware is most desirable for cooking directly over heat, consumers having a supply of such utensils are urged to refrain from buying more than their essential needs. By this cooperation, other consumers would not be deprived of a necessary minimum supply, Miss Elliott said.

SUGGESTS RESTRICTIONS
Miss Elliott points out that manufacturers can help meet essential consumer needs of aluminum by restricting its use in unimportant items such as ornamental products.

Cooking in flame-proof and heat-resistant glass and in earthenware produces excellent results. Almost all famous chefs use earthenware casseroles and small cooking dishes when possible, and throughout the nation.

Jury in Horse Case Fails in All-Night Study

An all-night grind was ended at 3:45 a. m. Friday for the circuit court jury of 11 men and one woman who heard the trial of the case of William Brown versus Gilbert Fleet, involving $100 alleged damages to a horse. The jury deadlocked through the night.

The jurors went out at 9:20 p. m. Thursday, after telling Judge David R. Vandenberg they preferred to finish up that night. When the jury sought to report a deadlock a few hours later, Judge Vandenberg advised it to return to the jury room and attempt to reach a verdict.

Finally, the judge came down just before 6 a. m. and the jury reported it was hopelessly "hung." The judge then dismissed the sleepy-eyed jurors.

The suit involved an accident in which a motor vehicle driven by Fleet hit a horse on the Weed highway. Brown sued for $673 for loss of the use of the horse, $100 for damages to the horse and $50 veterinarian's fee.

The judge instructed the jurors they could bring in a verdict for no more than $100, or the alleged difference in value of the horse before and after the accident.

U. S. Balentine represented Brown and William Kuykendall represented Fleet.

Members of the all-night jury were Adolph Cacka, John Giacomini, Clyde Griffith, P. D. Reeder, John A. Jones, Charles Balin, Melvin Nelson, Louie Pastega, Joseph Zumpfe, Lawrence Bertram, Vera Donelson and John Anderson.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, April 25 (AP-USA)—New business in the Boston market for wools was somewhat slower today than earlier in the week. Scattered transactions were being closed on moderate quantities of a few kinds of wools. Average combing length fine Australian wools were bringing $1.00-1.02, scoured basis, including duty. Fine combing South American wools were selling at $0.98-1.02, scoured basis, including duty. Quotations were unchanged on fine territory original bag wools, but sales were slow.

U. S. Discovered Use of Dive Bombers, Says Major

The employment of stukas, or dive bombers, which have proved to be so destructive to fighting men and their morale, is not, as many persons suppose, entirely the result of military experiments in Europe.

"All military men who have followed the development of aviation, are familiar with this fact," Major James H. Hardie, recruiting officer for the corps at 208 U. S. court house, Portland, said Friday.

During the World War planes frequently swooped low over the trenches to fire scattering bursts of machine-gun fire on enemy troops, but such sporadic forays were by no means a regular form of attack.

It was post-war experiments in our own country which proved that airplane could be used as a devastating blitzkrieg weapon. Dive bombing is said to have first been tried at Kelly field, Texas, but was abandoned because it was thought that planes were too exposed to fire from ground troops.

Some years later while marine corps pilots were engaged in experimental dive bombing at their west coast base at San Diego,

Woman Slightly Hurt in Collision

Mrs. Ruby Maphet, 20, Sprague River, suffered minor hurts when she was thrown from the car operated by her husband, Alma Maphet, 26, which collided at the intersection of Elm and Commercial streets with a second machine driven by County Judge U. E. Reeder.

Both cars were damaged considerably.
