

KLAMATH-LAKE ENDEAVORERS CLAIM HONORS

Klamath-Lake Christian Endeavor union was awarded the Paul Brown achievement cup most coveted of Oregon Christian Endeavor honors, at the final session of the state convention here Sunday.

It was the third successive year that the Klamath-Lake Endeavorers have carried off the Brown trophy. Outstanding work in entertaining the state convention was factor in the triumph this year, it was indicated.

The Philadelphia cup, given for the best entry in the annual parade, went to the Marion union. Local Endeavorers do not compete in the parade contest.

Endeavorers from all parts of the state began homeward trips Sunday evening and Monday morning, following a busy three days at what was declared to be one of the most successful state conventions in the Oregon union's 51 years of existence.

It was reported that 495 outsiders were assigned to housing through the central housing committee, while about 100 others made their own arrangements or stayed with friends. Altogether, registration totaled about 1200.

An event of Sunday was installation of state officers, in charge of Mrs. Reba Rickman of California, international society lookout and extension superintendent.

Worship and decision services occurred at the final day's sessions. Dr. Luther Stein, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Glendale, Calif., conducted the decision ceremonies in the afternoon at the high school auditorium. Young people throughout the audience arose to signify steps they have taken in personal Christian life and Endeavor work.

Next year's convention goes to Eugene. The Lane county seat competed with Klamath for the 1941 convention, and when Klamath won it was generally agreed Eugene could have the 1942 meet if it wanted it. The Eugene delegates served notice they wanted it.

BRITISH TOWN GETS BOMBING

that the damage spread over a considerable area.

LONDON, April 28 (UP)—Royal Air Force bombers slashed out at German shipping and coastal points today in widespread attacks which were believed to have disabled a Nazi destroyer, sunk two supply ships and blasted docks, industrial installations and airdromes in Germany, Holland and France.

The air ministry admitted the loss of five bombers and one fighter plane in the bold daylight raids.

Most costly of the raids to the RAF was a daring attack by five Bristol Blenheim bombers on two German destroyers escorting supply ships off the Dutch coast. Four of the British bombers were shot down.

BRITAIN TALKS AMERICAN AID

break any political pledge.

The Daily Herald called for "the mood of the weeks after Dunkerque—a mood in which, by a united feat of organization, sacrifice and energy, historic miracles were performed."

The vitally-important battle of the Atlantic has entered upon "a far more favorable phase" for Britain because of the United States' decision to patrol the waters of the western hemisphere, Prime Minister Churchill declared in a Sunday broadcast to the empire and America.

"When I said ten weeks ago 'Give us the tools and we will finish the job' I meant give them to us, put them within our reach," Churchill asserted, "and that is what it now seems Americans are going to do and that is why I feel a very strong conviction that though the battle of the Atlantic will be long and hard and its issue by no means yet determined it has entered upon a more grim but at the same time more favorable phase."

Although expressing confidence in ultimate victory, the prime minister, in a 30-minute war review, told his listeners "We must now expect the war in the Mediterranean, on the sea, in the desert and above all in the air to become very fierce, varied and widespread."

"The war may spread to Spain and Morocco. It may spread eastwards to Turkey and Russia. The Germans may lay their hands for a time upon wheat lands of the Ukraine and oil wells of the Caucasus."

SOUTH'S MINE OPERATORS TO RESUME WORK

ing them of Gaines' telegram to the president.

The White House announcement said:

"The president, shortly after 11 o'clock tonight, received a telegram signed L. Ebersole Gaines, chairman southern coal operators wage conference, advising him that 'the 13 southern districts which have not yet negotiated a wage agreement accept your proposal without equivocation' and adding 'we are ready to resume work immediately.'"

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, testified to a special senate defense investigating committee today that "northern financial operators who figuratively call themselves southerners" were committing "a great economic outrage upon the south" by opposing a new wage agreement under which soft coal mines in the Appalachian area would reopen.

Lewis said a wage agreement had been reached with 70 per cent of the mine operators but 30 per cent in the southern area had refused to eliminate a north-south wage differential.

Representatives of the northern and southern operators explained their positions to the committee, which also was told by Edward F. McGrady, special war department labor consultant, that a continuation of the soft coal deadlock would put the entire national defense effort in grave jeopardy.

From Baltimore, meanwhile, came word that differences which led to the walkout of 27 employees at the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant, engaged in manufacture of bombers for the United States and Great Britain, had apparently been ironed out.

BERLIN SAYS BRITISH FLEET TO BE BEATEN

Africa, but Cairo reported that the thrust across the Egyptian frontier from Libya had been stalled after an advance of five or six miles.

British imperial forces captured Dessie, crushing the last major center of Italian resistance in Ethiopia and leaving only a few pockets in east Africa. Perhaps the most significant aspect of the victory was that it promised the early release of thousands of battle-hardened British troops for service against the Germans and Italians in north Africa.

Vichy reported that British armored forces and Free French were invading French Somaliland in east Africa, but the French defense forces were remaining at their posts. The attacks south and southwest of Djibouti were reported aimed at the Addis Ababa railroad and at Djibouti.

The royal air force carried out widespread attacks against German shipping and coastal points. Its bombs were said in London to have disabled a German destroyer, sunk two supply ships and blasted docks, industrial installations and airdromes in Germany, Holland and France. The British admittedly lost five bombers and one fighter.

LONDON, April 28 (UP)—A final rear guard stand by small numbers of British imperial and Greek troops in southern Greece was believed still under way tonight to cover the withdrawal of the British expeditionary force to Crete and North Africa.

Little news of the gigantic task of evacuation has been received, but the Australian government announced that so far it had been carried out successfully.

It was accepted that the Balkan campaign was ended, except for the gallant protective stand by a small force, and that the Germans could be faced successfully only in Crete, where the British navy could support the allied land and air forces.

Britons drew some consolation from reports indicating that German losses had been vastly higher than British losses.

Since the British force to be removed from Greece was far smaller than that involved at Dunkerque last summer, it was possible to deploy it thinly along the coast to avoid creating mass targets for the German planes. But there was little British air-plane protection for the withdrawing troops.

Witness in Bridges Case May Face Contempt Charge

eral writers project, or that Craig was a communist.

O'Neil denied he joined the communist party in December, 1936, and said: "I never have been a member of the communist party and I never at any time attended communist meetings."

He denied a statement that through association with Craig he met "a long list of men who belonged to the communist party, including William Schneiderman, Elmer Hanoff, Henry Schmidt, and Germaine Bulcke."

During the questioning, O'Neil said to Del Guercio:

"You have in one part of the statement that I saw Bridges pasting communist stamps, and another where Bridges has never said he was a member of the communist party. That's silly."

Council Finds No Nuisance In Muskrats

operation, and the council turned to other things.

Fishing

Fishing from the Fremont bridge may be stopped. Councilman Cantrall asked that the council look into the matter, inasmuch as it is felt fishermen on the bridge may be a traffic accident hazard. No immediate action was taken.

Frank Snyder reported to the council that the Pelican baseball team is showing much promise. He said that the baseball group expects to keep careful control of crowds and traffic at the Recreation park, so that there will be no nuisance for property holders there.

Recreation Officer David Bridge said that the Mills school grounds is to be used for parking of cars by baseball and softball fans, and that they are not to use Adams and Owens streets. The construction of sanitary facilities at the park is now underway, he stated.

No Oil Money

The council refused a request that it help pay for oiling a street in the Oregon avenue district, pointing out there is no money available for that purpose.

"I hope we can get some money eventually to do work of this kind," said Mayor Houston. "It should come through giving the city a fair share of the state gas tax."

The council granted a two-day license for showing a live gorilla here.

A car wrecking permit was given Art Lundgren and Sons for a South Sixth street establishment with the understanding they will construct fences to close off unsightly spots in accordance with city ordinances.

Because of the coming airport construction, the council decided not now to renew the Standard Oil lease at the airport, but rather to deal with the company on a month to month basis.

Further action was taken looking to purchase of airport land for the upcoming expansion program.

Malaya Threatened With Invasion, Reports General

possibility of United States naval intervention might prove a deterrent to any action by sea, adding:

"However, the most recent indications of United States intervention in both the Atlantic and Pacific might prompt Japan to act more quickly."

Agreeing that Japanese policy seemed to follow a course parallel to that of the axis progress in Europe, Bond said the Balkan situation might presage a new Japanese move to the south.

He spoke of reports that the Japanese press had renewed attacks on Indo-China, demanding a more sincere attitude toward Japan.

However, he said the Russian-Japanese agreement did not seem to assume much significance.

"Russia had a non-aggression pact with Finland, you remember," he observed.

Concluding the interview with an expression of confidence that the imperial forces would be able to defend the entire Malay peninsula, Bond said he was leaving soon to take up an appointment in the United Kingdom.

His successor, Maj. Gen. A. E. Percival, who was posted here some years ago, has not yet arrived.
