Brief Comment

NOT many years ago the bridges over the main canal were narrow and shaky. Eleventh street came to dead ends at either side of the big ditch.

The passage under the railroad on Esplanade street was narrow and the center support was unprotected, and Main street crossed the tracks at grade.

Then the people voted money, the old bridges were replaced, a fine new span was built on Eleventh street, the Esplanade underpass was widened, and a tunnel was bored under the tracks on Main.

All of this work constituted removal of traffic hazards. Much other construction of one kind or another has been carried on here to the same end. Many projects of the future will have that objective.

But despite all of this, there has been no appreciable decrease in traffic accident tolls. The element of human carelessness continues its devastating work. It alone is largely responsible for death, injury and destruction on streets and highways.

It begins to look as if we will get those traffic signals sooner than was expected.

Gratifying was the news from Portland that the highway commission had found an acceptable bid for installation of the system. Previously, every bid had been rejected as too high.

Now the question arises as to the possible effects of the defense program on delivery of materials for the lights. But latest reports are that this obstacle may not be as serious as had been feared.

It looks at last like go for the stop and go signal system.

S. V. Hall, western operations manager for United Airlines, was in the city this week and expressed the hope that there will be early action on United's application for operations into Klamath Falls. Approval of the application, and construction of runways on the airport in connection with the CAA program, will mean the institution of air service into Klamath Falls by one of the big lines of the country.

It will be welcome here, particularly if it improves our airmail service. With the institution of the afternoon bus service to Medford, air mail out of Klamath Falls has been vastly improved. But the incoming service is still bad, and regular airline service into the city should improve the whole situation immeasurably.

Klamath's industrial and business development justify first class airmail service.

School elections come up in June and there may be more than the customary interest in the positions to be open.

That is all right. There should be lively interest in school affairs.

Elsewhere In Oregon

TROUTDALE, May 9 (P)—Members of the Troutdale Rod and Gun club consumed more than 300 pounds of salmon at their annual banquet here Tuesday night. Approximately 250 persons attended.

GRESHAM, May 9 (P)—The vanguard of an anticipated 200 families of migratory workers, 20 families, reached the federal farm security administration mobile farm labor camp here yesterday. Strawberry picking will start next week.

TILLAMOOK, May 9 (P)—The boiler room was destroyed and part of the conveyor system burned by a fire starting early yesterday in the Simmons Creek shingle mill six miles south of here. The cause was not determined.

NETARTS, May 9 (P)—The Netarts Community club will apply $88 cleared from a recent seafood dinner on the purchase of a lot where a clubhouse will be erected.

PORTLAND, May 9 (P)—Night delivery of milk was ruled out in a new contract granted Portland's 500 union deliverymen yesterday. They won monthly wage increases of $17.50 and a week's vacation with pay. The boost increased the wage scale from $135 to $152.50 per month.

GRANTS PASS, May 9 (P)—National Hospital day will be observed here next Monday by opening the county hospital to visitors. Superintendent J. E. Moore said today. Physicians will treat their patients at the hospital instead of at their offices and between calls will act as guides.

AMITY, May 9 (P)—Stockholders in the Amity Cooperative Warehouse association voted here today on dissolution of the business. Officials said the firm had insufficient capital to continue operations, purchase necessary equipment and pay outstanding indebtedness.

was admitted to the bar in 1881, coming to Pendleton, Ore., in the same year.

Justice Bean was elected Pendleton city attorney in 1882 and city recorder in 1885. He also served a term in the legislature in 1889.

He was appointed supreme court clerk in Pendleton in 1895, holding the position for a year. Justice Bean also served as district attorney for Umatilla county for two terms, and was Umatilla county judge from 1904 to 1906.

During his residence in Pendleton, he was in law partnership with James A. Fee, John W. Lawrey and Stephen A. Lowell.

Justice Bean served as circuit judge for the sixth judicial district from 1906 to 1910, when he was elected to the state supreme court. His continuous service on the supreme bench began on Jan. 1, 1911. His present court term began four years ago and expires in January, 1943.

Justice Bean's successor, who will finish out his term, will be appointed by Governor Charles A. Sprague.

Justice Bean was married June 8, 1886 to Mattie E. Magahey of Pendleton, who died here in February, 1939. Two children, Mrs. Harold J. Larsen of Beaverton, and Hawley J. Bean, Echo (Umatilla county) attorney, survive.

He was a member of the Masonic and Knights of Pythias lodges, and was a life-long republican.

SALEM, Ore., May 9 (UP)—The body of Justice Henry J. Bean of the Oregon state supreme court, who died here last night from an intestinal disorder, was to be sent to Pendleton tonight for burial Saturday.

Funeral services for the justice will be held there at 3:30 today that the United States had attached the funds of I. G. Farbenindustrie, which he described as "probably the most powerful single factor in German influence on American industry," because of its failure to appear in response to an indictment under the Sherman anti-trust law.

Jackson said at a press conference that Farbenindustrie had refused to appear in court on the ground that it was not doing business in the United States and was not subject to American law as a corporation.

The funds attached are in the National City Bank of New York, the attorney general said. He explained that the action was taken today because it was learned that payments to the German company under licenses issued to American corporations totaling about $250,000 were to be made today and that the action was taken "when we could get it."

p. m. Saturday, in accordance with his own wishes. Chief Justice Kelly and Justices Rand, Bailey and Lusk of the supreme court will attend the funeral.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 9

More and more members of congress are becoming resigned to war. Deeply significant was the house defeat of an amendment which would have forbidden Mr. Roosevelt to give the seized axis ships to Britain. The margin on the first vote was 161 to 131. Thus, negatively, the house approved such an unneutral and belligerent act.

A declaration of war today might not pass by such a margin, but the fatalistic progress of events in that direction is evident. This vote clearly showed how far the house has gone since lease-lend.

TAX TALK

The treasury tried hard to prevent Leon Henderson, the price cudegler, from talking out openly against its tax program. A meeting of treasury officials and Henderson was held the night before he was to appear before the house ways and means committee.

The price fixer, however, was adamant and finally two or three treasury officials came around in favor of letting him speak his piece.

As a matter of fact, certain congressmen are also beginning to wonder whether the official propagandists in behalf of the bill has been wise. The measure was sold as a bitter pill the country must swallow like a man. But its severity in cutting business profits in a time of increasing wages and price restraints could take the heart out of defense production which is the vital necessity upon which our security rests. You cannot make a voluntary economic system work without profits.

The money must be raised but some changes may be made in the ways of doing it.

SPENDER
 No one is following up seriously Mr. Morgenthau's hint that a billion dollars could be saved by economizing. At Mr. Henderson's elbow while he testified was the man whose presence may explain why. He is head of Henderson's economic division, Richard Gilbert, a product of the old Harvard school of spenders. Their theory is that spending should continue until full production and employment are reached.

COYNES WANES
 Senator Pepper's demand for a declaration of national emergency was preceded by a brief talk along the same lines 24 hours earlier from Representative Clyde Ellis of Arkansas. Both worked closely with downtown new dealers.

A meeting of executive officials at the White House two weeks ago came to the contrary Rose Brockman, 19, Klamath Falls, native of Oregon.

RAY V. CONSTABLE DIES IN MEDFORD

Ray V. Constable, for the past 14 years a resident of Klamath Falls, died suddenly in Medford Thursday morning at 5 a. m. at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Claudia Scripps. Mrs. Constable was with her husband at the time of his passing.

Mr. Constable came to this city from Prineville, Ore., and first operated a drug store on East Main street. Eight years ago he moved into the downtown business district and for several years has conducted a drug store in the Elk hotel block.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Georgia Constable of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Claudia Scripps of Medford and Mrs. Hester Wright of The Dalles, and one son, Clayton, of Bend. Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the Conger Funeral home, Medford, at 2 p. m. Saturday. Friends are invited.

WIDOW OF INDIAN WAR VETERAN DIES

Emma Jackson Hoehes, Klamath reservation resident who died Wednesday, was a widow of Albert Jackson, a Modoc Indian war veteran.

Jackson fought in the United States cavalry on the side of the government troops in the Modoc war of 1872-73.

Mrs. Hoehes was a life-long resident of the reservation. She was about 90 years old when she died. Funeral services will be held at the Hill cemetery at 2 p. m. Sunday with Ward's in charge.
