

BRITISH FUND REACHES GOAL IN LOCAL UNIT

The Klamath Falls unit, Bundles for Britain, has reached the goal set for raising more than $1000 and at a meeting called May 12, it was decided to close the rooms for the summer months or until some other major activity is undertaken.

Money derived from various benefit affairs and from generous donations of Klamath county residents, will be sent where it is most urgently needed. At first it was decided to purchase a mobile kitchen, but in the meantime word from England discouraged this plan inasmuch as all shipping space is sorely needed for arms, munitions and planes.

Those who care to continue knitting for Bundles for Britain may obtain yarn from the following women, Mrs. Peter A. Albertson, Mrs. Charles G. Hovey, Mrs. Guy Hancock or Mrs. W. O. Smith. Knit articles will be sent to Portland as usual. It is hoped by those in charge of the Bundles for Britain offices here, that those who are interested in relief work will cooperate with the Red Cross.

The Bundles for Britain organization wishes to thank all those who so generously assisted in making the goal possible, the women of Malin, Tulelake and Merrill, women who gave and entertained to make the chain luncheons a success, those who gave cash donations, rooms, furniture, light, heat, clothing, printing, publicity, and those who helped to make the golf exhibit a success.

Local Bundles for Britain workers have made it possible to ship 128 knit articles to England, and the following articles have been ordered and sold, 22 knitting bags, 26 compact, 26 cigarette cases, 10 lapel buttons, 10 emblem pins, 18 cross flag pins, 36 double decks of playing cards and 10 lipsticks.

Over 1500 pounds of used clothing has been forwarded to England by the local unit, this includes clothing which was donated from Malin. Ticket sales for the exhibition golf match totaled $185.50.

Truck Hits Cow On Lakeview Road

Don Stansell, bakery salesman, reported to the motor vehicle office that his truck struck a cow Friday at 6:15 a. m. eight miles east of Klamath Falls on the Lakeview highway. He said he was traveling east at a speed of 10 miles an hour at the time of the impact, and that the cow jumped in front of the truck from a borrow pit at the roadside.

Anna Blakely, 2434 Pershing way, reported that her car rolled over Tuesday on the Worden road. She said she applied the brakes as she approached a bridge and that the sudden decrease of speed caused the car to swerve and turn over, landing on its wheels. Damage to the car was estimated at $250.

The Tragedy That Was Greece

Her stoic face symbolic of the tragedy that now overshadows the glory of Greece, an aged woman sits beside the ruins of her home in Piraeus, Greek port battered by axis bombers. Beside her is a young boy, possibly her grandson, a hint of the hope that Greece will rise again.

Interesting Stories About Klamath Animals and Efforts in Their Behalf

By Ida Momyer Odell.

YOU AND YOUR DOG

The possession of a dog brings great pleasure to the dog lover. It also brings responsibilities, and duties. It is the duty of every dog lover and owner to intelligently inform himself of the care of his pet. If your pet shows signs of illness, call your veterinarian. Don't dose it with suggested remedies from kindly but unprofessional neighbors. If you suspect your dog of having worms, don't prescribe your own treatment. Remember there are various kinds of worms and only your pet's physician can tell you the proper remedy.

Dr. Raymond J. Garbutt, chief veterinarian, American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has published an interesting booklet entitled "Your Dog and His Care." We quote a few paragraphs from this.

"The Dog's Coat." The care of the dog's coat is of extreme importance and the condition will indicate the condition of the animal's health. In some diseases the hair becomes dry and lacking in gloss and even falls out. There are three kinds of coats, the long haired type such as the Chow; the smooth short-haired types, such as the Boston Terrier, and the wirehaired type, such as the Airedale, or Scotch Terrier. Long haired dogs, like the Chow and Collie, have in addition to the outer coat, a thicker under coating. Setters have but one long outer coat which is soft and glistening.

The short-haired coat is composed of straight short hair. When in good condition it has a fine sheen. It is the easiest type of coat for which to care. Its shedding process takes care of itself. The coat does not require clipping. Wire-haired coats are composed of short hairs of hard, coarse texture. Dogs with these coats are never clipped but always plucked, that is, the dead hairs are removed. This process tends to beautify the coat and helps improve the metabolic processes of the skin itself.

Long-haired dogs must have their coats combed and brushed frequently to prevent matting. An ordinary brush is satisfactory. The hair should always be brushed against the grain and then smoothed out. A little oil applied to the hair by means of the brush or a cloth gives it an excellent sheen. Wire-haired coats require a strong comb and a heavy brush for proper care. As the name implies, this type of coat should be wiry. No oils should be used and too frequent washing should be avoided.

Bathing the Dog

Dr. Garbutt advises against a bath for the puppy before he is 3 months old and then every care should be taken that he does not catch cold. The dislike many dogs have for water can be traced to careless handling in the first bath. The first bath should be given with great consideration for the nerves of the dog. Place him in a tub or other receptacle, gradually wet his back and paws with warm water, then his neck and head. Rub liquid soap or cake soap well into the hair, massaging thoroughly to loosen dirt, dandruff and scabs. Rinse off the soap with clear warm water gradually adding cold until the final rinsing is cold. The average dog should be bathed once a month in winter and twice a month in summer. Light colored and white dogs should have more frequent baths. A little coconut oil, applied to the skin, serves to overcome excessive dryness.

Interesting paragraphs on care of your pet's teeth, his nails, his food and manners are taken up in this pamphlet which can be had for the asking at either the animal shelter or at the office of the secretary, 116 North Eighth street.

Frank Howard, county engineer, added to his collection of old signs this week when he found one on the Klamath river road, on the California line, that had been placed there 25 years ago by M. P. Evans of the Sunset grocery when he made a Sunday jaunt to that region with a party of friends.

The wording on the weathered sign, barely legible, read: "California—Oregon, 32 miles to Sunset Grocery at Klamath Falls." Howard found a broken corner of the sign on the ground nearby, pieced it together and placed it in a frame. It is on display in the window at the Sunset for a few days.
