Famous Wild Animal Expert To Bring Chimpanzees Here

Reuben Castang and "Grandma," 28-year-old performing chimpanzee.

The famous Castang chimpanzees will appear with the Polack Brothers Circus and thrill show here next week, it was announced Wednesday. The circus is sponsored by the Klamath Falls 20-30 club for the benefit of its milk fund.

Reuben Castang, trainer of the chimpanzees, is one of the world's most eminent living authorities on wild animals. His biography, entitled "Wild Animal Man" written by R. W. Thompson, has been published both in England and the United States.

He is also the subject of a sketch in a handbook used by high school students in this country, called "Champions" and published by Harcourt Brace.

The son of a London animal importer, Castang was apprenticed as a youth to Carl Hagenbeck, the famous zoologist, in Hamburg, Germany. The first animals he trained were a herd of goats. Since then he has trained many different species of wild and domestic animals, including a group of polar bears which he broke as beasts of burden at the behest of Amundsen, the polar explorer.

The bears were never used by Amundsen but the experiment was considered a success.

Castang lost all his animals while interned in Germany during the first World war and went to Africa to hunt more, becoming a close student of animal psychology and communication. He originally came to America some forty years ago and has encircled the globe several times since.

During the St. Louis World's fair in 1904 he had a mixed group of trained wild animals on "The Pike," and at one time presented 12 elephants in a single act on the New York Hippodrome stage.

In 1939, Castang and his chimpanzees were featured in Frank Buck's "Jungleland" at the New York World's fair.

SUMMER SESSIONS TO OPEN JUNE 9

PORTLAND, Ore., May 24 (Special)—An increase over last summer, when 65 teachers and students from Klamath county enrolled, is expected in 1941 summer sessions of the University of Oregon at Eugene, Oregon State college at Corvallis, the colleges of education at Ashland, Monmouth and La Grande, and the centralized session for all the institutions in Portland. This is announced by Dr. V. V. Caldwell, director of summer sessions for the state system.

The 1941 sessions of the three state colleges of education will begin June 9, with second sessions beginning July 21. The session of the University of Oregon, the Portland session, and the Marine biology camp at Coos Bay will begin June 16. The Oregon State college session opens June 23, and on that date in Portland the summer school for writers for a two weeks period.

The colleges of education offer summer training for elementary teachers. The state college session features modern preparation in science, secretarial training, vocational education, agriculture, home economics and industrial arts.

The summer school athletic coaching will be held this year at Corvallis.

The university summer school emphasizes training in the fields of art, business administration, education, English, language, history, sociology, economics, psychology and other social sciences, music and physical education.

King Appointed to Succeed Brand

SALEM, May 21 (AP)—Governor Sprague appointed Dal. M. King, Myrtle Point, yesterday as second judicial district circuit judge, succeeding James T. Brand.

Judge Brand, recently named to the state supreme court, is expected to resign the circuit court position later this week. He will replace the late Henry J. Bean on the supreme court. King, who was born near Myrtle Point in 1893, is a graduate of the University of Oregon. He was a second lieutenant in the U. S. army's air service from 1917 to 1919. He is a republican.
