

THE HEALTH OF YOUNG WOMEN

One of Them Helped by Mrs. Pinkham

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—I am sixteen years old and am troubled with my monthly sickness. It is very irregular, occurring only once in two or three months, and also very painful. I also suffer with cramps and once in a while pain strikes me in the heart and I have drowsy headaches. If there is anything you can do for me, I will gladly follow your advice.

—Miss MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 31, 1898.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—After receiving your letter I began the use of your remedies, taking both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am now regular every month and suffer no pain. Your medicine is the best that any suffering girl can take. —Miss MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 6, 1899.

Nervous and Dizzy Dear Mrs. Pinkham—I wish to express my thanks to you for the great benefit I have received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered constantly from terrible sideache, had chills, was nervous and dizzy. I had tried different kinds of medicine but they all failed entirely. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and three of Blood Purifier I am all right. I cannot thank you enough for what your remedies have done for me. —Miss MATILDA JENSEN, Box 14, Ogdenburg, Wis., June 10, 1899.

Elevation Desirable. Lady (with high hat)—I beg your pardon, but I forgot my opera glass. Would you kindly lend me yours just a moment?

Tyrant Man (in the seat behind)—Very sorry, madam, but I need it to sit on.—N. Y. Weekly.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. The problem of Indian education seems to be solved by the Indians themselves. In the territory the Chickasaws have five colleges and the Creeks have 10. The Choctaws have no colleges, but have 160 common schools in which the higher branches are taught. The expenses of educating the Indians are borne by the federal government.

The oldest story in the world probably is the one told by the boys when they return from hunting; that they killed a duck, but that they couldn't find it.

MINES AND MINING.

Men With New Ideas Needed to Prospect Eastern Oregon Mineral Fields.

James Duckworth, one of the original locators of the E. and E. mine, in Cracker creek district, near Sumpter, Oregon, and one of the best informed men in the camp, says that what this country needs is a thorough prospecting by men with new ideas. The old timers always look for a certain kind of float, and are particular about the formation. Now hardly a week passes without some find being made on hillsides that have been run over for years by the old timers and pronounced worthless.

Mr. Duckworth visited a property at the foot of the mountain on the Sumpter-Granite wagon road, and found Ben Yeager and his partner, Montana mining men, working on a 200-foot ledge that he has been over many times and considered worthless. Development shows that the ledge is filled with strata of quartz of a bluish appearance, and all of it pans gold. A number of assays have been made, giving $3 to $13. The ledge can be traced for over two miles, from one side of the mountain to the other, and it prospects throughout. At present a 35-foot shaft is being sunk, from which a cross cut will be run to determine if the values go down. If favorable results shall be obtained, machinery will be secured and a shaft sunk 300 to 400 feet. There is such a large body of ore that, with present values, $3 to $4 per ton, the property is another Treadwell. Facilities for mining and milling are excellent. At the head of Bull Run creek, running alongside of this ledge, in early days there was placer mining. There was little wash gravel in the creek bed, and the diggings frequently dipped to the hillside, where no gravel was found, but rich dirt. At that time it was wondered where the gold came from, and no one ever thought the big dike was guilty, but this recent discovery is almost proof positive that the placer gold came from the dike.

A MOUNTAIN OF QUARTZ.

Remarkable Formation in the Blue River District.

The Blue River, Oregon, district is rapidly forging to the front, and is now enjoying an era of activity but little dreamed of a year or two ago. Extensive development work is being done, and almost without exception claims are proving valuable. The stability of the district has been conclusively proved, and as a result prospectors have flocked in here this spring by the hundreds. Mining capital has been attracted, and one mill is in successful operation and several more are in course of construction. New discoveries are being made in almost every direction, most notable among which are the discoveries on the Calapooia and McKenzie rivers, which show extremely rich ore, and the immense mountain of quartz four miles up the river. This mountain of quartz is a remarkable formation, and is probably unparalleled in mining discoveries. The mountain is 1,270 feet high, and appears to be nearly all quartz. At the top several cliffs of solid quartz project for a hundred feet or more above the surface, while veins of ore crop out in all directions. The ore assays from $3.50 to $12 per ton.

The Lucky Boy mine has been compelled to shut down five stamps, owing to shortage of water, since the dry season set in. The remaining five stamps are kept going day and night. The company has the machinery for a sawmill on the ground, and as soon as it can be set up, lumber will be sawed and a flume constructed which will furnish plenty of water for operating all of the stamps.

James & Co. have the foundation laid for a sawmill at the Blue river bridge, and already have a number of logs ready to saw. The machinery for the mill is expected to arrive in a short time. The mill will be situated at the new Blue River city townsite, and is intended to supply the local market. It will be operated by steam power, and will have a capacity of 10,000 feet per day.

Stamped to Stewart River. The steamer Danube, which recently arrived at Victoria, B. C., brings news of a rich strike on the headwaters of Stewart river, 400 miles from Dawson. A stampede is on, boats going up in a continuous string. At White Horse a whiskey famine prevails. Saloons are licensed, but cannot get permits to bring in liquor. The police are watching the boundary for smugglers, and have made many seizures.

Northwest Notes. A cold storage warehouse is in course of construction at Troy, Idaho. A hay warehouse, 32x70 feet, 16 feet high is being built at Palouse, Wash.

King county is said to furnish one-fourth the inmates of the Walla Walla penitentiary.

Walla Walla boasts of shipping 50 carloads of fruit and vegetables the past two weeks.

Apple scab is reported among the trees in the vicinity of Moscow, Idaho, especially in the American Ridge district.

Deer are reported to be plentiful in Coos county this season. They are frequently seen in bands of seven or eight.

Washington railroads are following a rule that no packages weighing more than 250 pounds will be accepted or checked as baggage.

Deposits in Walla Walla's banks reach $1,400,000; in the Spokane banks $5,000,000. Other Eastern Washington centers are similarly well supplied with money.

THE MIDSUMMER TRADE.

Improvement of Tone, Rather Than of Demand.

Bradstreet's says: While trade is still only of mid-summer volume, the beginnings of improvement in demands are apparently becoming visible. The improvement is still one of tone, rather than of demand, but with a yield of 540,000 bushels of wheat, a next to record breaking yield of corn, and a very large proportion of oats, the Western crop situation contains many encouraging features. The Southern cotton crop has undoubtedly suffered, and conditions are unprecedentedly low for this season of the year, but the acreage planted was a large one, and prices are so much higher that a satisfactory financial return is confidently looked for.

The effort of the big iron and steel concerns to control prices, if really made, has proven abortive, and another wholesale slashing of quotations is to be reported this week.

The industrial situation is rather better as a result of agreements upon wages by a number of iron and steel manufacturing concerns and their employes.

Lower prices for lumber are apparently inducing more activity in building, though how much is due to this or how much to the settlement of labor disturbances is hard to measure.

Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 2,829,910 bushels, against 3,018,832 bushels last week.

Business failures in the United States number 221 as compared with 146 last week.

Business failures in the Dominion of Canada number 22 as compared with 25 last week.

"A Manifest Destiny," by Julia Magruder, will appeal especially to girls of about 16, as the heroine, Bettina Mowbray, is of the old-fashioned type. "The Seekers," by Stanley Waterloo, points out the "recrudescence of superstition in the United States," as exemplified in faith cures and similar fads. "Old Madam, and Other Tragedies," by Harriet Prescott Spofford, is a collection of five stories, all intensifying human agony and replete with dramatic effects.

Within the last year, three of J. M. Barrie's books, "The Little Minister," "A Window in Thrums," and "Margaret Ogilvy" have been translated and published in Germany.

Alan McAnulty, a Scottish writer comparatively unknown in this country, has written a romance of Edinburgh and Scotch rural life, called "The Rhymer," having Robert Burns for the central figure.

James A. Wickersham, a professor of modern languages, who lives in Terre Haute, Ind., has published "Enoch Willoughby: A Novel of the Middle West," dealing with characters of a generation ago.

One million, six hundred and ten thousand copies of the novels of Lin Boyd Porter—"Albert Ross"—have already been sold. He is at work on his twenty-third, the title of which will be "A Sugar Princess."

"Geber: A Tale of the Reign of Harun al Raschid," by Mrs. Kate A. Benton, is said to be a remarkable book—the author's first prose work. It is pronounced worthy to be a companion volume to "The Arabian Nights."

A historical romance, by Mary E. Wilkins, called "The Heart's Highway," has its scene laid in Virginia, in the seventeenth century, though the writer keeps to the realistic style so well known in her New England stories.

A favorite subject of Kipling's was the possibilities of what might happen to a man in a London fog. The idea also struck Robert Barr, formerly, and when I was lunching with him one day he got so carried away by it as to plan a story in which a highly respectable man who hated another highly respectable man was to walk up behind No. 1 in the fog and percolate him with a bowl knife. Then the ghost of the murdered man was to dog the other in the fog and make him "unkind to himself." I don't know whether the story was ever written. Barr probably forgot all about it.

LAW AS INTERPRETED. Publication of charges against a candidate for judge is held, in State vs. Hoskins (Iowa), 47 L. R. A. 223, not to be privileged when they are published outside of the judicial district for which the judge is to be elected.

Right to a mechanic's lien for the improvement of grounds by enrichment of the soil, planting flowers, shrubs, trees, etc., without making any structure thereon, except a rustic bridge of slight importance, is denied in Nantz vs. Cumberland Gap Park Company (Tenn.), 47 L. R. A. 273, where the statutes clearly contemplate such liens shall be created only by the erection of some building.

Authority to set apart a portion of a public highway for a bicycle path is held, in State vs. Bradford (Minn.), 47 L. R. A. 144, to be granted by implication when a statute makes it unlawful to drive animals on such bicycle path, but it is held that this act must be restricted to bicycle paths which are public, and that it would be invalid as to those constructed on private grounds for private use.

Judgment against a solvent garnishee which the plaintiff fails to collect, without any excuse, is held, in Bowen vs. Port Huron E. and T. Co. (Iowa), 47 L. R. A. 131, to constitute a satisfaction of the claim against the original debtor for the amount of such judgment. With this case there is a note collating the other authorities on the effect of a judgment against a garnishee to merge or satisfy the liability of the principal debtor.

Ejection of a trespasser from the footboard of a locomotive, though his presence there does not interfere with the manipulation of the machinery by the engineer, whose position is inside the cab, is held, in Galveston H. & S. A. R. Co. vs. Zantzing (Texas), 47 L. R. A. 282, to be within the authority of the engineer, when he has possession and control of the engine, so that the railroad company is liable for the wrongful exercise of his authority.

A provision of an insurance policy to the effect that none of its terms may be modified, nor any forfeiture under it waived, save by agreement in writing signed by the president or secretary, is held, in Cole vs. Union Central Life Insurance Company (Wash.), 47 L. R. A. 201, to be inoperative on a person who made a contract for insurance with the general agent and manager of a foreign company and who did not assent or have any knowledge of such a provision or any information that it would be contained in the policy to be issued.

Full and Explicit Directions. Two bicyclists passing through a small town on the Long Island shore decided to take the train from there home. Being unfamiliar with the place they stopped to inquire of a colored woman the way to the railway station. "We are strangers," she said, "would you kindly direct us to the station?" "Certainly, sub," she replied; "Keep a gon' right on till yo' comes to de corner wha de ole postoffice used ter be, den tu' de yo' lef' an' yo'll go right to de station."

As they rode off she beamed with pride, they with amusement; and although they found the station they have yet to discover the "corner wha de ole postoffice used ter be."—New York Sun.

OLDEST LABOR UNION.

Chicago Typographical Union No. 10 Reaching Its Half-Century Mark.

The oldest labor body in Chicago is the Typographical Union No. 10. It is now reaching its half-century mark, and never was more prosperous than at present. The union has established the nine-hour day with the rate formerly prevailing for 10 hours. Disputes the past year have been infrequent and of little consequence, while employment of the members has been the best since the introduction of the linotypes.

The new President of the union is Michael Colbert. He is a native of the Empire State, first engaging in printing in Oswego in 1870. In 1880 Mr. Colbert Joined Chicago Typographical Union, and has performed many substantial services for the organization in that time, representing the union at the Kansas City convention of the International Union in 1888, where his ability was recognized by his fellow delegates. Mr. Colbert has had a unique experience in running for office, close votes being a feature of his canvasses. In 1884 he was defeated for Vice President by two votes. In 1894 for delegate by four votes, while last year he lost the Presidency by a margin of but one vote. Mr. Colbert is a member of several fraternal societies and has filled many stations of responsibility in them. He is recognized as a sincere and conscientious worker in the cause of unionism.

He GOT A LESSON IN SPANISH. Chicago Student Who Has Mastered the Mastery of the "J."

One of the students of the University of Chicago went to a restaurant on Jackson street a few days ago with two friends who had fought with the First Regiment at Santiago. Naturally they talked of the war, and although the student showed considerable knowledge of the campaign, his pronunciation of Spanish proper names was bad. Invariably he gave the Spanish "J" its English sound.

His companions, who were better posted on the Castilian tongue, stood it as long as they could, and finally one of them said: "See here, if you want to talk with us you must pronounce those Spanish words as they should be. Say 'San Juan' and 'Monte' and remember that 'Hunta' is proper. Don't give the words the 'J' sound. There is no 'J.' It's pronounced 'H'—always."

"Oh, is it?" returned the student with a sneer of sarcasm, for he was getting angry. "Then I suppose your name is 'John,' not 'John,' as it used to be before you went to Cuba; and perhaps you want me to tell you that this restaurant is on 'Jackson' street."

The derisive laugh that followed so angered the student that he leaped to his feet.

"I want you to understand," he shouted, "that I am a gentleman! Hump into me, you hucksters and I'll show you this is no hoking matter. By the bumping Jerusalem, you haven't any more sense than a hackbrabbit. If you insinuate that I'm a country hake, I'll break your jaw. By Himiny, I'm going."

And the indignant student put on his hat and stalked out.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

MADE LOVE TO 120 GIRLS.

Amazing Record Made by a German Bicyclist and Swindler. Probably the most successful sutor of modern times is Alois Frankenberg, a Bavarian, who has been sentenced at Graz, in Austria, to spend two years and a half in prison because he made love to too many girls and swindled them out of goodly sums of money. The son and heir of a wealthy man at Graz, he quickly ran through his patrimony, whereupon he advertised for a wife in several papers. Girls of all ranks in society answered his advertisement, and selecting among them those who were comely and who had money, he at once promised to marry them. Gradually he inveigled their money from them, and then he disappeared, leaving the hapless women to mourn over his fickleness and his dishonesty.

He was next heard of at Munich, where he played the same trick and with equal success on several young and old widows. To the neighboring cities he also paid frequent visits, and the result being that in a short time he had accumulated quite a handsome fortune. Unfortunately he went one day to Graz and was there seen by one of his victims, who promptly had him arrested.

This modern Don Juan is himself authority for the statement that he had offered his hand and heart to at least 120 maids and widows.

A New Romantic Novel.

The Century Company announces the discovery of a new romantic novelist in a young New Yorker, Miss Hartha Runkle, whose maiden effort is to be The Century's leading piece of fiction for the month of August, beginning in the August number. It is described as a dramatic romance of love and adventure, and is entitled "The Helmet of Navarre." The scene is Paris during the siege by Henry of Navarre, and the action occupies but four days of the week preceding the Sunday when Henry entered the city. The story is full of vigorous action, and the plot is said to be one of fascinating interest.

The Trust Problem. To a thoughtful mind is one of serious import, for it creeps upon society before you are aware of its existence, in this respect much resembling the various disorders which attack the stomach, such as constipation, indigestion and dyspepsia. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the one reliable remedy for all such ailments.

Religious Conserving Power. Man today begins life in a garden of innocence and purity, wherein are the divinest possibilities, but where there is also the subtle spirit awaiting the chance to beguile. In every walk, as he grows to maturity, are impressions made on the plastic soul, and ever present is the intelligence, working often for good, but which may in self-sufficiency beguile to evil paths. It is here religion seeks, reminding men of God.—Rev. J. K. Smyth.

Packhurst on John 3:16. I could get along with a confession of faith containing but the little that Jesus said when He was trying to make a Christian of Nicodemus: "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life." That gives us the doctrine of God's unlimited love, human guilt, the divinity of Christ, salvation through Christ, faith in Christ, immortality; every word saxon, three-quarters of the words monosyllabic, profound enough for any elder, simple enough for any four-year-old.—Dr. C.
