For President—
WILLIAM MCKINLEY.
For Vice-President—
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The live stock in the hands of the farmers is at present prices worth $400,000,000 more than in the de-eratic times of 1894-96. The farmer knows this and realizes what prosperity means to him.

There isn't a single logical argument to be advanced in support of Bryan. The chief issues contended for by him contain less reason. If possible, than his ambiguous generalities which amount to nothing.

It is believed that Bryan is laying ropes to get into the U. S. senate in the event of his failure of election this fall. Thus, after his approaching defeat, he will doubtless abandon his ambition to become president.

Candidate Bryan has now been repeatedly and thoroughly appraised of his presidential nomination. The large degree of notifying indulged in for him now may somewhat compensate him for the lack of being notified of election later on.

The Yakima Wool Growers' Association of North Yakima, Wash., says that wool in that state, according to grade, sold in 1894 at from 5 1/2 to 10 cents per pound; in 1895 from 6 to 10 cents per pound; in 1896 from 7 1/2 to 12 cents per pound, and in 1899, under McKinley prosperity, it sold from 12 to 20 cents per pound.

An exchange says that the most emphatic proof of prosperity and financial comfort in Nebraska is found in the report of the state bank examiner on January 1, 1900. There was on deposit in the state savings banks of the state, most of which are outside the large cities, $21,666,110, an increase of $3,400,000 in one year. As these banks are the banks in which the farmer deposits, as well as the laboring man, it shows that prosperity has arrived in Nebraska in a very healthy state.

Roseburg Plaindealer: W. W. Thompson and sister, Miss A. L. Thompson, and Miss Jennie Eakin, of Chicago, spent Tuesday in this city. Mr. Thompson has been connected with the promotion of the Oregon Midland railroad, and since the contract has been let and its early construction is assured, he will now turn his attention to the Coos Bay, Roseburg & Eastern railroad and will endeavor to secure its early completion or construction from Myrtle Point to Roseburg. He feels sure that he can interest capital to take hold of this matter and since the S. P. Co. is so much in need of coal for fuel from the coast counties, it is possible it will encourage the enterprise. The party left for Portland Wednesday morning.

The report for the government fiscal year is now published and every citizen, as a member of the great firm of "United States & Co.," may well be gratified at the showing. We have trade in every part of the inhabitable globe and have interchanged commodities with every people. Our business for the year amounted to the enormous sum of $2,243,901,041, surpassing everything ever before known by nearly $320,000,000. We sold to foreign countries merchandise valued at $1,394,186,371, and we bought from them to the value of $849,714,670, leaving a balance in our favor to be paid in gold, or to be credited to future accounts, of $544,471,701. A business firm, showing a balance on its safes in a proportion like this, would be pretty sure to feel that it was doing a safe and prosperous business.

Speaking of the construction of the O. M. Ry., the Record says: Directors Van Horne, McWilliams, McCall, Horn, Moore, Baldwin and Wood, of the O. M. R. Co., and Messrs. Thompson and Lyman, of the Midland Construction Co. of Chicago, signed up the necessary papers for the construction of the new road from the S. P. line to Klamath Falls. The Midland Construction company then let a contract to Hale & Smith, of Portland, for the construction of the first 66 miles of the road from a point on the S. P. between Hornbrook and Klamath, Cal., to Spencer creek, Klamath county, this state. The contract price is 80 cents per yard for grading rock and 22 cents per yard for grading dirt. For ballasting, $2,000 per mile. For laying rails, $400. For building bridges the price is $20 per thousand feet of lumber consumed. He is allowed until October 1, 1901, to complete the work. John Hale expects to start the work about the first of this October. He is winding up his contracts for the government jetty work at Gray's Harbor, Wash., and has 2,400 men at work, 450 of whom are Japanese.

A firm in Rochester, Minn., has started near that city a new speculation, viz: a snake farm, and now they want to stock it with all the best, latest and most approved breeds of snakes. Having heard in some way that Klamath Falls had a few snakes left over from last spring's crop, the firm has written to Postmaster Castel that they would purchase three thousand pounds of live snakes, and pay therefor 25 cents per pound. What that firm intends to do with such a vast horde is a mystery. Perhaps it may be this: Rochester, like nearly all other localities in Minnesota, is horribly infested by rattlesnakes, all armed and equipped for battle and ready to rattle their tails under the noses of the most respectable citizens and bite them at a moment's notice. Now the Oregon snakes are different. They do not bite and their walk in life is civil and friendly to man or beast. To this rule there is, however, one exception. They hate rattlesnakes worse than the devil, and kill them at sight. A rattlesnake's bite is no more to them than the bite of a mosquito, and being thus invulnerable, they have thinned out the rattlers until there is scarcely one to be found in the entire Cascade range. It is possible that the cause of the desire to import Oregon snakes is to wipe out those poisonous reptiles which now devastate Minnesota. This life will be made more secure and people, every time they go out of doors, will not have to lug around in their coat tails pockets bottles of snake bite antidotes to use in cases of emergency. But it is a fact that the Rochester firm wants 3,000 pounds of live, active and vigorous snakes and offers to pay 25 cents per pound for them.

"One Hundred Years in the White House," opening the September Ladies' Home Journal, gives some highly interesting glimpses of the social life of the century, and of the home life of our Presidents since the time the Adamses moved into the Executive Mansion as its first occupants, in November, 1800. The "Romances of Some Southern Homes," in the same issue, pictures the most notable historical mansions of the South, and recalls the incidents which made them famous—their brave men and beautiful women. Some new anecdotes attract further interest to the beloved Phillips Brooks, as a man and as a preacher. They are characteristic, and exceedingly well told. Anticipating the rather radical change that fashion has decreed in women's attire, ten special articles are devoted to the fall and winter modes. The pictorial features of the September Journal include a page drawing of "Loiterers at the Railroad Station," as A. B. Frost sees them; "The Wonders of California Gardens," and the beauties of Yellowstone Park. There are numerous practical articles and much else that is helpful in the departments. By the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.
