wagons from Ager, with goods etc. for the merchants and others. On Wednesday he started for Ager again to bring in another cargo.

H. H. Van Valkenburg has this week added a large, highly artistic case, the work of Mr. Gocler, to his jewelry store. Thus, his establishment keeps on growing in metropolitan appearances.

A recent card from C. L. Parrish, formerly of this place, states that he and family are comfortably located and well and happy in their Portland home. This will be good news to their many warm friends here.

Judge Benson and daughter departed on Tuesday evening's stage for Ashland. The Judge will visit Grants Pass, Roseburg and Portland before returning. Miss Gail will remain in Salem where she will attend school.

The Lakeview Examiner estimates that the sales of cattle in Lake county this season will amount to $450,000 and figures sheep sales at $150,000. It approximates the sale of mules and horses for the year 1900 at $25,000.

Four years ago the four counties of the First judicial district of Oregon, being Lake, Jackson, Josephine, and Klamath, each gave a plurality for Bryan. At the late election each reversed the record, all giving large pluralities for McKinley.

The case of the state vs. Jack Harbin, who is charged with unlawful sale of liquor, was given two trials before the circuit court here during the past week, the jury in each trial being unable to agree on a verdict. As a consequence the case was continued over the term.

One stranger who recently landed at this place, is so well pleased with this climate and country that he wishes he had come here sooner. He proposes to anchor and send for his neighbors to participate with him in the enjoyments of life here.

Joe Moore who was so nearly killed by being kicked by a horse a few weeks ago that his life was despaired of, has so far recovered from his tough experience, that he is up and around, and will soon be all right again. His numerous friends rejoice to hear it.

Several prominent capitalists from abroad are here with the view of investing in land or other business. Among them are: C. N. Armstrong of San Antonio, Texas; S. P. Simpson of San Diego, Cal. and Messrs. H. E. and F. E. Ankeny, and R. E. Cantrell of Jacksonville, Or.

Lakeview Examiner: Almost the entire band of 900 fine Merino bucks, near Heppner, were poisoned by licking a certain mineral substance which appears on the rocks throughout the Heppner country, when the sun comes out just after a heavy rain. This substance is very poisonous and makes quick work of its victims.

Fred Adams returned last Thursday from Merrill, near which place he had just finished the construction of a big barn for Mike Hartley. The barn measures about 100 feet square and is one of the biggest and best buildings of the kind in the county. Mr. Adams fully merits his reputation as a first class workman.

It is reported that the Rogue river valley does not supply its home demand for potatoes, but depends on importations from the Willamette country. The Rogue river section has the soil and could doubtless procure the seed and hence there is no apparently good reason why it should not raise potatoes and other substantial and profitable crops.

O. P. Gates of Hillsboro, Or., is in town for the purpose of putting in new lights for the Light and Water Co. The six arc lights will be exchanged for 50 incandescent lights, each of 24 candle power. New cedar poles will be put in and the new lights will be 150 feet apart and 12 feet above the ground. It will take several weeks to complete the work, and when done will be a very desirable improvement.

H. E. Ankeny and son who were at this place for several days, departed for the railroad Sunday. While here they bought 600 acres of land of R. S. Moore, the consideration being $15 per acre. Mr. Cantrall, son-in-law of H. E. Ankeny, remained until Tuesday to close his deal with Judge Smith for the purchase of 400 acres near Altamont. We understand Mr. Cantrall will remove here within a few weeks to reside permanently.

C. S. Bunting of Bly was a Klamath Falls visitor Thursday last and paid this office a friendly call. Mr. Bunting is a large dealer in live stock, having recently sold a herd for $7,500. He rejoiced over the re-election of President McKinley on the very practical grounds that he felt assured of better times for his business with a continuance of republicanism. Evidently, hosts of others had come to the same wise conclusion.

Klamath county real estate is growing in demand and advancing in value. As a matter of fact, every piece of land sold at advanced figures adds to the value of every other piece. It is a further fact, that the man who buys now at prices greatly in excess of what they were six months or a year ago, is very likely to make on his investment double what was made by the one who sold to him. The value of land is bound to continue going up.

Ashland Record: It is believed that the California & Northwestern railroad, with terminus in Humboldt county, is preparing to reach Southern Oregon. Very important land sales along Klamath River have recently been made in the interest of this company. Among the purchasers are C. C. Smith of Minneapolis, 19,000 acres, the Vance Mill & Lumber Co., (A. B. Hammond of C. & N. W.) 7000 acres, and Mr. Stone of Arcata 5,000 acres.

In the partition suit of heirs of Wm. P. Miller against the grantee of Gen. John F. Miller, involving nearly 10,000 acres in this county, decree was entered Monday, confirming the report of referees J. F. Adams, R. F. Van Brimmer and Geo. T. Baldwin, setting aside to plaintiffs the Wood River ranch and 2,800 acres off the west of the ranch below town. An unusual compliment was paid the gentlemen composing the commission to divide the land, since neither side opposed their report.

Rev. Father Donnelly of Ashland, who frequent visits to Klamath county have made him very popular with people here, has been given a new charge, according to the following paragraph taken from Monday's Tidings: Rev. Edward Donnelly returned from Portland, Saturday, and preached his farewell sermon to his parishioners at the church of the Holy Rosary, Sunday, at High Mass. The reverend gentleman, who is a great favorite with his people in Ashland, has been transferred by Archbishop Christie to Coos and Curry Counties, with headquarters at Marshfield, and left for the scene of his new labors this evening. Rev. J. M. Hickey, of St. Ann's church, at Grant's Pass, has been appointed by the archbishop to succeed Rev. Edward Donnelly in the pastorate of the Holy Rosary and will move to Ashland at an early date.

We are told that for over thirty years there have been only three exceptions to the rule of "open winters" in this country. Eleven years ago took place the last severe winter, when travel was made next to impossible by mountains of snow, and when, from lack of due preparation, great numbers of cattle, horses and other stock perished. There were thirty days between mails and people did not venture far from home, but waited patiently or impatiently for the thawing warmth of spring to lift the blockade. The lock-up commenced November 1 and continued until April 1. But the hardest winter within the memory of the oldest inhabitant was that of 1879-1880. No year equaled it in hardships and loss of live stock. Another severe winter was that of 1874. At no other times have communication and dealings with the outside world been seriously interrupted. Usually snow disappears as quickly as it comes and, compared to most countries, the weather is very mild. Aside from the three seasons mentioned, there have been what are called open winters during the past thirty years, and there is no likelihood that the experience of eleven years ago will ever be repeated or approached in severity.

Sikes Worden, who has been in this county thirty years, tells us that there were two Indians, one now dead and the other still living on his ranch at Coucoukiam, between Klamath Agency and Yainax, who, in their palmy days, far outstripped all others in the skill of hunting and trapping. Among either Indians or white hunters, they never have had any peers in the county. Their names, Pedro and Hunter Wilson, are familiar especially to old settlers. They were widely known as crack shots and as adepts in finding wild game. But with all their skill and daring in bear-hunting, their efforts never resulting in failure, they had many hair-lifting experiences with the long-clawed huggers of the forest and many narrow escapes from being devoured. However, their valor never left them when in close quarters with a huge and hungry bear, and in numerous instances wherein guns could not be used, they whipped out their knives and overpowered the ferocious animals in a hand to hand fight. Wilson was a better marksman than Pedro, while the latter surpassed in the ability of an observer—that is, to hunt out and locate the retreats of the big game. They were not only well-known as hunters, but bore high reputations for friendship to the whites and frequently acted as guides for the latter, and their services were particularly sought after and considered valuable by the soldiers when they were stationed at Fort Klamath. Neither of the two hunters took part in the Modoc war, each refusing to break his friendly ties with the whites. Wilson was a Klamath Indian and lived on Williamson river where he died about three years ago at the age of 63. Pedro whose partial blindness compelled him to abandon hunting some years ago, lives in comfortable circumstances on his ranch at Coucoukiam and is about 60 years old. He is one of the survivors of the Molla band and became blended with the Klamaths by marriage as a sequel to periodic visits to that tribe in his youth.

BONANZA.

L. A. Obenchain went to Sprague river on business last Monday.

The United States marshal was here Saturday to serve subpoenas on the following persons to appear in Portland at this term of U. S. Court on the Keesee case: Hugh Clifton, Oliver Hamaker, Alexander Bradburn, Sam Walker, Jack Lowderbaugh and Kip Van Riper. They all left last Monday for that city.

Clifton's store and I. O. O. F. hall are nearly finished, and Mr. Clifton will move into it soon. As soon as he vacates his present place, Bud Obenchain will open a saloon in it.

A "Shingle Social" will be given by the Sunday school next Friday night.

Dan Driscoll and Claude Chastain are attending Mr. Clifton's store during his sojourn in Portland.

Bonanza Lodge, I. O. O. F. will have election of new officers a week from next Saturday evening.

DALRYMPLE—CUNNINGHAM.

The marriage referred to in the following paragraph, appearing in last week's Lakeview Examiner, took place at the residence of H. T. Chittwood in Klamath Falls last Friday, Rev. Stockwell officiating.

Col. C. H. Dalrymple, the attorney, left for Klamath Falls last Tuesday on an important errand. To-night he will claim as his bride Miss Ellen Cunningham of Fort Klamath, daughter of Capt. Cunningham. The wedding ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hampton Chittwood at Klamath Falls. Upon their return to Lakeview, the happy couple will proceed to Warner, where Colonel Dalrymple will teach school this winter. He will not give up his law office in Lakeview, but will make frequent trips here to attend to legal matters. The bride is said to be a charming young woman of many accomplishments. The Examiner wishes the happy couple much joy.

DROWNED.

[Ashland Tidings, Nov. 8.]

Genevieve, the 8 year old daughter of J. G. Brown, bookkeeper of the Pockegama Sugar Pine Lumbering Co., was drowned Tuesday afternoon in the Klamath river, through falling into the stream from the logs and being drawn beneath them by the rapid current. She, together with her older sister and two friends, was standing on the logs when the joint broke, throwing them in the water. The sister got out of the water and gave the alarm and the two friends, daughters of P. Linn, aged respectively 12 and 14 were rescued by Mr. Kerwin, who plunged into the water and found the two girls holding each other across a log, submerged to their necks in the water. The body of Genevieve Brown has not been discovered though diligent search has been made for her. As the gang of logs is a very large one it is doubtful if the body will be recovered soon.

TIMBER LAND, ACT JUNE 3, 1878, NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Lakeview, Oregon, Sept. 10, 1900.

Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the states of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1892, J. C. Weiss, of Fort Klamath, County of Klamath, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 277, for the purchase of the NW 1/4 of Section No. 27, in Township No. 32 S., Range No. 7 1/2 E. and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of this office at Lakeview, Or., on Saturday, the 24th day of November, 1900. He names as witnesses: W. T. Coburn, of Ashland, Oregon; Chas. Johnson, of Klamath, California; F. H. Briggs, of Grants Pass, Oregon; Chas. Kappler, of Klamath, California. Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 24th day of November, 1900.

GAME LAW.

The Ashland Record of last week gives the following in reference to the game law:

"Last Thursday the killing of deer and the catching of trout of all species ceased. It was the opening day of the close season, and those who persist in continuing the sport may figure on the penalty of the law in the event they are caught. No more deer can be killed in Oregon until the 15th of next July, and trout of all species are protected until the first of next April. This ban extends to salmon trout as well as to all other species. Sportsman, however, still have various kinds of game to fall back upon. Quail can be shot until the 15th of this month, and grouse and prairie chickens until December 1. Jacksnipe can be shot until February 1, and duck, geese and swan until the 15th of next March."

It is cheering to note that the law guards all sorts, sizes and denominations of trout against being caught. We have felt especially dangerous to trout and are glad that the strong arm of the law would reach out and snatch us before a vindictive tribunal in the event we went fishing and caught something besides a cold and the disposition to discharge volleys of wrath at the little bundles of innocence and virtue gliding playfully along under four or ten feet of water. It is delightfully inspiring to be kept from doing what one has never been able to do. In regard to our particular case, reviewing our experiences, it would seem unnecessary to throw the cloak of legal protection around the trout variety, yet we are glad it is so, and welcome the requirement as joyful and shall obey it as easily as though it were an edict restraining us from fishing or swimming in the canals (or irrigating ditches) of Mars.
