According to reports of exchanges the mining town of Keswick numbering 2000 inhabitants, must be a gloomy place to live in. Within its borders, says the Free Press, there is not a living plant that has verdure or blossoms. New comers frequently think they can rear pet plants. Such attempts always prove failures in a week or so. It is the sulphur smoke from the roasters and the smelter that kills vegetation. It does no other harm. It really purifies the atmosphere, phere, kills malarial and other germs. It causes no inconvenience or injury to human beings except when it comes in unusually large doses, which is the case very seldom and for a short time.

Indications are that there will be many applicants for timber claims as soon as plats can be secured from the Lakeview land office. All the plats were burned in the big fire of last spring and a new supply had not been received from Washington at last accounts. However, they will doubtless be on hand ere long. Also prospects are favorable for big timber purchases by eastern capital in this county the coming year.

Thos. Martin and sons are figuring on building a creamery at Merrill next spring. The institution will begin business with milk supplied from 250 cows and the number will of course increase from the start. We are glad to note that the gentlemen propose to launch the enterprise, for it will not only bring profit to them, but will be profitable to patrons in the surrounding country.

C. E. Sherlock has just returned to his home at Lakeview after an absence of two months, during which he made a small fortune in speculating on sheep. Before election he started a big band of sheep for Shasta valley, awaiting the political outcome before selling. Prior to election he refused offers of $3.60 for 1, 2 and 3-year-old wethers and $3.50 for ewes. After election he received $5.80 per head for 1,300 wethers and $3.60 for 1,500 ewes.

The tract of land cut off from the reservation, and for the payment of which a treaty, recently made with the Indian, is now before congress for ratification, contains 621,824 acres, most of which has an excellent growth of pine timber. This timber is now subject to entry and much of it will probably be taken by settlers in the course of the coming year. Many are watching this timber and those on the ground first will of course secure the choicest selections.
