Phoebe Vinson of Langell valley returned home last week from Ashland where she has been attending the Normal school.
A new paper, to be known as the "The Chewaucan Post," is soon to be started at Paisley, Lake County, by C. O. Metzker of Lakeview.

Circuit court held a brief session Monday and will meet again tomorrow to decide questions involved in the divorce case of William vs. Williams.
Capt. O. C. Applegate departed Sunday for Washington, D. C., on business connected with the welfare of the Klamath Agency, of which he is the agent.

We understand local dramatic talent is preparing to present a play, entitled "A Family Affair," at this place on New Year's night.

Lakeview is receiving equipments for a system of waterworks and electric light plant. The big engine to furnish power is already on the ground.

Bryan says he will not be a candidate for the U. S. Senate. With a republican majority in the Nebraska legislature, his announcement is hardly appropriate.

Anna C. Egan and Jessie E. Sence who have been teaching at the Klamath Agency, have been transferred to other agencies. They stopped here Saturday on their way to the railroad.

Rev. Knotts, who has been supplying the Presbyterian pulpit here for two months, will spend the holidays at home, in Grant's Pass, and will return in January to continue the supply.

Late reports from south Africa indicate that the Boer war is far from settled notwithstanding Lord Robert's report to the contrary. His self-congratulatory announcement was a little premature.

We regret to learn that Joe Moore is confined to his house with pneumonia. At last accounts, however, he had considerably improved. Mr. Moore is certainly having more than his share of affliction.

Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Simpson of Fort Klamath were here on Tuesday, and in the evening took the initiatory degree in the A. O. U. W. lodge at this place. This lodge has now about 125 members.

It is surprising that Medford's population does not reach 2,000, in which one respect it seems to fall behind Ashland. In business, enterprise and life, however, Medford far outstrips Peach Blow Heaven.

W. F. Arant of Pine Grove tells us that in his neighborhood, summer weather is still prevalent, and that the cattle are still on the ranges and doing well. For a week before Christmas, this is a good showing.

The school under Prof. S. H. Beach at Pine Grove is reported as very successful, and to add to its usefulness, Prof. Beach is having a series of school entertainments which are highly appreciated by parents and scholars.

Preparations are going forward for Christmas exercises in the Presbyterian church Monday evening. Before the distribution of gifts and sweet meats from the tree will be an appropriate program of songs and recitations.

Prof. R. A. Hopkins, principal of the Bonanza school, arrived here Monday to spend a two weeks' vacation. The Bonanza school was closed for the holidays a week earlier than expected on account of an epidemic of measles.

The Presbyterian ladies had a fair at the mausoleum Tuesday evening and entertained a large crowd. Various useful articles were sold and refreshments were served. The occasion netted the society over $20 and was a gratifying success in all respects.

A. McCallen, who moved from Lakeview to Ashland some months ago, has been selected as cashier and manager of the new bank to be instituted at the latter place. Mr. McCallen served eighteen years as treasurer of Lake county and has had long and successful experience as a banker at Lakeview.

The entertainment given by the high school students Friday evening was attended by a good-sized audience and was listened to attentively throughout. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental music and a short dramatic piece. The participants elicited much deserved praise. The receipts amounted to $29.60.

A high wind and heavy rain storm swept the Pacific coast Saturday and Sunday. Over an inch of rain fell at Ashland, two at Dunsuir and an inch and a half at Sisson. At Klamath Falls there was a sprinkle of rain and light wind, but nothing severe. On the coast the storm is reported to have been the worst experienced in many years.

Christmas ranks first among pleasant holidays, and its glad tidings are especially calculated to impart happiness to the children, who, for weeks previous, look forward to its coming with the keenest interest and most joyful expectations. Let none of the little ones be forgotten on this glad occasion, which will duly arrive next Tuesday.

According to reports, prospects are favorable for Lakeview to secure a projected railroad known as the Huntington-Lakeview line. The enterprise is said to be in the hands of the O. R. & N. company. If such road is constructed, it will in due time be built to Klamath Falls and here connect with the proposed Oregon Midland line.

The new M. E. church was used for religious services for the first time Sunday evening, when a large crowd was present. The church is of modern architecture and stylishly finished. When fully completed, it will have cost between $1,800 and $2,000. It is expected the building will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies some time next month.

The Oregonian of Monday reports new arrivals among timber men from the east who have come here to invest in Oregon pine and fir. The article in that paper asserts that there will be many big purchases the coming year, notwithstanding the fact that the demand has considerably advanced the price of timber. Oregon forests are surely on the eve of an unprecedented boom.

We understand that Rev. Father Hickey, who was lately installed at Ashland, will be at this place in the near future to conduct services, and while here will take up the work, commenced by Rev. Father Donnelly, of promoting the building of a Catholic church and school in Klamath county. In all probability the proposed new buildings will be constructed next spring.

But little further information has been received in relation to the holding up of the Lakeview stage and the robbery of the mail on Tuesday night of last week. It is thought by the Lakeview Examiner that little and perhaps nothing was obtained by the robber, and that he was after the pocket book of an expected passenger instead of the mail, but the passenger did not materialize, having taken another route.

Ashland Record: Col. Edward Hill, a timber land man who spent considerable of his time in the past eight years in Ashland, Medford and Jenny creek, died at Green Bay, Wis., Nov. 22d. Col. Hill was preparing to purchase the Congressman Hopkins tract of timber land as well as other loose pieces in the Jenny creek section and had the syndicate about organized and ready to come here when overtaken by death. Mrs. Hill writes D. D. H. Yagar that she will complete the deal. Congressman Hopkins of Pennsylvania owns something like 40,000 acres of timber land which he holds at $40 per acre.

According to the following paragraph from the Lakeview Examiner, artesian wells can be secured in Lake county, and that being true, they can doubtless also be had in Klamath county: If reports are true, John Green, the West Side farmer, will succeed in getting artesian water on his place. If Mr. Green is successful it will no doubt be the cause of many of our farmers trying the experiment. Artesian water would prove a wonderful source of wealth to Lake county. Its success would be followed by countless fields of alfalfa.

We understand that Main street, from Chitwood's drug store to the school house was well paved with stone, three years ago. On that a thin layer of dirt was placed. So that, muddy as the street may look on top, it is but a short distance down to a solid foundation of rock. Hence there can be no danger of getting stalled. We also learn that the roads outside are also greatly improved of late, and have no such terrific sloughs of mud and water as there used to be. This town is improving constantly in many ways, and next summer will see a most encouraging period of building and improvement.

Salem and Eugene are busy explaining why their census returns show a decrease in population since the enumeration of 1890. They claim that while the number of inhabitants of each has grown considerably, the town limits have undergone immense shrinkage, thus cutting off several townships included within the enumeration of the towns ten years ago. Besides, at Salem it is said the inmates of the different state institutions were counted in the 1890 census, since when it is understood they have been squeezed out of the town limits. The responsible ones probably ought to be censured for evident neglect in not enumerating the respective cemeteries of Salem and Eugene.

The Rodding Free Press says the Oregon Midland R. R. to be built from some point near Hornbrook to Klamath Falls, may not be constructed. The information has dampened some large hopes, for the new line was expected to open up a large belt of choicest timber and also agricultural land. In fact the line was expected to give a tremendous impetus to all Siskiyou county. The enterprise was projected by Chicago railroad men. Surveys are completed and contracts for supplies have already been let. Late advices from the Windy City are very discouraging. The real cause of the hitch is not yet understood. The people of Siskiyou are sincerely hoping that the obstacle, whatever it is, will be surmounted and the work proceed.—Yreka Journal.

Medford Mail: J. W. Cox came over from his Wood River valley stock ranch Friday of last week. He will remain in Jackson county for a couple of months, having left his brother, Frank, and Oscar Bunch in charge of the ranch. Mr. Cox has 325 head of stock on his ranch, all of which he de-horned this fall, and as a result, his stock, he says, has improved greatly in flesh and are much easier handled. Mr. Cox has a ranch of 1320 acres and all of it is good hay land. It is all under an irrigation ditch. He put up 500 tons of hay this year and will put up 700 tons next year. Mr. Cox built barns and sheds on his place this last season and now has one of the best, if not best, stock farms in Klamath county. He sold seventy-five head of beef cattle this fall at 3 1/2 cents per pound—and will have more than this number to sell another year—at a better price—as he now fully believes.

DEATH OF MRS. D. R. JONES.
A telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death of Mrs. D. R. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schallock of this place. Mrs. Jones died at her home in Warner valley, Lake county, on Monday. She was about 22 years of age. Mrs. Jones grew to womanhood in Klamath Falls where she was very popular among a large circle of friends. The bereaved ones will have the cordial sympathy of all.
