LOCAL NEWS.

An epidemic of measles continues at Bonanza.

Prof. R. A. Hopkins came over from Bonanza Saturday, returning Sunday.

The Southern Oregon Normal school, located at Ashland, has an enrollment of 170.

On January 3rd, the snow was 11 feet deep on the level at Siskiyou, 6 feet at Sisson and 9 feet at Dunsuir.

Wm. Davis of Lorella, ex-county commissioner, suffered a stroke of paralysis Friday night. Dr. Reames was summoned.

A case of smallpox is reported at Montague, but rigid quarantine is being observed and it is believed there is no danger of the disease spreading.

E. R. Reames and wife will leave in a few days for California to be absent several weeks. During his stay, E. W. Gowen will assist Mr. Jennings in the store.

Presiding Elder Summerville held quarterly services in the M. E. church here Sunday evening, preaching to a good-sized audience. He left Tuesday for his home at Grant's Pass.

The report circulated by friends and well-wishers at Ashland that the snow at Klamath Falls on the 5th was ten feet deep was erroneous. As a matter of fact, the snow at no time during the storm exceeded two feet on the level.

The Lakeview Examiner passed its 21st year last week. That is one of the ablest and most elaborate journals in Oregon, and if its patronage is commensurate with its efforts, its proprietors ought to become rich. The enterprise of such a paper deserves liberal support.

The Crook County Journal, published at Prineville, issued an excellent New Year's number. It is devoted to a history of the county's development and a portrayal of its resources and prospects. In book form, neatly printed and replete with illustrations, it is a very creditable stroke of enterprise.

The south-bound train on the N. C. O. R. R. had an unpleasant experience between Amedee and Reno during the big storm two weeks ago. The wind came so strong that the passenger coach and freight car were lifted off the track and overturned. Several of the passengers on board were injured, none of them seriously, however.

Mr. Brownvig of Astoria, who has been here several weeks looking over this country, started for home Monday. He was much pleased with the country and its future prospects, and will return here in the spring to permanently locate. At the same time his son-in-law and family will come and three other families, all of whom will also find homes here.

The supreme court at its session at Salem two weeks ago reversed the case of Geo. A. Durkee respondent vs. Jesse D. Carr appellant; appeal from Klamath county. This was an action for damages on account of the failure of the defendant to supply water for irrigation of land rented from him by the plaintiff, who in the lower court obtained a verdict for $1090. The court below is reversed because the agent of the defendant, who made the lease of the land, had no authority to bind the defendant to furnish the water for irrigation.

It is reported that the big storm which commenced on New Year's day, never let up at Yreka until the Friday evening following depositing 63 inches (5 1/2 feet) of snow at that place. The Yreka Journal says that the fear now ahead is what may result when the great mass of snow dissolves, as it will certainly prove disastrous if melted quickly by warm rains. This supposed to be an inch of water every 10 inches of snow, hence there must have been fully six inches of water, now held to a great extent in the snow on the hard ground well frozen before the commencement of the storm. Some of our streets are so piled up with snow that much of it will have to be hauled away, especially on the narrowest streets, completely blocked by the snow from roofs of buildings.

Reports from Lakeview state that during the storm of week before last there was the heaviest snowfall in that country in many years, although at Lakeview the fall of snow was comparatively light. The Lakeview Examiner gives the thrilling experience of Rev. D. T. Summerville, presiding elder of the M. E. church, who came near perishing in the storm. He was on the stage between Lakeview and Paisley. Finally at 11 o'clock at night he and the driver had to abandon the horses and stage and hunt a house. Rev. Summerville after wading through snow and drifts for three hours came across a cabin and shouted to arouse the inmates, but all in vain—the place was uninhabited. He finally found a wire and inserted it into the lock, and the door opened. He struck a match and discovered a coal oil lamp minus the oil, a few crumbs of bread, and a few pieces of wood. He soon had a fire going, devoured the dry bread that had been lying on the table for many weeks, and thought it the sweetest morsel he had ever tasted. Here, after several hours, the driver found him and piloted him to the Alford place. There they remained until next morning, when after a hearty breakfast they returned to Lakeview.
