

Scrofula

This root of many evils—Glandular tumors, abscesses, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions, sore ears, inflamed eyelids, rickets, dyspepsia, catarrh, readiness to catch cold and inability to get rid of it easily, paleness, nervousness and other ailments including the consumptive tendency—Can be completely and permanently removed, no matter how young or old the sufferer."

Hood's Sarsaparilla was given the daughter of Miss Veritor, Wawarsing, N. Y. who had broken out with scrofula sores all over her face and head. The first bottle helped her and when she had taken six the sores were all healed and her face was smooth. He writes that she has never shown any sign of the scrofula returning.

Valuable Almanac Free.

We have received a copy of the new almanac for 1901 published by the Royal Baking Powder Co. It is an artistic and useful book and a good deal of interest to housekeepers. A noteworthy feature of the almanac is a prediction of the weather for every day of the year, by Prof. DeVoe, who correctly predicted the great Galveston cyclone and other important meteorological events. We are authorized to say that any woman reader of this paper can secure a copy without cost by sending a request to the company, at 100 William St., New York.

World's Largest Diamond.

The largest uncut diamond in the world was the Braganza, owned by the king of Portugal, 1,680 carats. Its cutting reduced it to 367 carats, but thus it retains its supremacy, and the next largest is the Star of the South, 254 carats.

Rheumatism
Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison; and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kell, of 375 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The attack was unusually severe and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the best physicians in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well. After having filled twelve times without receiving the slightest benefit, I decided to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swift's Specific) recommended for Rheumatism, I decided to try it. I had never heard of it before, but I had taken a few bottles and I was able to hobble around on crutches, and very soon thereafter had me up for the first time in months. I was cured and sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned and I am happy to say I am perfectly restored to health."

SSS is the great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the ideal remedy in all rheumatic troubles. There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to various habits.

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

RACE FOR A MINING CLAIM.

Midwinter Dash to Secure Possession of a Rich Digging in Washington. An exciting race for a mine took place in February, 1890. For many years it had been known that the Colville Indian reservation was rich in minerals and prospectors had slipped in, eluding the vigilance of the Indian police, to explore the mountains in northern Washington. But long before white men had entered the Indians knew that the top of a low mountain near the nation's border line was covered with bright blue stones, so gaudy that many were carried off and placed in the wigwams. The prospectors knew that these gay stones betokened the existence of copper veins and many a hungry eye was cast at that rock-strewn patch of ground before the government lifted the ban that kept out pale-face intruders. But Congress passed a law opening part of the reservation to mineral location.

Waiting for the President to sign the formal proclamation, two parties quietly entered the forbidden territory and camped alongside the promising vein. At Marcus, the nearest telegraph station, two young men waited with tense nerves for the first tick that would tell the President had signed the proclamation. It was a cold, gray winter day and the snow was piled high. Late in the afternoon the word came and there was a simultaneous dash for the horses that were waiting outside. Then the race began. Plunging through drifts, tumbling down declines, toiling desperately up steep hills and bounding at full speed over the level stretches, these two horses bore their riders. Sometimes one was ahead and sometimes the other. The sun disappeared and the hurrying pair blundered along through the deepening twilight, and then in the light of the stars reflected by the glistening snow. Spurs were plunged so deep that flecks of blood stained the snow. Almost side by side they scrambled up the mountain. The yells of the riders were heard in the distance by the rival watchers, who did not wait a further hint, but drove the stakes that were to locate the La Fleur mine.

Then followed wordy disputes, fist fights and the flourishing of Winchester, but before the mine was christened with blood one party concluded to withdraw and fight its battle in the courts.—Ainslee's Magazine.

ARMOUR AND HIS EMPLOYES.

An Incident Showing the Kindness of the Great Chicago Tacker. Perhaps "Phil" Armour had less trouble with his employes than almost any other great employer of labor in the country. He was exacting and required punctuality and energy, but he always paid good wages and showed a personal interest in the welfare of each one of his employes. He never permitted himself to get into debt, and he tried to impress upon his employes the rule which he had followed. It is related that one day, on going into his office, he found a policeman in the corridor.

"What are you doing here, sir?" he asked.

"I am here to serve a paper," was the reply.

"What kind of a paper?" asked Mr. Armour.

"I want to garnishee one of your men's wages for debt," said the policeman.

"Indeed," replied Mr. Armour, "and who is the man?" He thereupon asked the policeman into his private office and ordered that the debtor come in. He then asked the clerk how long he had been in debt. The man replied that for twenty years he had been behind, and that he could not catch up.

"But you get a good salary," said Mr. Armour, "don't you?"

"Yes," said the clerk, "but I can't get out of debt. My life is such that something or other I can't get out."

"But you must get out," said Mr. Armour, "or you must leave here. How much do you owe?"

The clerk then gave the amount. It was less than $1,000. Mr. Armour took his check-book and wrote out a check for the amount.

"There," said he as he handed the clerk the check. "There is enough to pay all your debts. Now I want you to keep out of debt, and if I hear of you again getting into debt you will have to leave."

The man took the check, paid his debts and remodeled his life on a cash basis.

How Trees Are Dwarfed.

Interest in the dwarfed forest trees produced by Chinese and Japanese gardeners is growing in this country. In making the dwarf the gardener breaks a branch from a tree. Just below an "eye" on the branch he cuts and removes a ring of bark. Then he sticks the branch in a ball of specially prepared earth. This he crams into a flower pot and keeps it moist enough to start the roots. After the roots are well grown the water supply is lessened. As the branch puts out limbs these are clamped with wire bands to produce a rugged and ancient look. The roots are kept down by cutting. Honey is smeared on the trunks to attract insects which give it a worm-eaten appearance. It often requires twenty years to perfect the dwarfing.

French Elections. Connected with French parliamentary elections are some curious features. For instance, no wall literature issued by a candidate or his friends may be printed on white paper, while being the color reserved for official announcements. In the days of the empire, when official candidates were known in the land, the addresses of the government's nominees were printed on white paper, and this no doubt had due weight with the more ignorant voters. Again, any elector whose name is mentioned in a newspaper can, if he feel himself aggrieved, call upon the editor to publish a reply. This, however, is not confined to elections, but is a right enjoyed by French citizens under the law of the country.

The Northwestern elevated road of Chicago, which has been in operation six months, reports an average daily traffic of 46,000 passengers for that period, and in the last three months an average of 50,104.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters, and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are cleverly executed the average person would never suspect them of being suspicious. Tokens of great value are always selected for imitation, notably Hooper's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators, but few equal for its purgative, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. ## RESULT OF A FALL.

SAN FRANCISCO ATTORNEY STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Shock to the System Brings on Nervous Prostration—How a Cure Was Effected.

It is doubtful if anything could be written more convincing than the interesting story related by Mr. Edward T. Dudley, a practicing attorney for 25 years in San Francisco, with offices at 83 City Hall avenue. Mr. Dudley lost his balance while standing upon the rear platform of a street car, causing him to fall, striking the ground with the back of his head, which brought on a feeling of numbness and eventually paralysis. Mr. Dudley tells his experience in his own way as follows:

"After the fall from the car I passed it by as an accident that had left no apparent ill effects; yet a few weeks later, in endeavoring to get on a car, I found I could not raise my foot. From that time paralysis began in my feet and in time my lower limbs became numb. I became pale as a ghost and it brought on a bloodless condition of my system. From being a strong, healthy man of 180 pounds, I was reduced to 145 pounds, and my doctor told me that it was only a question of time when I should have to take my bed. Medicine prescribed by the doctors did no good, and, at the time I started to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, if I fell down I could not possibly get up again unassisted. I could scarcely walk a block. Now I can walk three or four miles without fatigue, and as you see, am altogether a different man—and all from eight or nine boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

"After trying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I could see in a very short time that I was picking up color and my health and general system was much improved. I did not change my diet, nor did I take any other medicine, and my increase in weight from 145 pounds to 185 pounds I can lay to nothing else than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Signed, EDWARD T. DUDLEY.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of July, 1900.

UPS AND DOWNS OF MERCUR.

Its Career Only Typical of a Thousand Mining Camps.

The story of Mercur, Utah, is a striking illustration of the ups and downs of a typical mining camp. Many years ago the Indians there were supreme. Arrowheads and other relics picked up near the site of Mercur indicate that the tribes have at times contested among themselves for that supremacy with these hills as a battleground.

In 1870 silver was discovered on this site and two years later the Carrie Steele mine took out $83,000 in three months, and the Camp Floyd boom peaked to its height. Lewiston sprang up almost in a day where Mercur now stands. The town was in a fever. There were rich strikes, shootings, wild parousals and claim jumpings. The Mormon Chief mine was transformed into a fort, and battles for its possession were frequent.

Then the bottom dropped out. The camp was deserted. The sounds of pick and blast were gone from the deep recesses. Bats fluttered unmolested about the rotting timbers. Coyotes slunk into the tunnels and from this vantage ground howled defiance at the fierce wind of winter. For a time the spectral buildings stood gloomily on their stilts, their paneless windows staring vacantly. Then decay made them sink gradually into desolate heaps, to be swept away later by fire.

In 1880 only one house was left in the entire canyon. There lived solitary Moses Manning, keeping up assessment work on a few claims. In 1881 Aric Pinedo thought he had found quicksilver in the old camp. He staked out a claim and named it Mercur. But the mercury never paid to develop the claim. In 1883 gold was found in assays, but it could not be extracted. A few men became interested and carried on mining in a desultory way without success. The Mercur claim was sold as a "gold brick" to a party of Nebraska "tenderfeet." For years they worked away. Ore was to be found in plenty, and the assays showed large amounts of gold. But every process they tried brought no results in extracting the precious metal. They exhausted their capital, and in 1893 they were $50,000 in debt and at the end of their rope.

Gilbert Peyton, one of the owners, who was a Nebraska druggist, visited the mine. Going through the drawers of the office desk he came upon a pamphlet which had been sent to the foreman. It was a brief description of the cyanide process, then new in America. With his druggist's experience Peyton had no difficulty in mixing a cyanide solution and testing it in a cupel with some pulverized ore. But the solution did not seem to percolate through the powdered ore and the experiments were failures. Sick at heart, Peyton left in the cupel a solution with which he had been making tests until it was much diluted, and went to bed. The next morning he noticed that the weakened solution had penetrated the clay cupel.

"If the weak solution will go through clay like that, it ought to go through large pieces of ore," he reasoned.

The problem was solved. A weak solution and larger pieces of ore were tried, and the process worked like a charm.

The owners of the Mercur mine were transformed into rich men. Moses Manning, the patient hermit, made $15,000. The town of Mercur sprang up, phoenix-like, and is to-day one of the richest gold camps in the United States.—Eugene B. Palmer in Ainslee's.

GIRL'S FIGHT WITH A HAWK.

California Child Displayed a Wonderful Amount of Pluck.

Ida Duffy, the 9-year-old daughter of Thomas J. Duffy, of the Palatine Insurance Company, of San Francisco, had a desperate battle with a wounded chicken hawk at San Rafael and narrowly escape with her life. Several days ago the bird was given to the child and it has since been kept a prisoner in the yard of the family residence at that place. The other morning the hawk succeeded in making its escape and flew to a nearby tree, where a piece of string attached to its leg became entangled in the branches, again making the bird a prisoner.

The little girl seeing that the hawk was unable to fly away, ran to the tree, and taking advantage of its spreading limbs, rapidly climbed to a spot many feet above the ground, where the bird was entangled. She attempted to undo the string from the tree, when suddenly the bird swooped at her and buried the talons of both feet in the little girl's face. The child screamed with pain, but pluckily fought the hawk off as again and again it attacked her with beak, talons and wings.

The child's face was terribly scratched, and her hands cut in the struggle, but the little heroine clung to the tree and eventually securing a hold on the bird's legs prevented it from doing further harm. Slowly and painfully she climbed down the tree and still clinging to the struggling bird she brought it with her to the ground and placed it in captivity. Then she ran to the house, where her cut and bleeding face was promptly attended to.—Los Angeles Times.

An Unfortunate Name. Mr. Peet, a rather diffident man, was unable to prevent himself from being introduced one evening to a fascinating young lady, who, misunderstanding his name, constantly addressed him as Mr. Peters, much to the gentleman's distress. Finally, summoning courage, he bravely but earnestly remonstrated: "Oh, don't call me Peters; call me Peet!"

"Ah, but I don't know you well enough, Mr. Peters," said the young lady, blushing, as she playfully withdrew behind her fan.

All She Took.

"Did she take anything when she left her husband's house?"

"Nothing but her departure."

"Then I was misinformed."

"In what way?"

"I understood she took her maiden name."

"Bridget told Mrs. Nextdoor that I was a henpecked fowl; shall I discharge her?" "At once! Bridget has no right to tell our family secrets to the neighbors."—Life.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP.

Released by Peruna—Congressman Howard's Recovery—Congressman Geo. H. White's Case.

La Grippe is epidemic catarrh—it spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper. The masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip." Without intending to do so a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case.

As if some hideous giant with awful GRIP had clutched us in its fatal clasp. Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Peruna For Grip.

Mrs. Dr. C. D. Powell, president of Epworth League, also president of Loyal Temperance Legion, writes from Chehalis, Wash.:

"I have used several remedies in cases of severe colds and la grippe, but none I consider of more value than Peruna."—Mrs. Dr. C. D. Powell.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

After Effects of La Grippe. Miss Emma Jouris, resident Golden Rod Sewing Circle, writes from 40 Burling street, Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"This spring I suffered severely from the after effects of la grippe. As the doctors did not seem to help me I bought a bottle of Peruna."—Miss Emma Jouris.

Congressman Howard's Letter. Fort Payne, Ala.

Gentlemen—I have taken Peruna now for two weeks and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for la grippe and I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers."—W. M. Howard, Member of Congress.
