ECZEMA'S ITOH IS TORTURE.

Eczema is caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the skin and producing great redness and in-flammation; little pustular eruptions form and discharge a thin, sticky fluid, which dries and scales off; sometimes the skin is hard, dry and fissured. Eczema in any form is a tormenting, stubborn disease, and the itching and burning at times are almost unbearable; the acid burning humor seems to core out and set the skin on fire. Salves, washes nor other exter-nal applications do any real good, for as long as the poison remains in the blood it will keep the skin irritated.

By the death of Charles Vaughn, fif-Hood's Sarsaparilla, as multitudes teen miles south of Cedarvale, Kan., in the Osage reservation, the last survivor of a feud which was fought along the border with all the herceness of a Corout. The participants were, on the one hand, Jim and Charles Vaughn, cowboys, who were cousins, and Tom Wilber and Denis Amos, who ran a dive in Caney, Kan., in 1879 and 1880, and the feud began in this place in August, beat Jim Vaughn out of $70. Vaughn, says the Kansas City Times, was by accident unarmed at the Is America's Greatest Spring Medi- time, but left swearing that he would return in three days and kill all the Amoses. Accordingly, Vaughn returned to the ranch on which he was working in the territory, procured a brace of six-shooters, and on the appointed day went back to Caney. The Amoses, barricaded in their joint and armed with three double-barreled shotguns, were horse, and, pulling his six-shooters, began firing and walking toward the Amos joint. The Amoses replied with Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All a broadside from their shotguns, and druggists refund the money if it fails to cure.

A deputy sheriff, who was a warm friend of the joint keepers, arrested Vaughn and put the Amoses and one of their friends on the force to guard him the night after the arrest. During the night, while the deputy slept, the Amoses shot and killed Vaughn. They claimed that he had tried to escape. However, three of

On the second day after his arrival he met Wilber Amos in a drug store, and walking up to him informed him that he was there for the purpose of killing him. Amos reached for his gun, but Vaughn was too quick for him and sent a 45caliber bullet through his brain. The dead man had hardly struck the floor before Vaughn was on his horse riding at breakneck speed toward the town.

Denis Amos was eating dinner when Vaughn reached his house, and without introducing himself the Texan opened fire and sent one bullet through Dennis' breast and another through his head. Professor Slaby, German scientist, The infurlated cowboy then picked up against the floor. He also fired a shot at the woman, but she escaped into the bedroom, and Vaughn, thinking his pursuers were close upon him, mounted his horse and rode away. Although a posse pursued him for two days he was not overtaken, and his whereabouts had never been known from that day to the lay of his death. Recently, when, after six weeks' struggle with the fever, ne found that he had to die, he told his attendants that he was Charles Vaughn and narrated the story, which the older residents of this town know to be true.

Carnegie's Romance.

Andrew Carnegie, in his address before John D. Rockefeller's Bible class in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, nsisted that if a young man must fall in love with a woman he must be careful to love one well on in years. His exact words were:

"If you must fall in love, do so with a woman 20 or 30 years your senior. The greatest friend a young man can have is a woman, but the woman must be much older than he."

This precept is greatly at variance with the practice of the preceptor. Mr. Carnegie in his selection of a wife didn't follow the advice given his hearers. He married late in life, and the woman of his choice was 20 years younger than he. It was not until 1887 that he took to wife Miss Louise Whitfield, the daughter of John Whitfield. No. 35 West Forty-eight street. Ten years later a little baby girl blessed their union. Mr. Carnegie at the time his first child was born was 62 years

Behind the steel magnate's marriage there lurks a romance. It is said that he would have married earlier in life, and some years before his marriage was very much in love with a Miss Tula Addison, who afterward became Mme. De Ximenez. Mr. Carnegie venerated his mother, however, and it is said promised her not to marry during her lifetime. He kept his word, and those who like to gossip say that his promise prevented his marriage to the first woman of his choice.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Well, that's not so bad," was the rural workman's comment. "Art is not so paying now. Still, if ye like to do more work for me, I'll give ye more than I do as a rule.'

"Thanks," replied Leighton, "My name is Leighton."

"Very pleased to know you, Mr. Leighton," replied the man, ignorant of what the name meant. "My name is

> The Westminster Gazette gives some interesting information concerning the use of tobacco by the clergy in different religious bodies. "John Wesley," it says, "forbade his preachers to smoke or chew tobacco, or take snuff.' This rule still obtains in the Wesleyan ministry. Thackeray hoped the day would come when he would see a bishop lolling out the Athenaeum with a cigar in his mouth, or at least a pipe stuck in his shovel-hat. He did not live to see publicly proclaimed the virtues of tobacco as a bond of sympathy between man and man. 'At your idol again, Mr. Hall,' exclaimed a lady once on discovering Robert Hall, the celebrated divine, with a pipe in his mouth. 'Yes,' said the preacher, 'burning it, ma'am."

The late Prof. Max Muller was originally just Muller, but he added one of his Christian names, Max, to his surname, and became Max Muller. His change of surname and of nationality did not add to his popularity in Germany, where his former compatriots used to say that "but for his settling in England he might have become a scholar." Considerable amusement was tory: "My best wishes to you and your gallant crew." "Great Scott!" or its when I went to bed. Sanscrit equivalent, the professor is said to have exclaimed, "just as if 1 were a 'coach' running along the embankment with a trumpet." The point of the joke is that Max Muller disliked every form of exercise, and used to say that "There is only one act of folly more egregious than looking at a football game, and that is taking part in famous English physician, Sir Richard Owen, when called upon for expert testimony in a celebrated poisoning case where a subtle toxic was suspected to have been used, testified that there are several toxics which cause death and leave no trace, and, upon being asked to name them, and refusing to do so, stated as his reason for refusing that such knowledge was too dangerous to be made public. The court for that reason sustained him in his refusal to name the poisons. This single circumstance in the report of the trial attracted such wide attention that Sir Richard Owen received 700 letters from all parts of the world and all conditions of people asking for the names of the polsons-letters in which the writers resorted to all sorts of arts and wiles to elicit the coveted information.
