BONANZA.

Rev. Bristol of Merrill is now a resident of Bonanza. He preaches here every two weeks.

J. A. Chastain and wife went to Klamath Falls last Saturday and returned Sunday. Their son, George, came home with them for a couple of days' business.

H. W. Keese of Klamath Falls was in town last Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Craig preached here last Sunday evening.

Local talent presented the drama, "The Old Hickory Farm," last Friday evening at Bauman's hall to a large and appreciative audience. It was presented in a very "stagy" fashion and the good talent exhibited in such an able manner did credit to all.

J. H. Chrisman and Geo. Maxwell spent Saturday at the Falls.

The Odd Fellows of this place will celebrate the anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America April 26th. They hope for a goodly number from Klamath Falls and Lakeview lodges to be present. Robert A. Hopkins of this place will give the oration.

This Valley is now on the forward move. Several people from abroad are now here with a view of purchasing some of this good land at rock bottom prices. Two irrigating schemes are now in progress which will, when completed, enhance the value of real estate enormously.

The Odd Fellows and Rebeccas have a large subscription fund now raised for the purpose of purchasing a good organ for their new hall recently completed.

Bonanza is now a town with the following as officers: Councilmen, William Goss, J. A. Chastain, L. J. Bauman, A. D. Harpold and R. S. Goodrich; recorder, J. O. Hamaker; treasurer, William Bauman. The marshal is yet to be appointed by the council.

Mrs. Bean was taken suddenly ill last Sunday evening and for some hours was in a very precarious condition, but was finally resuscitated and now hopes for her recovery are entertained. However, she will be confined to her bed for some time.

The "Bonanza Hornet" is the latest newspaper adventure in this town. It is edited by Zevely Bros. and is a newsy little concern. The editors say they have two subscribers who frequently get full, and every time they are in that condition they come in and pay a year in advance. One of them is already credited to 1941, and the fraternity throughout the state is crazy to find out what brand of whiskey he drinks. They want to offer it as a premium.

FATAL AFFRAY AT KLAMATHON.

Yreka Journal.

Last Tuesday about noon, Wesley Dollarhide stabbed and seriously wounded a man named Jack Norris in McDonald's saloon at Klamathon, both being under the influence of liquor at the time. The constable, Geo. Norris, brother of Jack, was notified to arrest Dollarhide, and didn't know until afterwards that it was his brother who had been carved up so seriously. The constable notified Dollarhide that he had been placed under arrest, and proceeded to take him by the arm, whereupon Dollarhide used his knife, cutting the constable's hand rather severely, with further attempts in the carving line. The constable feeling his life in danger, pulled a pistol and fired two shots, one taking effect in the breast of Dollarhide, who died in a very short time. The deceased was noted as a desperate fighter, having had several scraps at different times, while Jack Norris had a similar reputation, having had his leg amputated some years ago from being shot in the knee by McLaughlin, one of the original owners of the Pokemama saw mill plant. The constable after the trouble walked to Ager, the next station south of Hornbrook, to avoid the possibility of further trouble with members of the Dollarhide family, and boarded the Oregon express, coming to Montague and thence to Yreka to deliver himself to the sheriff for an examination before the courts for his action. The constable bears the reputation of being a quiet, peaceable citizen, a man of family and possessed of excellent judgment in the performance of his official duty; hence the public consider he was fully justified in using his weapon for self defense, from being cut to pieces by the infuriated assailant. Doctor McNulty and the constable visited Klamathon to attend the coroner's inquest, the doctor making a post mortem examination as county physician, and the constable appearing as a witness in company with other witnesses. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts as above stated, and exonerated the constable as acting in justifiable self defense in the performance of his duties. Dollarhide was a young man about 31 years of age, and Jack Norris is a few years older, his injuries being very serious. Dollarhide had a large butcher knife, over 14 inches in length, and hacked posts, chairs, bar and fixtures generally, doing much damage. The saloons were all closed as he came up the main street, but reopened after he passed by, when he returned and walked into the first one found open. People generally kept out of the way, but Jack Norris, who was under the influence of liquor, remained in the saloon, when both began drinking and soon got into a quarrel, with the result above stated.

The post mortem examination held by Dr. McNulty revealed that the fatal shot took effect in Dollarhide's breast, between the fifth and sixth ribs, passing through his heart and lodging in the left side. Powder marks were also visible over his right eye, indicating that the other shot closely grazed his head, many supposing he had also been shot in the head.

Jack Norris came to the hospital in Yreka by Wednesday afternoon's Oregon express, and was covered with bandages, having a bad cut over the right eye and both eyes were black, also cuts in the hands, arms and other places. He walked from the train to the hospital, and after awhile will be all right again, though probably marked with scars to remind him of his close call.

The father of young Dollarhide tried to take his boy home, but could do nothing with him, and the people generally sympathize with him, as he is a respected and worthy citizen, desirous of doing what is right.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER.

The Lakeview Examiner gives the following good advice to the kickers of Lakeview:

"If there's any chance to boom business, boom it 'gosh! Don't be a knocker. Don't pull a long face and get sour in your stomach. Hope a bit. Get a smile on you. Hold up your head. Get a hold with your hands. Then pull. Bury your hatchet. Drop your tomahawk. Hide your little hammer. When a stranger drops in, jolly him. Tell him this is the greatest town on earth. It is. Don't get muleish. Don't roast. Just jolly. All men like to be jollied always. So jolly. Get popular. It's dead easy. Help yourself along. Push your friends with you. Soon you'll have a whole procession. Be a good fellow."

"No man helped himself by knocking other people down. No man ever got rich trying to make people believe that he was the only good man on earth. You can't climb the ladder of fame by stepping on other people's corns. They're their corns. Not yours. And they're tender. Keep off the corns."

"All men are not alike. Once in awhile you may find one who is very much alike. But some are different. You're not the only one. If you don't like their style, let 'em alone. Don't knock. Walk right in. And make yourself look pleasant. You'll get used to it. There is no end of fun in minding your own business. And it makes other people like you better. Better have others stuck on you than get stuck on yourself. Nobody gets stuck on a knocker. Don't be one. Or two."

KLAMATH LANDS TO BE INSPECTED.

Oregonian.

General W. H. Odell returned this week from Washington, where he appeared before the General Land Office in behalf of the state's claim for 171,000 acres of swamp land in Klamath county. In order to secure this land under the terms of a grant made by congress in 1861, the state must prove that the land is swampy. After the grant had been made, the Government created the Klamath Indian reservation, and since then the state's right has been dormant. Recently the Government decided to allot the lands of the reservation among the Indians, and notified the state to present the proof in support of its claim to the swampy tracts. As the land is now covered with snow, no inspection could be made in order to ascertain the exact amount the state has a claim upon, and General Odell asked that the state be granted time to procure testimony. An examination of the lands will be made in June or later, when the evidence will be submitted to the Land Office.

Richard Harding Davis' "The Princess Aline" in dramatized form, illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson, is a feature of the April Ladies' Home Journal. "The Beautiful Jewess Who was Called the Princess of Her People," and "The Lovers of a Cheerful Giver" are two other articles of interest in the same issue. Miss Grison, the American woman golf champion, shows "How Golf is Played" in a series of photographs. Edward Bok further emphasizes the value of simpler living, and Helen Waterson Moody offers guidance through "The First Tragedy in a Girl's Life," "A Stucco Country House for $7500," "A Shingled Country House for $2500," and "Some Artistic Little Homes" have a practical value to those planning to build homes. There are three short stories by Gelett Burgess, W. A. Fraser and Laura Spencer Porter, and Elizabeth Stewart Phelps' "The Successors of Mary the First" is concluded. W. L. Taylor's painting, "The Barn-Raising as a Social Event," worthily fills a whole page, and "Through Picturesque America" is finished, making way for similar tours into other lands. Much space is devoted to fashions, and there are articles on gardening, the lawn, floriculture, cooking, etc. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.
