Ashland Tidings: Father LaMillers of Woodburn has been appointed to take charge of the Ashland and Klamath Falls mission field, and is expected here within a day or two.

At Ashland war is now on between the city council and five saloons. Suits were commenced on Tuesday last week, and both sides propose to carry the cases to the court of last resort.

At least three or four car loads of farm machinery have been hauled into town this spring. These and the immense loads of goods and other freight have given the streets a busy look.

R. S. Moore has constructed a machine, run by water power, by means of which the sawdust accumulating at his mill is taken away and disposed of without dumping it into the river.

A visitor to Klamath Falls this week volunteered the statement that Klamath county has the most promising future and is the most desirable spot for investment of any locality on the Coast.

We understand the Odd Fellows are to have a special meeting next Saturday evening to discuss the question of erecting a new building this year and will probably decide the matter at that time.

A new ruling of the postoffice department imposes a fine of $200 or a year's imprisonment on any one who carelessly takes mail not belonging to him from the postoffice and neglects to return it immediately.

Mrs. Cogswell, one of the teachers at Klamath Falls, left to-day for Forest Grove, where she will pass the summer with relatives. She will return in the fall and again teach in the school, in which she has been well liked.

According to latest reports Mrs. McKinley, whose life was nearly despaired of last week, is now steadily improving at the Scott residence in San Francisco and will soon be able to withstand the return trip to Washington, for which point a direct route will be taken.

Ashland Tidings: A. Y. Beach, who was in Ashland last Friday, says that the sheep interests of Lake county are in a prosperous condition. The lambing season has just commenced and the percentage will be much higher than usual. The percent this year will be 125, as against an annual average of from 40 to 75.

Cheaper rates from the East to the Coast will continue all summer. This means that the number of home-seekers will greatly increase. Accordingly, it would be a wise and beneficial stroke of enterprise if the citizens of this county would make a united and systematic effort to set forth the resources and advantages here and thus augment the influx of new settlers.

E. B. Ramsby and wife arrived here last Thursday from Lakeview and expect to make Klamath Falls their permanent home. Like many others, Mr. Ramsby is confident of a lively growth for this town and vicinity in the near future and wisely proposes to cast his lot here. They were accompanied by Miss Flo. Hall who was on her way to her home at Myrtle Creek, Or.

Ashland Tidings: A pioneer lady of Grants Pass who resided here at the time is the authority of the Grants Pass Observer for the statement that on "May 16, 1873, snow fell on the Siskiyou above Ashland to a depth of eleven inches and snow fell in every month of that year except August. The leaves on the oak trees were frozen and corn three feet high was killed."

W. A. Liston of Salem, who has been here several weeks in the interest of the Continental Insurance Company, departed for home Monday morning. While in the county, he adjusted the loss of J. W. Stout of Poe Valley. The amount of insurance, $2000, was paid in full. He also wrote a large amount of insurance for different ranchers, and expects to return here to do some more work in that line during the coming summer.

The Express of last week wrongfully imputes blame to the register of the land office because of some contents over certain government lands. We doubt if any one of the parties interested on either side attaches the slightest blame to such officer. That the Express has performed his duties exactly as the law directs and that he will decide such contests impartially and in accordance with the law and evidence, there can be no question in the minds of any concerned.

J. L. Hanks and his son, Marion Hanks, are making great improvement on their land on the Big Klamath lake and near town. J. L. Hanks has just put up a wind mill and completed a flume for irrigating purposes, and Marion Hanks, whose land adjoins the rapidly improving irrigation current wheel and pump, by which water can be raised thirty feet for irrigation. Thus they will make valuable for cultivation and crops a large tract of land hitherto nearly worthless for want of water.

We learn that there are several good race tracks in the county. The Fourth of July is a natural time for utilizing these tracks. And it will be a good time also for organizing a county fair, so that at least once a year the citizens can have displays of fast horses and races, fat cattle and everything in the nature of grain, vegetables and fruit. Other counties have such displays every year, and why not Klamath county also? People can go and receive benefit and enjoyment and the time will not be lost. Every man and every family should have a holiday occasionally.

The Klamath Falls schools closed last Friday for the summer vacation, and in the afternoon of that day the several departments united in rendering an appropriate literary and musical program. Besides the pupils and teachers, a large crowd of patrons attended. After the songs, recitations and debate, all of which were interesting, a number of visitors responded to invitations to address the gathering. The afternoon was pleasantly spent, and both pupils and teachers rejoiced that they were to have a three months' respite from school duties. Prof. Guthe, the principal, departed with his family for Ashland on Saturday.

The Oregonian of Tuesday reports that the cases of Ashland against the saloon keepers were tried on Monday and decided against the defendants, who were fined from $50 to $75 each. The cases were appealed to the circuit court, pending which the fines were suspended. "During the trials evidence was offered in court of the sale of liquors under various fictitious names. One witness testified that he had asked for cold tea at the bar, and that he had been served with whiskey from a teapot. The defense attempted to have the case dismissed on a technicality, and will attack the validity of the ordinances under which the arrests were made."

Referring to our statement a few weeks ago in relation to erecting a wooden mill on the grand water power at Klamath Falls, the Lakeview Examiner of last week says: "There is no denying the fact, Friend Huse, that your water power is as fine as can be found in the world, and that some day Klamath Falls will be a big manufacturing town. But we also have right here in Lake county as fine a water power as can be found in the state, and if a wooden mill is to be operated by water power, to handle the wools of Southeastern Oregon, the Chewaucan river at Paisley will furnish ample power for this great industry. There is power for many great industries going to waste at Paisley."

Time is rambling along and suggests that the Fourth of July is not a very great way off. Last year Klamath Falls had a first class celebration on the 4th. It was well gotten up, appropriately arranged and successfully carried out. A patriotic display in all respects was, with music, orations, dances, fireworks in the evening and good order and pleasure everywhere prevailing. Why not have another celebration this year? If so, why not begin to think it over and commence getting ready for it? Invite everybody in the county to lay aside business cares and troubles and come. Join the ranks of joy, listen to the music, participate in the dance, see old friends and open a genial acquaintance with everybody.

The Yreka Journal, speaking of the increased railroad traffic in Siskiyou county, says that "a few years ago only one freight train a day was supplied, and a short one at that, while some of the time only a tri-weekly freight passed over the road. Now there are several freight trains every day, more than half of the trains containing heavily loaded lumber cars, with many loads of long timbers, requiring double flat cars to hold them. A single passenger train of seven or eight cars supplied the traveling requirements, while lately two daily trains into sections most of the time for better hauling, as 12 or 14 coaches and Pullmans are as many as two of the heaviest locomotives can haul, especially on the mountain grades, where three engines are occasionally used for passenger trains."

Gov. Geer of this state returned home to Salem on Saturday last from San Francisco, where he had spent a week. Previous to returning he called on President McKinley, who especially requested Governor Geer to express to the people of Oregon his regret that he was unable to visit them at this time. The President considered his misfortune greater than that of the people of Oregon, who had been so kind to him both politically and socially. He had for years, he said, looked forward with pleasure to a visit to Oregon, which he considered one of the coming great states of the Union, not only on account of her natural resources, but also owing to her geographical position in respect to the expanding commerce in the Orient. The President further stated that he yet, during his administration, expected to complete his tour originally planned. In that event he would go direct from Washington to the Northwest."

Speaking of "radical reforms," such as electric railroads, steamboats and the suppression of cow stealing, etc., the Lakeview Examiner reports that at a meeting of the editorial association of Lake and Modoc counties, at Lakeview last week, it was resolved among other things, that the association use its utmost efforts to interest capital in the construction of an electric railway from Cedarville to Paisley via Lakeview; to put steamboats on Goose Lake, and Abert Lake to run up the Chewaucan River to Paisley for commercial purposes as well as pleasure; and to send a memorial to Congress asking for the appointment of a "Bigologist" to compress ticks—especially the sage tick
