It is reported that Bare Island in the Big Klamath lake has recently been purchased. The island contains about 160 acres and has a valuable hot spring on it. Some day not far off this island will be in demand as a summer and health resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Martin jr. entertained a number of friends last evening in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Aiken of Fresno, Cal., who are visiting them. Delicious refreshments followed progressive cards, which, with general sociability, made the evening pass swiftly and pleasantly.

Dr. Hull and wife, H. L. Small, W. H. Smith, Mrs. Emma C. Parrish, Mrs. Esther Durgin, John O'Neill and W. H. Roberts arrived here from Klamath yesterday on their way to Lakeview to make final proof on timber claims which they had selected in the Wood river country.

The Rudwin Dramatic Co., playing here this week, will hereafter work under the name of the Southern Stock Co., of which Messrs. Buchanan and Meade, accomplished comedians, are the managers. The company goes from here to Jacksonville, where, as elsewhere, they will merit success.

Lakeview Examiner: Louis Gerber returned Monday from Silver lake and the Sican country. During this trip he purchased 2000 head of mutton, and 100 head of beef. The latter stock are two and three purchased from Jim Small of Silver lake. Mr. Gerber informs us that he paid $30 per head for the beef.

They were returning from a trip to Portland. Mr. Brattain was called to Portland to testify before the federal grand jury in the action against the Jesse D. Carr company.

On Saturday the thermometer indicated from 84 to 92 degrees in the shade. This was the hottest day of the year thus far. No danger of sun stroke in that. With the delicious, ice cold water of the mountains, we cannot help contrasting the conditions of things here with the fiery furnace in Kansas and other states in the east.

The Klamath River Irrigation and Electric Power Company continues as we understand, to perfect their arrangements and will soon be ready to commence work. As to the great water power which the company has, the more we hear of it the more we are amazed that some one has not secured possession of it before. It is a fortune in itself and with good business management can be made an immense help to the county in the way of irrigation. Hence we hope to see the enterprise push ahead, and that it will not lack the necessary capital and energy to do so.

Buchanan & Meade's Southern Stock Co. is giving a series of excellent dramatic entertainments here this week. "Maud Muller" was presented Monday evening, "Hazel Kirk" Tuesday evening and "A Wife's Peril" last evening. The old and interesting drama, "East Lynne," will be reproduced tonight. Large and appreciative audiences have attended, and as good dramatic talent as that now here seldom visits towns off of railroads, no one should fail to take advantage of the present opportunity. The comedy is skillfully handled by Messrs. Buchanan and Meade and is ably supported by accomplished actors and actresses.

A blaze in some bed clothes in the second story of C. D. Wilson's building, adjoining his saloon, brought out the hose company Monday afternoon. As the bedding was quickly thrown into the street, the fire did not spread and no water was needed. The bed was being occupied by a young man giving his name as Anderson, and his residence as Portland. He was under the influence of liquor and had been put to bed to recuperate. After the fire, Marshal Cerling jailed Anderson, and the next morning brought him before Recorder Keese who imposed a fine of $25. Failing to liquidate, the young man was returned to jail. At the same time another man from California who had been arrested for drunkenness, was fined $5.

Yreka Journal: The little town of Salsun, which put in a municipal water plant not long ago, drawing upon some large springs as a source of supply, found that the consumption amounted to 85,000 or 90,000 gallons a day, and this exhausted the capacity of the springs. The town officials scolded and exhorted the people not to waste water, but the consumption could not be reduced. Then meters were put on, and almost immediately the consumption fell to 50,000 gallons, the whole problem being solved by making every household pay for what he used and not more or less. The time is coming when it will be realized that any other plan of selling water is as absurd as it would be to sell milk without measuring it.

Lakeview Examiner: On July 12th, between Bly and Royston, the east bound Western stage team ran away while coming down a hill, and much damage was the result. After demolishing the stage the team detached itself and ran through the woods. There was one passenger aboard, who escaped injury, but the driver was seriously hurt about the face and head. The passenger cared for the driver and then went in pursuit of the stage team. After some time he captured the horses, and started with mail and horses for Bly, when the animals again ran away, scattering the mail promiscuously along the road side. The passenger finally got the mail together and reached Bly six hours late. From there a physician was sent to attend the driver, whose name is Fred Day. His face is said to be horribly mutilated.

Alex Martin jr. came down from Spring creek on Tuesday leaving the rest of the party diligently engaged in the enjoyable business of yanking out trout. We understand that according to law a fisherman can catch 140 or 150 trout per day, and not be liable to pain or penalty. It is hardly probable, therefore, that the party at Spring creek will transgress the law, as 140 trout per man ought to be enough, especially as he cannot sell or give them away, but must, according to a humane interpretation of the law, eat them all himself. (From this fact it may also be deduced that on their return they will present a sleek and well fed appearance.) Spring creek is truly called a fisherman's paradise, and is probably more deserving of that title than any other stream in the state.

Capt. C. H. Schoff and D. Dionne of Wenatchee, Wash., arrived here on Tuesday to visit their old friend, I. A. Duffy, and also to consider the question of building a steamboat. Capt. Schoff has run a steamboat on the Columbia river for several years, and Mr. Dionne has also had a thorough experience in the steamboat business. It is to be hoped that they will find the prospect so good and promising that they will remain here permanently. They have every appearance of being progressive, genial and successful business men, and their permanent home here will be cordially welcomed. Whether it will or will not be very profitable at the present time to run a steamboat on these lakes, we do not know, yet we are convinced that as soon as a railroad reaches here, a steamboat will forthwith be in demand, and probably several steamboats. The thousands of tourists that will invade this country every summer to visit Crater lake and the mountains and forests, and the many summer and health resorts that will then be built along the lakes, will assure ample patronage to a boat. We hope Messrs. Schoff and Dionne will find everything to their liking, and that after fully studying the case, their past experience in the business will warrant them success in it here.

Messrs. F. W. Jennings and H. H. Van Valkenburg started out on a hunting and fishing expedition on Sunday of last week. They were fitted out with all necessary weapons to kill game and fish, and they took with them a well selected supply of victuals sufficient to assuage such pangs of hunger as hunters and fishermen are apt to carry with them in their travels. Thus they cheerfully set forth and traveled north on the west side of the lake, and camped the first night at Rock creek. The second night they pitched their tents at Cherry creek, the third night they were lulled to sleep by the sound of the waves on Big Klamath lake and the fourth night they again stayed at Rock creek, and the next night found them at home again. They had a successful trip, a good time, healthy appetites, good digestion and plenty to eat. They saw highlands and lowlands, mountains, extinct volcanoes, dense forests, rivers and creeks, and far away they saw a row of snow covered peaks scattered along the rim of the sky. As to the game they slaughtered, it might not be in good taste to boast as it would be apt to excite the envy of others, to give an account of it. However it may not be amiss to state that among the most conspicuous of what they killed was an enormously great buck, fat, tender and altogether desirable. This after a hard contest, they overcame and brought home with them, and divided with their friends and neighbors, to the great pleasure of all concerned.

A. L. Leavitt had a thrilling experience last week as the result of getting lost among the forest-clad mountains between Round lake and Aspen lake. He and Bert Withrow were enjoying a deer hunt and were camped near Round lake. Thursday night they were so far from camp that they subdued the internal appeal for hash and, converting a grassy, shaded plot into a bed, stretched out and fell asleep. Thus they slumbered until 3 o'clock the next morning when they arose and went forth, still unacquainted, in quest of deer. To cover a larger field, they decided to separate. Soon afterwards Mr. Leavitt espied a large, fat buck. The prospect fired his ambition and energy, and swiftly and determinedly but carefully he started in pursuit. He shot at the animal and drew blood, by which latter he was enabled to follow the trail more closely. He thoughtfully removed his shoes, so that the thud of heavy feet would not frustrate the purpose of his chase. Thus he patted the mountain slopes and skipped along as lively as his pedal extremities would carry him. Finally his vision failed to resurrect the deer and the propriety of getting back to camp began to take precedence. Instead of heading for camp, he started in an opposite direction and soon landed on the bank of Aspen lake, which he did not recognize. Hunger was gnawing furiously and he was weakening. Finding that he was truly lost, he laid the matter before himself for serious consideration. He felt a mingling of shame and chagrin at being lost, but it was a fact which he had to face and which he urged himself to handle with fortitude and coolness. After tramping until the middle of Friday afternoon he came to a familiar ranch where he quieted his rampant appetite with the most enjoyable meal he ever ate. From there he reached the camp on Round lake easily. Hours before, Bert Withrow had arrived and was comfortably sleeping on the approach of Mr. Leavitt.

I. S. Bradley, the city shoe and boot maker, makes all kinds of new work from an old-fashioned plough shoe to an up-to-date buckaroo boy's boot. Does all kinds of repairing. Mr. Bradley came here with a good recommendation as a man and mechanic. He also has two premiums on fine work from the Vancouver county, (Iowa), fair.
