

Oregon has thus far received four of the highest awards among its exhibits at the Buffalo exposition. It takes first place in fruits, wool, butter and collection of farm exhibits.

The Duke and Duchess of York have finished their itinerary of Canada and departed for home. They traveled clear across Canada and probably return home with an enlarged idea of the extent of real estate belonging to England on this continent.

A man can't build up his own business and reputation by trying to tear down those of his competitor or other fellow-townsmen. No one can entirely subdue his naturally selfish qualities, but he can so cover them that they will be inoffensive, materially helping his success.

Herr Johann Most, anarchist editor of New York City, has been sentenced to serve a year at Sing Sing for publishing a seditious article the day following the shooting of President McKinley. When he regains his liberty his inclination to teach anarchy may be somewhat modified.

A Chicago newspaper telegraphed United States Senator Mitchell of Oregon for his opinion as to the propriety of President Roosevelt's entertainment of Brooker T. Washington. Senator Mitchell answered substantially that he thought it was a private matter and no concern to the public.

Sunday's San Francisco Bulletin contains a report to the effect that the recent massacres on Samar Island were a part of a plot concocted by Filipinos to exterminate the whole white population of the islands. According to the report, the general massacre was frustrated by army officials.

The annual election is approaching in eastern states and the warmth of the campaign is at its height. This is a reminder that Oregon should hold its county and state elections in the fall instead of spring. Thus double expense and annoyance would not fall on the state every four years when a national election comes off.

The English propose to set apart a day for general prayers for the success of their armies against the Boers. The Boers have entreated aid from the same source. Is Providence in a dilemma, or will He hold aloof and let the two contending elements fight it out? But a power like England against a comparative handful of struggling patriots like the Boers would not be apt to receive a further handicap in the shape of divine help. However, England can't be blamed for carrying out its hereditary instinct of scrambling for everything visible or invisible.

Czolgosz, who will be executed in the electric chair some time next week for the atrocious murder of President McKinley, is little heard of these days. No one is allowed to communicate with him, and the newspapers have little to say about him. He is not receiving the attention from the press which his diseased mind probably expected. He has dropped out of sight, only to reappear when he meets the penalty of his dastardly crime. Then his name will pass into history as that of a abhorred wretch—a suitable companion for the names of the two other murderers of American presidents, Booth and Gattuso.

"Strenuous" is now leading the word "proposition" in frequency of use. Everything from perspiring over a wood-saw to thrashing out laws in congress is apt to be termed "strenuous" these days. It can't be so often improperly used as "proposition," which has been pulled a long way out of its adapted sphere and applied indiscriminately. A rusty wrench, a refractory horse and a steambot stranded on a sandbar have been called "tough propositions." It has been a much abused word and its relief is deserved, though its successor, "strenuous," will doubtless in time also write and shriek under the torture of excessive misuse.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY. (Ashland Tidings.) There are quite a number of new and important changes and additions to the instructions to bidders and postmasters in the conditions to be incorporated in the contracts for carrying the United States mail the quadrennial letting of which will be announced by Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, February 1, 1902. The names of the routes on which bids are asked in this vicinity were published in the Tidings ten days ago.

One of the first important changes will exclude foreign bidders, for the successful bidder must bind himself to give his personal attention to the service and reside on or contiguous to the route.

The postmaster general may also designate the road over which the mail on any route may be carried and may at any time order the carrier to travel over a particular road in order to deliver mail into boxes, allowing pro rata additional pay for any increase in distance that may be caused thereby.

A provision for rural delivery of mail is also made which will require the mail carrier—who must be of good character and sufficient intelligence to properly handle and deposit mail along the routes—to deliver mail into boxes and small bags or satchels containing mail on small posts or cranes which may be erected along the route by any person living on the star-route and within 80 rods of any postoffice not within the corporate limits of a town. The person who receives the mail may provide or erect a suitable box or crane on the roadside located in such manner as to be reached conveniently by the carrier without dismounting from the vehicle or horse. Persons so desiring mail must file with the postmaster at the post office to which his mail is addressed a request in writing for the delivery of his mail to the carrier for deposit at the risk of the addressee. The person receiving mail must provide the box or crane and receptacle without expense to the department. It is made the duty of every postmaster who receives such application to deliver such mail; but registered mail shall not be so delivered unless expressly requested by the addressee in the order.

The carrier must receive any mail or private mail satchel that may be entrusted to him outside of the usual mail bag and it shall be delivered by him into the proper mail box placed on the line of the route for such purpose. Such services by the carrier are to be without charge to the addressee. The department does not prescribe any design of box or satchel to be used; only it must afford ample protection for the mail placed in it. If there be a lock to the box the key is to be held by the carrier as he is expected to deposit the mail without the necessity of unlocking the box. The box or crane should be placed where it will not obstruct public travel on the road and yet be handy for the mail carrier to reach it.

DEATH OF ALLEN T. HOLT. (Medford Mail.) Allen T. Holt, son of S. H. Holt, of Ashland, died at Tucson, Arizona, where he had gone for the benefit of his health, on October 11th. Mr. Holt had been suffering with tuberculosis and left Ashland in company with his father, on Tuesday of last week in the hope that the climate of southern Arizona would stay the ravages of the disease. At Los Angeles he had a backset and gradually sank until death came soon after reaching his destination. Mr. Holt was twenty-seven years and eight months of age and came to Jackson county twenty years ago with his parents, and settled near Phoenix. He was a graduate of the Drain normal school, while Prof. Van Scoy was principal, and followed the profession of teacher in this and Klamath counties. Mr. Holt was a resident of Medford several years ago, where he has many friends. The remains were brought to Phoenix, where interment was made on Wednesday, Rev. W. B. Moore officiating.

I. F. DAVIES. (Lakeview Examiner.) I. F. Davies, one of the old residents of Lake county, has concluded to cast his lot in Klamath county, and has located at Dairy, in the heart of one of the richest sections of Klamath. Mr. Davies is preparing to open a model country store at Dairy and has named his establishment "The Excelsior." With good business foresight he has entered into a yearly contract with The Examiner to carry an advertisement for him, and the same appears in this issue. Mr. Davies has become familiar with the business of merchandising and being a thorough business man, as well as a man of genial personality, there is no shadow of doubt about his future success. Mr. Davies is also a man of great enterprise and we would not be surprised to hear of him inducing the Klamath Electric Power Company to build an electric road to Dairy. The proprietor of "The Excelsior" will also be the village postmaster, and has ordered a handsome, up-to-date postoffice cabinet with lock and wire boxes. The good people living in the vicinity of Dairy will lose nothing by having Mr. Davies settle among them, and Lake county loses an honorable and upright citizen. They will find in Mr. Davies a social, warm hearted gentleman, and a square business man.

THE R. K. TO KLAMATH. (Ashland Record.)

The Mason, Lindley & Co. saw-mill at Klamath have 200,000 railroad ties already sawed at their mill and the present drive of 85,000 ft logs that was started down the river a week ago last Monday is to be cut into ties also.

Civil Engineer McLead who made the preliminary survey of the railroad from the S. P. line beyond Klamath along the south side of Klamath river to a point opposite Fall creek, where it crosses the river and goes into their timber belt, arrived at Klamath Friday to set the grade stakes.

The Mason, Lindley & Co. people will in the spring also erect a big double mill about half a mile from the site of their present single saw mill at Klamath.

SENATOR MITCHELL RETURNS. (Oregonian.)

Senator John H. Mitchell returned last night, after an absence from Portland of three and a half months. Leaving Portland Senator Mitchell went almost directly abroad, where he spent two months with his family in Paris. When he went away Senator Mitchell's health was poor and he had not fully recovered from his serious illness of last Spring. He stated last night, however, that he had fully recovered, and that he had not felt so well for years.

On arriving last evening Senator Mitchell registered at the Hotel Perkins. He received many callers during the evening, and until a late hour was engaged with his friends. He will remain in Portland about five weeks before going East to take up his Congressional duties.

HOG DISEASE. (Yreka Journal.)

A number of farmers at Little Shasta, Big Shasta and Willow Creek, have lost several head of fine hogs from some unknown disease, probably hog cholera or possibly plague. The hogs refuse to eat, and want to drink as if dry, but drink very little. All sorts of remedies have been tried without much benefit, indicating the old claim that a sick hog is incurable. One farmer says the most success he gained was in burning sulphur, which almost suffocated them, but resulted in the death of only two head in eight days. Bleeding has also been tried, but no blood could be drawn by the most severe cutting, which indicates that the malady is a blood disease, undoubtedly contagious, and of feverish nature, although several farmers have suffered no loss as yet. Andrew Soule of Little Shasta lost 17 out of 25 head, and A. L. Babcock of the same place, also lost several. At Willow Creek, Wise has only 10 left of a band of 80 head, also L. Huseman at Big Shasta, and others report losses.

One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly I put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining fast and will soon be able to work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck."
