KLAMATH COUNTY.

The following article on the resources and development of Klamath county appeared in the New Year's Oregonian.

It is patent to those who have investigated that Klamath county needs only railroad facilities to place it in the front rank, commercially and otherwise, among localities of the Pacific Coast. It is a source of surprise that modern transportation has not long ere now sought to share in the profits of a county so rich and varied in resources and products.

Large tracts of the Klamath Sugar Pine Lumber Company, which, cooperating with the Southern Pacific, has made preparations to run a road from Klamath, Cal., up the Klamath river to Pokenama, a distance of 30 miles, Klamath Falls being the ultimate terminus.

Klamath county is larger than Connecticut, having an area of 5882 square miles. There are 1,206,000 acres of agricultural land, 1,000,000 acres of grazing land, 1,250,000 acres of timber land and 276,480 acres covered by lakes and marshes.

The forests of this county lead natural resources, and are the source of great future wealth and industrial activity. In quality, the sugar and yellow pine is nowhere excelled.

Abundance of alfalfa and native grasses, a mild climate and an unlimited supply of pure water have favored this county exceptionally for stockraising.

Irrigation has more than doubled the past year and has worked wonders in transforming miles of sagebrush plains into fields of luxuriant alfalfa and grain.

Two ditches from Little Klamath lake have for several years irrigated forks of Sprague river near Bly. Two of these have been promoted by local companies and the other two by James Boyd for the exclusive use of his big ranch.

During the past 12 months additions to the population have been made by the sale of unusually large tracts of land at an average of about 40 per cent, ranch property being valued at from $5 to $50 an acre, varying according to improvements, location and accessibility to irrigation.

Fruitgrowing is steadily advancing and it will not be many years before the local demand can be wholly provided from orchards here.

Dairying has become a profitable auxiliary to ranching, the elements being especially favorable and has made rapid forward strides of late.

The towns and ranches have kept step with the progress of the times in new buildings and improvements, and in this work the lumber, brick, stone and lime used are home productions.

For health, attractive scenery and hunting and fishing, Klamath county has few equals. The altitude is 4,200 feet, and the pure air and water are usually safeguards against disease.

The present era of plenty and prosperity is nowhere more thoroughly felt than in Klamath county. Though much improvement has been made the past year, indications for the future are bright.

MURDER TRIALS AT ALTURAS. From special dispatch, dated at Alturas, January 12, to Monday's San Francisco Call: The tempestuous season of legal strife, courtroom altercation and fear and trembling in this community is not yet ended, if there be aught of worth in signs or merit in simple prophecy.

A noteworthy indication that all may not be harmony and peace was the arrival this evening of Thomas Borland, who was sent here by Governor Gage to lend his assistance in the protection of the state officers and the somewhat timorous witnesses who have consented to furnish evidence against the persons implicated in the lynching of Calvin Hall, his sons and Daniel Yantis in the spring-time of last year.

apparently the Assistant Attorney General believes in the ounce of prevention truism and proposes to take no chances.

It is expected that Mary Lorenz, the daughter of Calvin Hall, will tomorrow cause the arrest of several men on new charges in order that they may be subject to indictment by the Grand Jury.

Although the names of the men have been included in the list of those mentioned by the state's witnesses as having contributed to the accomplishment of the crime, the grand jury for some unexplained reason did not indict them on the original charge of the murder of Calvin Hall.

The attorneys for the prosecution and defense were busy to-day preparing for the examination of witnesses in the morning. John Hutton, who turned state's evidence and revealed the secrets of the conspirators, will again take the stand for cross-examination by Lawyers Baker and Spencer, counsel for the defense of Jim Brown, one of the alleged lynchers.

There is abundant promise of an exciting session of the court, although Judge Harrington has announced that he will not permit any repetition of the turbulent incidents which have already enlivened the trial.

TAX COLLECTING.

A summary of the new law in relation to the collection of taxes is as follows: Taxes paid on or before the 15th of March succeeding the date of the levy will be allowed a rebate of three per cent., provided that the rolls reach the sheriff prior to that date.

Taxes paid between the 15th and 31st, both dates inclusive, will not be allowed any rebate, but neither will any penalty of interest be added thereto.

Taxes become delinquent after the first Monday in April and there will be added immediately thereto a penalty of ten per cent. and also interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum in addition to the penalty.

If one-half of the taxes are paid on or before the first Monday in April, then the payment of the remainder may be deferred up to the first Monday in October; but if not then paid it shall become delinquent and subject to a penalty of ten per cent. and interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from the first Monday of the preceding April.

On all personal property taxes the law compels the sheriff to make levy and collect the same after April 1st, and one-half thereof shall have day in April. The law compels the sheriff to sell all lands on which taxes have not been paid and provides that tax sales shall be made not later than March 1st of the year succeeding that in which the levy shall have been made.

Property will be sold to the persons bidding the lowest rate of interest, and certificates will be issued therefor, and deeds given to the property three years after such sale, unless the property shall have been sooner redeemed.

Child Worth Millions.

"My child is worth millions to me," says Mrs. Mary Bird of Harrisburg, Pa. "yet I would have lost her by croup had I not purchased a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." One Minute Cough Cure is sure cure for coughs, croup and throat and lung troubles. An absolutely safe cough cure which acts immediately. The youngest child can take it with entire safety. The little ones like the taste and remember how often it helped them. Every family should have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure handy. At this season especially it may be needed suddenly.
