VOTE FOR CAPT. J. W. SIEMENS.
Capt. J. W. Siemens, who possesses a happy combination of good nature and executive and clerical ability, should be an easy winner in the contest for sheriff. Nothing can be said against him personally nor against his previous official record, but much can be said in his favor. His high character and superior qualifications for sheriff are well known, and if he is elected, as now seems reasonably assured, he will give the people one of the ablest and most satisfactory administrations of that office in the history of the county, and the highest expectations of his friends will be fully realized. Those who vote for him will never have reason to regret it.

VOTE FOR A. CASTEL.
A. Castel made an ideal postmaster, esteemed by patrons of the office and complimented by the inspector as being the most careful and exact man in the postal service in the state. So faithful and competent a man for public service was solicited to make a race for the county clerkship, which he is now doing. He is gaining deserved strength as his canvass advances and there is every reason to expect that his exceptional merits will pull him through safely and triumphantly on election day. He is affable, accommodating and capable—an exemplary man in such qualities, and just the one to make a first-class clerk.

CONGRESSMAN TONGUE.
We republish the following extract from an article in the Eugene Record concerning the excellent record of Hon. Thos. H. Tongue in congress:

"No man in congress from our state has more earnestly and zealously endeavored to serve the people of his district and his state without regard to political faith, or social or commercial position, than has Thos. H. Tongue. He is now and has been since he first entered congress one of the busiest men in that body. No man has ever written him a letter or made a request of him in any kind, which he has not in some way answered, and the infinite detail of his daily work, would tax the energies of the most vigorous man. Mr. Tongue has made no attempt to distinguish himself in congress by the usual method employed by most of the members, that of making speeches, but has confined himself almost wholly to the practical features and duties of his position, as in this way only can a man do that service for his constituents which they demand and to which they are justly entitled. Aside from the endless detail of correspondence amounting to an average of 75 letters a day, attending to questions before departments, carrying out personal wishes, granting requests for government publications, and an infinite number of other things unnecessary to mention, he has secured the establishment of innumerable postoffices, increase of mail service in numerous localities and a very large number of free rural delivery routes. During his first term he secured the first free rural delivery to the Pacific Coast. While Mr. Tongue has not been heard often on the floor of congress, such speeches as he has made, have been characterized by an ability which has made him a reputation of being one of the ablest and most forcible speakers in the lower house of congress. The first speech made by Mr. Tongue was during his first term in congress and on the Teller Resolution declaring that it would be good faith to pay public obligations in silver.

"Among something like a hundred speeches on this subject, made in the senate and house, the congressional campaign committee selected five to be circulated as campaign documents. Mr. Tongue's speech was one of these five. His next speech was in his second term, and was on the enactment of the gold standard law. The congressional committee selected extracts from six different speeches on this subject for distribution, and that of Mr. Tongue was one of these, and he was the only member of congress whose speech on both of these subjects was chosen for campaign purposes. Aside from those above mentioned Mr. Tongue has made speeches on the annexation of Hawaii, the Philippine question, Porto Rican tariff, on improvements at the mouth of the Columbia river, all of these have been of such a character as to have been the occasion of very favorable press mention.

"Mr. Tongue's committee assignments are something of an index to his standing both in congress and with the republican organization. When he received his appointment on the river and harbor committee he had been in congress but one term. California had never had the position and neither had Washington. Both were applicants for it and both were strongly supported. At the same time Oregon had in the senate a member on the committee on commerce, and California had not, but desired it. In the face of these adverse conditions Mr. Tongue was assigned this very important position. At the same congress he was appointed chairman of the committee on irrigation of arid lands, a committee which he has made one of the most important in congress. No member of congress to-day having served so short a time, has two positions of equal importance.

The article mentions in detail Congressman Tongue's successful services in securing river and harbor appropriations, and his efforts, promising success at an early date, in behalf of pensions for Indian war veterans.

The article concludes by saying: "Very many other important achievements of Mr. Tongue in congress might be added but the foregoing constitutes a record of zeal and efficiency for recognition of material and legislative needs of Oregon which has never been equaled by any man sent to congress from Oregon. In view of these splendid services of Mr. Tongue, not only to the people of his district, but the entire people of Oregon, and in view of the position of influence he has attained on committees with congress and with reflection upon the intelligence of the people of the first congressional district of Oregon if they did not return him to congress, as if that too, by a majority which all not only be a testimony to their appreciation and approval of what he has done, but uphold his efforts in any future effort in this regard."

Furnish, for governor, stands sound business principles and is supported by a platform which declares for expansion and retention of the Philippines. Mr. Chamberlain makes politics his business, and is running for governor on a platform which favors pulling down the American flag in the Philippines, and letting the islands drift for themselves.

Dangerous if Neglected.
Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected, and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankee town, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits.

BIG SALE OF TIMBER LAND.

(Sunday's Oregonian.)
The control of the immense tract of land of the Oregon Central Military Wagon Road Co. changed hands today, the property being purchased by the principal stockholders of the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company. Negotiations had been pending for some time, and the deal was consummated today. The grant conveying this tract of land was made by the State of Oregon in 1864 to the Oregon Central Military Wagon Road Company, which was organized by B. J. Pengilly. The grant embraced every alternate section for three miles on either side of the road, amounting to more than 1,000,000 acres. Much of it is covered with heavy timber of a very fine quality. The grant also passed through the Klamath Indian reservation and Eastern Oregon, where much of the land is of little value.
