Mrs. W. L. Donnell died of consumption at her home in Dairy last Friday.

Born, on Sunday, to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. C. Lewis of Lost river, a ten-pound son.

The dances at Dairy and this place last Friday night were largely attended.

Remember the commencement exercises at the opera house to-night. An excellent program will be rendered.

The Presbyterian church will observe June 8th as Children's day, when an appropriate program will be given.

Lord Ponceforte, British ambassador to the United States, died in Washington early Saturday morning, being aged 74 years.

An extra fine quality of weather was installed the first of the week. The most fastidious mind had to admit that it was exactly right.

Victor B. Dolliver, a leading political orator of Iowa, made a speech from a republican standpoint at Ashland on Thursday evening of last week.

Passenger rates on the Southern Pacific railroad will be reduced to three cents a mile, according to a recent announcement of President Harriman.

The Christian Endeavor society will give an ice cream social in Houston's opera house on Friday evening, June 6. General invitation is extended.

A move is on foot at Ashland to organize a labor union there. G. Y. Harry of Portland gave an address at that place Saturday night in the interest of a union.

It is reported that the growing demand for timber has inspired the Southern Pacific Co. to raise its price on all its timber lands and withdraw some of them from market.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Jacob Probstel of Portland arrived here Friday on his way to Ft. Klamath where he went to subpoena witnesses for a case in the federal court.

According to a report from Washington, Representative Tongue has secured the establishment of a post-office at Odessa, Klamath county, Blanche Griffith being appointed postmistress.

W. S. Stone of Keno, while at work in McCormack's sawmill last Saturday, had one of his hands badly injured, and the ends of two fingers taken off. Dr. Reames was called to dress the wounded hand.

Ashland Tidings: J. E. Pelton arrived last night from the Willamette valley with 800 head of young steers. They will be driven out to the Pelton ranch at Fort Klamath via the Dead Indian road.

Last Sunday was Memorial Sabbath and the 20th inst. to-morrow, will be Decoration day, which will be observed in many places by appropriate speeches in memory of the veterans of the civil war and by covering the graves of deceased soldiers with flowers.

The prosperous firm of Roames & Jennings have now nearly completed the large stone extensions of their store building on Main street. Such extensions double the size of the stores and the shelf room and business capacity of the interior, thus enabling them to double their stock of goods. The cost of this valuable improvement has been about $2,000.

As we go to press, we learn that the thorough and careful investigation now being made of the route proposed for the big irrigating canal, reveals to the engineers that the construction of the canal will be a much easier and less expensive work to do, than has been anticipated. The prospect has no discouraging features and grows better every day.

According to the Examiner, last Thursday was the second anniversary of the frightful fire which destroyed the business portion of Lakeview. The Examiner presents a picture of the "New Lakeview," which shows great improvement over the condition before the conflagration, old, wooden buildings having been replaced with ones of substantial brick.

President Roosevelt has been invited to visit Crater lake this summer, joining a party at Portland bent on that purpose, and it is not improbable that he will do so. It would be a great honor for Klamath county to have such a distinguished visitor. Also, his journey here would be the means of giving our scenic attractions, cool mid-summer climate and substantial resources a great deal of favorable advertising.

Lakeview Examiner: Col. Cogswell says the Ashland-Lakeview telephone line will not build to Lakeview, but will terminate at Bonanza. It would appear that in the event of the line halting at Bonanza the venture would not be a financial success, but the promoters have concluded that the action of the Lake County Telephone Company in taking up a local system for Lakeview, shuts them out of a proposition whereby they could see a profitable investment in building here. Col. Cogswell is vice-president of the company, and regrets that the home company has made the move to shut out his company from operating in this field.

Mount Pelee has not entirely quieted down and its intermittent eruptions still terrify the remaining inhabitants of Martinique. People are leaving the island as rapidly as possible and it looks as though it might be wholly abandoned. In sympathy and substantial relief extended to the destitute and suffering of the island, the United States, much to its credit, is far in the lead. France, while giving a measure of help, does not act as though it had fully realized what had happened to one of its insular possessions. These volcanic disturbances have inspired self-appointed prophets to announce the end of the world, soon to follow. But these predictions don't have much weight in this advanced day.

Ashland Tidings: F. M. Calkins, the court reporter, was the victim of an accident, last Monday morning, as he was rolling into Lakeview, and very narrowly escaped serious injury. He was the only passenger on the Klamath-Lakeview stage that morning. It was along about daylight and Mr. Calkins, securely buttoned up in the vehicle, was sound asleep, when suddenly he found himself scrambling around in the midst of an upheaval of all the loose articles in the stage, which had been overturned. A box of hardware struck his knee, taking off a large section of cuticle and bruising his leg badly. He also suffered from bruising his leg badly. He also suffered from bruises on his hip. He received medical attention at Lakeview and is recovering from his shock and injuries. This is the second painful experience Mr. Calkins has undergone during his trips east of the mountains, as it will be remembered, that he with District Attorney Reames and Attorney A. S. Hammond, spent the night in wandering in the trails west of Klamath Falls one night last winter.
