"Affairs in Venezuela are so hopelessly muddled that we can get nothing done. There is no concealing the fact that the Venezuelan government has made heated protests to our minister. The chief grievance appears to be the allegation that the British government is aiding the revolutionary army. It is needless to say this is perfectly base-less. We only wish the United States would take over the whole country, and then perhaps we could get some peace. Of all the disturbances of the last decade, the present appears to be the worst. This, combined with the attitude of the nominal government, makes us somewhat indifferent to any action which may take place. The Venezue-
