SUPPLEMENT.

VOL. 7.

KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1902.

BONANZA "SQUIBS."

The church foundation is being laid this week.

Mrs. N. S. Drew of Hildebrand is quite sick. Dr. Johnson has been called to attend the case.

A. D. Harpold expects to complete his dam this week if the weather remains favorable.

Mr. Stevenson, who has been wearing a bandage around his head for a few weeks, is improving rapidly. He will carry a bad looking scar as the result of his fall.

H. W. Keese is in Bonanza looking after the legal interests of S. L. Walker.

Mrs. Ina Walker and infant son have gone to Klamath Falls to remain for a short time.

Clifford Dumm, young son of N. W. Dumm, has been on the sick list.

Rev. Younglove is holding a series of meetings this week. A full house greets him each night and he speaks to an attentive audience. Rev. Younglove came to our town an entire stranger, but he has already endeared himself to the hearts of the people of this community. He is a sincere, earnest servant of God, and we believe that his stay among us will result in lasting good.

E. S. Terwilliger removes to Merrill this week. We are sorry to lose a good neighbor.

Wm. Terrill and wife are stopping at the Morine Hotel until they secure a house for the winter.

Dr. Johnson is occupying his new residence this week. It is a model little cottage, and speaks well for the planner and the carpenters who did the work.

Once upon a time, as the poets say, There were two lovers, young and gay. Off to a dance at Merrill they went, But ere they returned their hearts were rent.

Ah, sighed she, what is life to me? Ah, sighed he, I am sadder than she. Both went their way and their burdens they bore

'Til artful cupid crept in at the door. Now, smiles she, what a world of bliss!

Now, says he, this world for you, Miss.

PHOTOGRAPHS WILD ANIMALS.

(Ashland Record.)

Burton L. Cunningham returned a few days since to Ft. Klamath and thence to Ashland from a month's pursuit of the wild game with his camera in the wilds of the Umpqua mountains in Douglas and Jackson counties. His work was for the Keystone View Co., of Pennsylvania. He got some good views of the black bear on Bear creek, in Douglas county, where he found bear very plentiful. The region is described as extremely wild and densely timbered.

He was accompanied by George Gillette of Grants Pass, and Emery Hirshberger, the latter a trapper who has been trapping in the Cascade and Umpqua mountains several years. They saw several deer, but Mr. Cunningham was unable to get a shot with his camera at one of them. There were a good many panthers or mountain lions in the country visited by these men. They lost the carcass of a deer made away with by a panther. They saw the track of one elk on the Umpqua divide. The party went into the region by way of the trail leading from Bachus Meadows, on Rogue river to Fish Creek valley and Roseburg.

A bear that Cunningham got a picture of in a vine maple thicket on Bear creek, he shot afterwards, and brought the skin to his mother in Ashland. Of another bear he got eight or nine exposures at distances of 15 to 20 yds. This was a big fellow.

Mr. Cunningham is provided with a number of fine lens, known as telephoto lens with a camera for long distance photographs. He has also a set of lens especially designed for stereogram negatives. He took a number of fine views of the magnificent scenery, the most striking and interesting being those of the Rabbit's ears, a shaft of rock, the core of an old volcano, which rises nearly perpendicularly to a height of 150 feet. It is situated about 15 miles west of Crater Lake.

The trapper, Hirshberger, remains in the mountains during the winter. He traps bear, the red fox, the silver fox, the "cross" fox and the fisher. These are the most valuable pelts. He has a string of traps scattered on a line of 36 miles, and makes the rounds attending them on snow shoes. Six inches of snow fell while Cunningham's party was in the region, and his work was cut short.

Mr. Cunningham is an artist, in the field with the camera, of reputation. He was the photographer with Professor Diller, of the U. S. Geological survey, in his recent reconnaissance of Crater Lake, and the views of Diller's publication are by Cunningham. He was also the photographer for F. V. Coville, of the Agricultural Department last summer, and made the pictures of the Klamath Indians harvesting the "Wocas."

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by Chitwood & Co.

CARNEGIE'S POSTED DEBT.

The Millionaire Bulletin at a Golf Club for Non-Payment of Sixty Cents.

"Andrew Carnegie, $0.60," was the entry on the bulletin board of the St. Andrews' Golf club, up in Westchester, and for three months the golfers of that organization got a lot of merriment out of it, states the New York Tribune. When the great steel master came home from his Scotch castle early in the fall he saw the curt little announcement, too, and promptly put a stop to further laughter over it by sending in his check for the 60 cents. It was not because the club management feared that Mr. Carnegie had defaulted intentionally on the trivial debt that his name was posted for nonpayment, but because the rules of the club are made to be enforced, no matter against whom.

There is a regulation at St. Andrews that little incidental debts incurred by the members must be paid within the month in which they are contracted, under penalty of posting on the bulletin board. Mr. Carnegie forgot the rule or the debt, one or the other, for early in the summer he sailed away for his bonnie Scotland, to be gone three months, leaving unpaid the 60 cents. It was for caddies, or for some one of the other little extra services for which golfers must pay, and at the expiration of the time limit allowed by the rules up went the debt on the bulletin board, along with a dozen others against lesser personages.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by Chitwood & Co.
