Drainage Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed. No matter how deep seated, it is only a question of time before deafness is the result, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness cured by our method. Send for circular, free.

A Good Beginning

the blood is in good condition at the beginning of the warm season, are prepared to resist disease and are not apt to be troubled with boils, les, blackheads and blotches, or the itching and burning skin eruptions make one's life a veritable torment and misery.

Now is the time to begin the work of cleansing and building up the blood and strengthening the weak constitution. During the winter months we are compelled indoors and breathe the impure, badly ventilated rooms and of over-work and over-eat, and a little out-door exercise, and our blood is clogged with impurities and the blood is a hot-bed of germs and every kind, and warm weather is sure to bring a reaction, poisonous matter in the blood will break out in boils and eruptions, or scaly eruptions and red, itchy bumps and pimples. Make beginning this season by taking of S. S. S. in time; it will not only purify your blood and destroy the poisons, but promote healthy liver and kidneys and a good appetite at a time you need it most.

It improves the digestion and the stomach, and you are not haunted by the fear of every time you eat, or with dizziness, nervousness, lassitude. There is no reason for the coming of warm weather if you have your system well fortified blood in a normal, healthy condition. It is the polluted, sluggish blood, the disease germs, microbes and poisons of every kind, and long train of spring and summer ailments, break down the constitution and produce weakness, lassitude, and other debilitating disorders. A. Acne, Nettle-rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and other irritating skin diseases are sure to make their appearance unless the humors and poisons are antidoted and the thin, acid blood made rich and strong before the coming of warm weather.

A course of S. S. S. now would be a safe precaution and a good beginning and enable you to pass in comfort through the hot, sultry months and be recognized as the best blood purifier and the most pleasant of all tonics. Write for our book on "The Blood and the Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga."

His Reason for Suicide.

A New York man wrote as his reason for attempting suicide that he had consulted 25 doctors, but none was able to cure him of asthma.

Crimsonbeak—That's why they put such heavy monuments over some of them, I suppose.—Yonkers Statesman.

An Explanation.

"What kept you so late?" asked the physician's wife.

"Coming down on the elevated road my professional services were very much in demand," replied the belated M. D. "Man in first car was overcome by the heat and by the time I got him straightened out another man was discovered in the rear car almost frozen to death."

INSTINCT TEACHES THEM.

Young Birds and Animals Have Habits Born in Them.

There is a school of the woods, just as much as there is a church of the woods, or a parliament of the woods, and no more; and there is nothing in the dealings of animals with their young that in the remotest way suggests human instruction and discipline. The young of all the bird creatures do instinctively what their parents do and did. They do not have to be taught; they are taught from the jump. The bird sings at the proper age, and builds its nest, and takes its appropriate food without any hint at all from its parents. The young ducks take to the water when hatched by a hen as readily as when hatched by a duck, and dive and stalk insects, and wash themselves just as their mothers did.

Young chickens and young turkeys understand the various calls and signals of their mother the first time they hear or see them. At her alarm note they squat, at her call to food they come, on the first day on the tenth. The habits of cleanliness of the nestlings are established from the first hour of their lives. When a bird comes to build its first nest and to rear its first brood it knows how to proceed, as well as it does years later, or as its parents did before it. The fox is afraid of a trap before he has had any experience with it, and the hare thumps upon the ground at the sight of anything strange and unusual, whether its mates be within hearing or not. It is true that the crows and the jays might be called the spies and informers of the woods, and that other creatures seem to understand the meaning of their cries, but who shall presume to say that they have been instructed in this vocation?

Mr. Long would have us believe that the crows teach their young to fly. He might as well say that the rooster teaches its young to crow or that the cock grouse teaches the young males to drum. No bird teaches its young to fly. They fly instinctively when their wings are strong enough.

BEETLE DIGS GRAVES.

How and Why It Tunnels Dead Birds and Insects.

The graverdigger beetle was the subject of an interesting experiment that a young Philadelphian, a student of the biological department of the University of Pennsylvania, recently conducted, says the Philadelphia Record. He secured four healthy graverdigger beetles and put them in a wooden box filled with earth, along with a very small dead sparrow. The beetles began to dig alongside of it. For four hours they dug, and at the end of that time they had a hole made that was six or seven inches deep and three inches square.

Now they went around to the other side of the sparrow and gave, all together, a good strong push. The bird dropped into the grave nicely and the beetles covered it up with loose soil.

The young experimenter kept the beetles for a month. During the month they buried five birds, three grasshoppers, two butterflies and a young mouse. Their box came to resemble a cemetery.

"Why are these beetles graverdiggers? What is their motive?" To this question, which was put to him by many visitors, the student would reply:

"Graverdiggers is their way of propagating their species. They get hold of some little dead thing, dig a hole beside it, lay their eggs in its flesh and bury it. The eggs, after a time, hatch into larvae. These larvae must develop under ground, and during their development they must eat. Well, thanks to their thoughtful parents, they have on all sides of them the carcass in which, as eggs, they were laid and buried—and thus they feed bountifully, and grow big and strong, so that on their emergence from the soil they are beetles to be proud of. And as soon as they emerge they become graverdiggers in their turn."

THE TUNE IS OUR OWN.

A Few Remarks Concerning our Patriotic Songs.

Many Americans in visiting England have been surprised and flattered when a British military band has played the air of "America" and the English crowd has risen to its feet and doffed its hats. Similarly, English visitors to this country have got up and bowed to a compliment when an American band has played the same tune. It has taken time in each case to convince the hearer that "God Save the King" and "America" have the same air. Of course, the Briton has become indignant over the theft of a national air, forgetting that the colonies, with their allegiance to a British king, had a claim to the melody and on their revolt could fairly set their own new words to it.

The charge of theft and of musical piracy in America has inspired a patriotic association in little Rhode Island to offer a gold medal to anybody who shall compose a new and "a better" air to Dr. Smith's inspiring words. Rhode Island denies that Great Britain is musical, and affirms that our own country (whose songs as played by Sousa's band have captured King and Queen, and become the burden of every whistling newsboy, coaster and clubman in London) has a degree of musical talent and culture which even Germany cannot rival. Therefore it is impatient under the charge of stealing the most venerated of British melodies.

It is vain, however, to hope for a popular acceptance of a new tune for "America." The present air has been sung on too many glorious and significant occasions to the words of our heart-dilling hymn to be surrendered to the British. When we were forced to break loose from that oppressive mother we retained the common law, the language, the measures and whatever seemed to our sires to be desirable. We retained "Yankee Doodle" and the air of "America," putting our own words to each. More than a century and a quarter has endeared to us these tunes, and we shall keep them. When General Sherman visited Ireland he found that the melody of "Marching Through Georgia" belonged to an old Irish song, but it has been hallowed to us by the camp-fires of thousands of Grand Army posts and is ours beyond surrender.

Cultured musicians have complained of the quality of our national airs,

CLEANLINESS AND GODLINESS.

Whatever You Do, Wise Brothers Advise Good Teeth.

"Cleanliness is akin to Godliness," is a quotation from the greatest book known to man, and it is as widely quoted as any saying ever used. The reason is found in the impressive truth of the assertion.

At the present time when this country is passing through an unprecedented period of prosperity, more and more attention is paid to the refinements of civilization every day. If a man, or particularly a woman, is slovenly now in dress or personal care, they are immediately noticed and severely criticized.

It is not hard as a rule to gain an income beyond immediate wants, and the majority of people in the United States are accumulating a surplus. The people as a whole are better dressed and better groomed than they were twenty years ago. Even the luxuries of fashionable society are becoming the necessities of the masses.

Nothing is more conspicuous than a person's teeth. If they are good and white and clean then we are pleased. If they are discolored or missing then we are repulsed. The unobtrusive blessing to humanity afforded by advanced methods of dental surgery is best illustrated by such an office as that of the celebrated Wise Brothers, in the falling building, Portland, Oregon. Here teeth are filled or extracted absolutely without pain. You can be supplied with an entire new set of teeth at a very moderate cost. There is no more trouble about getting your teeth put in perfect order here than you have at a restaurant in getting your dinner. The office is a model for anybody in point of cleanliness and cleanliness.

Let it be strenuously urged that, if you want to get along in the world and be respected and desired by your acquaintances, have your teeth in good condition. There is no excuse for anyone to delay when there are such perfect places as the establishment of Wise Brothers at hand.

The cost is slight. The pain is nothing.

Jack Spratt.

Jack Spratt really lived and had the same prejudice against fat as is attributed to him. Only his name was not exactly Spratt, but Pratt, and he was no less a person than an archdeacon. The rhyme originally ran, "Archdeacon Pratt could eat no fat, his wife could eat no lean."

Waiting for Instructions.

A mistress told her maid, Betsy, that she must not always do things on her own responsibility, but first ask permission. The next day Betsy walked into the parlor, and said politely: "Please, madam, the cat is busy eating up the duck in the pantry; must I drive her away or not?"—Tit-Bits.
