Chas. Hood, a Modoc Indian, and family, with seven others, arrived in the city Tuesday from Indian Territory where they were removed by the government, at the close of the Modoc war. Rev. Jessie Kirk, the Klamath Indian preacher, who has been in Washington the past winter urging legislation in the interests of his people of the Klamath reservation, arrived in the city Saturday evening. He was accompanied by Joseph Kirk, who went to Washington to be with his brother during his illness and while he was undergoing an operation for appendicitis, and by his daughter, who has been attending the Chemawa training school.

A good one is told on two jockeys of Lakeview who wished to do up a jockey from Klamath Falls, says the Post. They agreed for the best man to try him first, and if he got whipped, the other jockey would take his turn. The Falls jockey put the first one out of business in short order, when his part stepped in to even up matters, but he wasn't in it at all; in fact, those Lakeview jockeys got the most beautiful (?) threshing they ever saw. The boys are wondering how they happened, and think maybe they were doped, but the general opinion is that they couldn't deliver the goods.

A. G. Geyer, of Silver Lake, passed through town Saturday on his return from the railroad with freight. He gave information to Judge Baldwin, at the instance of Silver Lake people, regarding the most practical route for the proposed road to terminate at that town. He reports being told by Mr. Wallace Taylor, foreman of the Chewaucan Land & Livestock association, that if the road is laid out as proposed, running to the west of Sigan Marsh, his company would build the bridge over Sigan river, without expense to the county. This would leave practically no bridge building for the county to do. The road would be equally accessible for Biv, Bonanza, Merrill and Klamath Falls, and would also be favorably located for a junction with a road to Paisley, Summer Lake and the Chewaucan country. Inasmuch as the part of the road for Klamath county to build lies wholly within the Klamath reservation, favorable action by the government agent, Capt. O. C. Applegate, will be required. We understand assurance of co-operation has been given by this gentleman. It is to be hoped that the county court will see its way clear to carry out this project, apparently as feasible and promising of good results.

OAKWOOD STOLEN.

E. B. Henry returned Sunday evening after a very wearisome trip of six days in the saddle. Wm. Ford who has been caring for Mr. Henry's horses, ran away with his fine stallion some time last week, and as soon as Mr. Henry heard of it he started in pursuit. He left the Falls Monday evening and overtook Ford at night about 15 miles this side of Farewell Bend in the Deschutes country. Ford was asleep when caught. He agreed to return with Henry, but when they had returned part of the distance he slid off the horse and took to the woods. Mr. Henry had had trouble enough, so he let him go and returned with the horse.

MAROONS DEFEATED.

Those who were fortunate enough to witness the ball game Sunday between the Maroons and the 2nd Klamath Falls team were brought to realize that our town is not so slow when it comes to playing ball. It was probably the finest exhibition of ball playing ever seen in Southern Oregon and was a game for blood, every man playing ball from the start. Four of the five tallies scored by both teams were made in the first inning before the men had got warmed up. From then on it was one continuous shut-out until the ninth inning was reached, when the Maroons managed to lose the ball by planting a fly out in the sagebrush, thereby making a home run. This gave the Maroons two tallies, but they failed to make any more. Thus the crack team was defeated, but they have nothing to be ashamed of as every man played like a professional. Following is the lineup and score:

A FINE TRIP.

The big excursion to Odessa and Pelican Bay on the steamer, Almad, came off as advertised. About fifty people from Klamath Falls and vicinity enjoyed the trip. The boat left the landing at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and arrived at Odessa at about 2 p. m. Dinner was served late in the afternoon, after which the crowd scattered, a number seeking the cool breeze and shade of the groves, while others visited the well known Budd Spring, but a larger number spent the afternoon and evening in the row boats fishing and enjoying the shade along the banks of the beautiful stream.

The fishing at Pelican Bay is becoming world-famous and each year the number of tourists increase, necessitating more accommodations. In the evening the party assembled on the pavilion and enjoyed dancing and singing until a late hour. The hotel and pavilion being well lighted with Chinese lanterns, presented a very attractive appearance.

Sunday morning was spent in cruising on Crystal creek and visiting the Lodge. The return home was made in the afternoon, arriving at the dock at 6:30.

GOOD PRICE FOR WOOL.

Klamath county wool is bringing a good price. It is being sold from one to one and three-fourths cents more than was paid last year. E. W. Gowen has bought the clips from the sheep belonging to Mrs. Henley, S. T. Summers, C. C. Low, I. E. and F. L. Applegate, John Smart and Bob Bunnell. He is buying for McNamee & Dickens, of San Francisco, and has already secured over 30,000 pounds at from 12 to 14 cents a pound.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

The popular meeting at the opera house last Sunday evening was largely attended and proved to be an interesting event. A large chorus assisted with the music, and opened with "Glory to God, Hallelujah." This was followed by a duet, "Impatient Heart be Still" by Mr. Rutenic and Rev. Smith. Miss Alken followed with a solo, "Just for Today." Mesdames Mills and Henry and the Misses Lee then sang, "Just Beyond." Rev. W. G. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian church, then read the Scripture lesson from the 17th chapter of John, Christ's prayer for the union of believers. Dr. W. S. Holt, synodical missionary of Oregon, offered prayer. The usual offering was then lifted, after which Rev. Smith expressed his hearty thanks for the generous and kindly spirit in which the owners of the building had donated its use for the evening's service; also to the singers for their kindly and efficient services. The chorus then sang the beautiful song, "May Jesus Christ be Praised."

Rev. Smith gave the principal address of the evening on "Church Federation," showing the immense advantage to the cause of Christ for Christians of different training and beliefs to waive their minor differences and magnify points of agreement, and uniting, stand as one man for God and righteousness. He emphasized the fact that "Feuds and Faiths are mortal enemies," leading to a confusion of the essential with the trivial in religious life, and the substitution of conventionality in religious practice for spirituality in religious experience, and gave instances of denominations with different systems of church government and different doctrinal standards, now in process of effecting organic union, also illustrations of the federation of different denominations in the smaller towns, and the great blessing resting upon such efforts in contrast with the futile efforts of many different organizations to maintain an existence in places which could only maintain in a healthy condition one church. An illustration worthy of note is Sunny-side, Wash., where six denominations are federated for work, using one building, worshipping in union services, union Sunday school and union Endeavor meetings, and as a result the place is dominated by a Christian sentiment, and is rapidly growing, many eastern people being drawn there because of the healthy public sentiment which dominates.

Dr. Holt then in a few well chosen words clinched the address of the evening by illustrations from experience, showing that the various towns are themselves responsible for the division of Christian sentiment, donating lots for churches, thinking it will help the town, and thus encouraging little bands to undertake and fasten upon the community enterprises which it will be impossible to maintain, except at a dying rate, and giving rise to factions which neutralize each other, bringing upon the cause the contempt of the world.

The Board of Home Missions and Presbyterians outside of Klamath Falls have invested about $10,000 since the organization of the church 18 years ago, and deserve some recognition from those who have at heart the welfare and growth of our town, and we are confident that if the right kind of interest is taken in the town and vicinity by the pastor and members of the church, they will find a hearty response to any appeal that may be necessary for the good of the cause.
