Captain Applegate informs us that Senator Fulton writes him that it is his purpose to make Klamath county a visit possibly in August. He may be with Wm. Steele's party but as yet can not say with certainty. Mrs. Fulton is to accompany the senator. Our junior senator may be certain of a hearty welcome in Klamath county.

We understand that the management of the excursion to Crater lake from here is meeting with great success and that a large party will go from this vicinity. We are informed however that any others who expect to join this party will have to hand their names in before August 1st. In order that arrangements can be made for their accommodation.

Bert Withrow and Jesse Siemens, who have been on a hunting trip since the 15th in the vicinity of Pelican bay, returned home Monday. They report an excellent time and claim to have seen a number of deer although they did not have the pleasure of feasting on the juicy and tender venison steak, which they felt quite certain of enjoying before their departure. They are now being kept busy explaining the reason of their failure to bring home a few of these graceful but fleet footed animals.

At the meeting of the town council of Lakeview it was decided to refund $120 of the $150 collected as license of Fred Moore during race week. The board also passed an ordinance reducing the license for shows from $25 to $5 a night. They were evidently trying to run a bluff in order to keep the Moores from showing in Lakeview during the races as Moore's Comedians always draw a crowd and the saloon people were sore because so many attended the plays rather than spend their money with them. But they found that Fred Moore is a hard man to bluff. The license originally was $2.50.

A representative of the Republican visited the East End Marble Works, the first of the week and was surprised at the superiority of the work being turned out. Mr. Grizzle, the proprietor, is being kept busy filling orders for tombstones and monuments for parties throughout Klamath county. Mr. Grizzle is an expert marble worker as is evidenced by the excellence of a lot of finished work which he now has ready for delivery. The marble used is from the Vermont quarries while the celebrated Klamath county rock is used for the base. Anyone who contemplates placing an order for anything in this line will do well to see Mr. Grizzle as they can be easily convinced of the advantage of buying at home. They will be able to save money and procure superior work.

H. V. Gates of Hillsboro, Or., arrived on Thursday evening's stage on his annual visit of inspection of the Telephone and Light & Water companies. Mr. Gates informs us that while he had the construction of a telephone line to the Agency and Fort Klamath under consideration, that it is hardly probable it will be built this summer as there is not sufficient business to make it pay. He left Tuesday on his return home and will send his son O. B. Gates here to take charge of the plant for a while and superintend some necessary improvements. Mr. O. B. Gates is at present at Heppner where he is reconstructing the telephone and electric light lines which were recently destroyed. The company's loss during the flood is estimated at $8000.

STEREOTYPIC LECTURE.

The residents of this place will be treated to an opportunity to make the round trip to Fiji and return in about two hours. This opportunity comes in the way of a most unique and entertaining panoramic exhibition and lecture, in which will be given full particulars of this curious people. Views of the people, their modes of living, their cannibalism, tropical fruits and scenery, by Pastor J. M. Cole, who spent years in the South seas. Lecture will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Seven Day Adventist's tent, near court house.

FALLS, 33—MERRILL, 7.

The game on Sunday between a Klamath Falls team and Merrill was noted for its errors rather than for its brilliant plays. The Falls team was made up of part of the first and part of the second nines. The Merrill boys had considerably strengthened their team by the addition of a number of new men but the only noticeable improvement in their playing was when they were at the bat. Their batting was far superior to the home team but it did them little good as they were not on to the secret of running bases. Daily, the Merrill pitcher, did some excellent work but was without support as not one of their men seemed able to throw within five feet of where they wished the ball to go. The home team made most of their scores on errors of this kind. The line up was as follows:

Falls	Merrill
Stahman	c
Hanks	p
Martin	1b
Perez	2b
Boyd	3b

POPE LEO IS DEAD.

Rome, July 20.—Pope Leo XIII is dead: The last flicker of life expired at 4 minutes past 4 o'clock this afternoon and the pontiff now lies at rest. The period of over two weeks that Pope Leo passed in the shadow of death was no less wonderful than his life. His splendid battle against disease was watched the world over with sympathetic admiration, and ended after tremendous efforts to conquer the weakness of his aged frame by the marvelous power of his mind. The pleuro-pneumonia with which his holiness had been suffering was scarcely so responsible for his death as that inevitable decay of tissue which ensues upon 93 years of life. The tested steel which had bent so often before human ills was bound to break at last.

Tomorrow the Sacred College of Cardinals will assemble for the official duty of pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function has been performed, the body will be taken to the small throneroom adjoining the death chamber, where it will be encoined. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the body being removed to the Cathedral of St. Peter's where it will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead pontiff will be in the magnificent Basilica of St. John the Evangelist.

Pope Leo's last moments were marked by that same serenity and devotion, and when he was conscious, that calm intelligence, which is associated with his 25 years' pontificate. He was no easy death. An hour before he died, turning to Dr. Laponni and his devoted valet, Pio Centra, he murmured:

"The pain I suffer is most terrible."

Yet his parting words were not of the physical anguish that he suffered, but were whispered benedictions upon the cardinals and his nephews, who knelt at the bedside, and the last look of his almost sightless eyes was toward the great ivory crucifix hanging in the death chamber.

FIGHT ON MAIN STREET.

Considerable excitement was caused on Main street Sunday evening at 8 o'clock by a fight which might have resulted seriously. Two men, Tim O'Leary and Jim Smith who work on S. S. Mitchell's ranch, arrived in town early in the day and proceeded to get gloriously drunk. The two had always been chums, and the best of friends but that fact seemed to be forgotten by the time they had stored away a fair sized load of whiskey—it must have been the kind that is advertised as 100 fights to the barrel—for they soon proceeded to get in a mix up but were parted without any serious damage except to their clothes. As we have no day marshal a man can usually get drunk and disorderly and create most any kind of a disturbance on the streets, without anyone to interfere.

O'Leary did not seem to be satisfied with the results of the first fight and wanted to have it out so proceeded to follow Smith around the streets and from saloon to saloon all the afternoon trying to pick a fight. Finally at about 8 o'clock the two met in front of the opera house where Smith decided he would not run any further and so secured a couple of rocks and told O'Leary if he did not leave him alone there would be trouble. This did not seem to scare him as he kept on following his partner up. After warning him several times Smith saw he had to either fight or run so he let him have one of the rocks striking O'Leary in the face, cutting a big ash in his nose and upper lip and knocking him down. Smith proceeded to finish the job by administering him several kicks in the head completely laying him out. O'Leary was carried into Dr. Hargus' office where he was attended to by the doctor and in about two hours he was around, somewhat sobered with nothing worse than a badly disfigured face and a very sore head. The two men have returned to the ranch and are now at work, having made up and become the best of friends again.

Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by Chitwood & Co.
