

Eruptions

There is only one way to get rid of eruptions and other eruptions. It's simple and easy enough. Cleanse the blood, improve the digestion, stimulate the kidneys, liver and spleen, by the same means at the same time.

Food's Sarsaparilla

His statement is confirmed by the experience of thousands whom this medicine has permanently cured. Accept no substitute.

No Bother Whatever.

"Do you have any trouble with the plants when your wife goes away?" asked the hatchet-faced man, sadly. "None whatever," replied the cheerful chap. "They always die within a week after she leaves and all I have to do is to put them away until she comes back."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Natural Icehouses.

The cold in a cavern in France is so great, no matter how warm the external atmosphere may be, the visitor cannot prolong his stay without inconvenience unless wrapped in winter clothing. There are not less than a score of these natural icehouses in France and probably half as many in Italy.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

J. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists. 73c.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the best.

Carrying One's Own Outfit.

Before the revolution in France it was customary when a gentleman had been invited out to dinner to send his servant in advance with his knife, fork and spoon. If he had no servant he carried them with him in his pocket.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children's teething season.

Title Pages.

It was not until 1470 that a title page was introduced to books and in England not till before 1490, when W. De Machline issued one to his little book on the pestilence. Caxton never used them, but Wynkyn De Worde employed them in nearly all his books.

For forty years' Pisco's Cure for Consumption has cured coughs and colds. At druggists. Price 25 cents.

The Usual Thing.

"I would like to know," asked the parent, who had a son in need of some further education, "what is the course at your college?"

"The usual half-mile course of cinders and all that sort of thing, you know," absently replied the president of the great institution.—Philadelphia Press.

Protecting the People.

The public sentiment in favor of restricting automobiles to racetracks especially laid out for them is steadily gaining in strength. Useful self-motors are welcome in the highways, but not the racing demons.—New York Tribune.

An Unkind Suggestion.

"You love my daughter?" "She's all the world to me, sir." "Then I don't suppose you'll want a settlement."—Exchange.

The Innocent Suffer With The Guilty

The world to-day is full of innocent sufferers from that most loathsome disease, Contagious Blood Poison. People know in a general way that it is a bad disease, but if all its horrors could be brought before them they would shun it as they do the Leprosy. Not only the person who contracts it suffers, but the awful taint is transmitted to children, and the fearful sores and eruptions, weak eyes, Catarrh, and other evidences of poisoned blood show these little innocents are suffering the awful consequences of some body's sin. So highly contagious is this form of blood poison that one may be contaminated by handling the clothing or other articles in use by a person afflicted with this miserable disease. There is danger even in drinking from the same vessel or eating out of the same tableware, as many pure and innocent men and women have found to their sorrow. The virus of Contagious Blood Poison is so powerful and penetrating that within a short time after the first little sore appears the whole system is infected and every drop of blood in the body is tainted with the poison, and the skin is soon covered with a red rash, ulcers break out in the mouth and throat, swellings appear in the groins, the hair and eyebrows fall out, and unless the ravages of the disease are checked at this stage, more violent and dangerous symptoms appear in the form of deep and offensive sores, copper colored spots, terrible pains in bones and muscles, and general breaking down of the system.

S. S. S. is a specific for Contagious Blood Poison and the only remedy that antidotes this peculiar virus and makes a radical and complete cure of the disease. Mercury and Potash hold it in check so long as the system is under their influence, but when the medicine is left off the poison breaks out again as bad or worse than ever. Besides, the use of these minerals bring on Rheumatism and stomach troubles of the worst kind, and frequently produce bleeding and sponginess of the gums and decay of the teeth. S. S. S. cures Blood Poison in all stages and even reaches down to hereditary taints and removes all traces of the poison and saves the victim from the pitiable consequences of this monster scourge. As long as a drop of the virus is left in the blood it is liable to break out, and there is danger of transmitting the disease to others. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and can be taken without any injurious effects to health, and an experience of nearly fifty years proves beyond doubt that it cures Contagious Blood Poison completely and permanently. Write for our "Home Treatment Book," which describes fully the different stages and symptoms of the disease.

Modern Conveniences.

The Abilene Democrat tells of a man who stopped over night in a small town near the city and registered at the hotel pointed out to him by the conductor as the best in town. In the morning he wanted to take a bath and consulted the proprietor about it. The proprietor shouted back to the rear: "Here, Tom, this here gent wants to take a bath. Bring the fixin's." Tom soon appeared, carrying a cake of yellow soap, a towel and a pick. "What's the pick for?" asked the guest. "Why," said the proprietor, "you'll have to dam up the creek."—Kansas City Star.

Got Tired of the Gun.

A Clay county man, says the Plattsmouth Democrat-Leader, took his pistol out hunting one day. They had but one gun between them and the preacher carried it. After they had been out half an hour the man felt something poking him in the side. Turning around quickly he found the preacher poking him with the muzzle of the gun and fumbling over the hammers. "Say, brother," asked the minister, "how do you let these things down?" The man has sworn off taking preacher hunting.—Kansas City Star.

Real Refined.

Mag—Say, they tell me he's real refined.

"Dat's w'at. When he poured his coffee out in 'is saucer ter cool it he didn't blow it like some guys would, but just fanned it wid 'is panama."—Philadelphia Press.

The Game of Love.

"It always takes two to play the game of love," she said.

"Oh, I don't know," he replied.

"The brick business which is being done in the divorce courts seems to indicate that it is common to have three or four hands dealt around."—Chicago Record-Herald.

On the Verge of Lunacy.

Mr. Ardant—Do you believe that love is blind?

Miss Cynique—Yes, to a certain extent. I am fully convinced that a man in love cannot see himself as others see him.—Town Topics.

David Was on Time.

Mr. Joggins (tentatively)—If I should not be home at dinner time you need not.

Mrs. Joggins (with decision)—You'll be home at the usual time, David.

Joggins says he doesn't know how it is, but when his wife says a thing it is pretty sure to come true.

Types of Mind.

There is a feminine and masculine type of mind. The former depends chiefly on memory and is reproductive. The latter relies on reasoning and is creative. The mind of the man of science is masculine. Not every woman possesses a feminine mind, though many men have little else.

Chinese Jests.

An inscription on a stone tablet found in the ruins of an old synagogue in Kaifeng shows that the Jews first entered China during the Han dynasty, from B. C. 200 to A. D. 226.

A Pleasant Dream.

"I've been thinking of taking a couple of months off this summer," began the man at the desk.

"A couple of months off?" repeated the man near the door. "Why, I didn't know you ever got but a couple of weeks."

"I don't, but I can think about taking two months, can't I?"

And only the hard-working electric fan was heard for the next five minutes.—Montreal Herald.

A Discouraged Fighter.

He isn't so much of a fighter as he used to be.

"No. You see he was always looking for some one who could whip him—at least that's what he said."

"Well?"

"Well, he found him."

CHILDREN'S INSTINCTS.

Where Appetite Is Concerned They Should, in a Measure, Be Respected.

Many years of infancy and childhood seem to adults unnatural; and if children seem to exhibit tendencies animal rather than human, we are apt to consider them such as to be properly frowned upon. Yet it might often contribute to one's equanimity if it were borne in mind that child instinct, more frequently than reason, is in the right.

For example, the lusty fit of crying incident to the baby's bath, although it may prove annoying to the mother, is one of the best possible tonics for the infant. The vigorous respirations and increased activity of the muscular tissues conduce even more than the friction of the bath towel to a healthful glow of the skin. The infant that is obstreperous enough to resent with loud crying its nurse's efforts to soothe it, until it is again in fannels, is not likely to take cold from its bath.

Again, in the matter of eating, the child sometimes exhibits singular tendencies. From the time a child begins to come to the table until the period of youth he often shows strong likes and dislikes. Just how much tendencies may be combated is perhaps of little moment, but in the quantity of food desired each child should be a law unto himself. To bribe or coax a child to eat more than he wants is certainly not commendable. Many who, as children, are extremely "delicate" in their eating, develop in later life digestive organs of superior ability.

Overfeeding is never so fraught with dangers as in childhood, and in those numerous cases in which the child instinct opposes the eating of as much food as is ordinarily regarded as normal it should be respected. In the event of a small appetite being the evidence of impaired vitality or disease other concurrent symptoms will be so evident as to lead to consultation of a physician. Glowing cheeks and sturdy limbs are admirable and a delight to the fond parents, but to many children they are simply not natural, and no amount of food can produce them.

In many children nature exhibits a conservative tendency, and the scrawny limbs and sallow cheeks may be an indication of conserved energy, by virtue of which some organ or organs may not be overtaxed during the growing age.

The diseases of childhood often result in temporarily damaged organs, which time and a following of the instincts of observation which nature meanwhile improves may entirely overcome. Thus it is that many children regarded throughout childhood as delicate and not likely to survive till adult life not only reach manhood and womanhood, but attain qualities of extraordinary physical or mental vigor.

It is well to realize that very rarely are there two children even in the same family similar in their physical equipments, and that, therefore, no "rule of thumb" method of rearing them is ever eminently successful.

Wanted to See Grandma.

Master Ross Edwards, 4 years of age, living in Irvington, N. J., was very fond of his grandmother, and spent most of his time at her home, says the Philadelphia Ledger. One afternoon he came home from play so very tired that he could eat no dinner, and asked his mother to put him to bed. She took him upstairs, and when he was ready for bed, said: "Now, my little boy must say his prayers."

"I can't—I am so tired."

"You want to go to heaven, don't you? Then you must say your prayers."

"Are you doing to heaven, mamma?"

"I hope to, and want to see my little boy there."

"Is papa doing to heaven?"

"He hopes to."

"Well, you and papa go to heaven, and I'll go around and see grandma."

He Took a Needed Rest.

"Yoakum of 'Frisco," as he is known in the railroad world, is one of the workers. They say he never tires. One day a friend called at the Broad street office to see him. It was 4 in the afternoon. He found the president leaning back in a big chair, reading a newspaper and smoking. In surprise he asked what was up.

"You see, I've worked pretty hard for the past ten years," said Mr. Yoakum, "and I think I need a long rest."

The next day the same friend dropped in again. Yoakum shook hands in his hearty way, but said: "Glad to see you, but I'm up to my eyes in work. I haven't much time."

"I thought you were going to take a long rest!" exclaimed his friend.

"That's all right. I took it yesterday," said the president.

Evidence of the Enemy.

It is related that at a recent sham battle a young lieutenant, posted with his company behind a wall, ordered his men to fire at a detachment of troops who were marching by.

The guns were loaded with blank cartridges, and no harm was done; but the detachment happened to be on the same side of the sham fight as the company which had fired at it.

The commanding officer came riding up.

"Why did you fire on those men?" he demanded of the lieutenant, hotly.

"I supposed they were the enemy," said the lieutenant.

"And what led you to suppose they were the enemy?"

"Because my tailor was at the head of them and I saw my butcher in the ranks. What else could I suppose, sir?"

No Sympathy.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "you know I never blame you for anything that is not your fault."

"But when the horse you bet on loses, that isn't your fault, is it?"

"Charley, dear, the winner was just as easy a horse to bet on as any other, wasn't it?"

"Why-er-yes."

"No one forced you to bet on some other horse?"

"No."

"Then I can't see that you deserve any sympathy whatever."
