IS A WHISKY DRUMMER

John Bull has been at some pains to gather figures about queer employments for women in his domains, and the results are surprising. It appears that in England and Wales alone, there are nearly 44,000 women bootmakers, 3,239 ropemakers, 4,730 saddle makers, 5.140 who make a living by gardening. 3,850 butchers, 27,707 who keep body and soul together by tending bar, nearly 8,000 bicycle makers, and-the highest figure of all-117,640 tailors. It appears that there are female bailiffs, boatmen, boilermakers, bricklayers, iron founders, plumbers, plasterers, slaughterers and veterinary surgeons.
