Good. A scientist announces that the earth will last for another 1,000,000 years.

Man will never be able to "love his neighbor as himself" until he has experienced that touch of genuine sympathy which makes all the world kin. —Talisman.

According to the Kansas experiment station it costs about $20 per acre to plant and take care of a catalpa grove for the first ten years. The timber in the trees at that time ought to be worth about $400 per acre.

Work on the Panama canal will now be ordered. As the Senate has confirmed the commissioners selected by the President, and their $10,000 salaries now begin to run, they will take a trip to the zone and look over the ground. It is proposed to raise the city of Colon some three feet or more, in order to make it possible to secure drainage. Admiral Walker is not as optimistic as could be wished. He says persons who think the canal will be begun immediately, except tentatively, are very much mistaken. No digging will be done for some time. It is proposed to invite the President to cut the first shovelful of dirt. —Ex.

Striking Back.

ED. REPUBLICAN—Since reading the article over the "non de plume" Vigilant, I have often wondered what constituted "striking back," "foul blows," Journalism, etc.

Vigilant seems pleased that Hearst has struck back at the foul blows presumed to have been delivered by one Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento. In striking back Hearst has employed the same tactics used by Johnson in his attack upon Hearst in spite, vituperation and childishness.

One who is accustomed to strike foul blows should not complain if he gets the same treatment at times. I wonder if Vigilant was pleased to see our late president strike back at Hearst journalism? Our common law struck back at the fearful blow that ended our president's life, yet we never were pleased that it was done. We were sorry, rather that the blow had been struck. Does Vigilant think for one moment that that foul blow was not inspired by Hearst journalism?

I can direct Vigilant to a man who reads no other paper than the Examiner, and whose only inspiration is the examiner, who, upon hearing of the assassination of our president said "he should have been shot before." Vigilant well knows there are thousands in our land who are fitted by nature and education to strike back just such blows as that. Hearst journalism has been telling him for years that our president had been dealing them foul blows for years and one of them struck back.

I suppose Hearst journalism never struck a foul blow at the late senator, Mark Hanna. According to Hearst's great dailies, Mark Hanna was the foe of the human race and to him were all the ills of our body politics traceable. In fact he was the embodiment of all that was brutal, vile in politics and society, and dishonest; and after his death comes shamelessly to the front and says that Senator Hanna was a very just and superior sort of a person and has coaxed that he had done more for labor and labor unionism than any man holding his position.

Vigilant well knows that, but for his great wealth, this "son of his father and mother" would never had made a success of journalism. To make a success of the Examiner Hearst spent a small fortune each year for a number of years and resorted to all the lottery schemes known to journalism to increase its circulation and accepted any sort of advertisement that came along to make it pay, and he did not succeed till the very policies and principles against which he was striving his utmost i.e.—the policies of the republican party became the law of the land and the very men against whom he was uttering such shameless invectives became the rulers thereof.

Then and only then did the people have enough business and money to put his paper on a paying basis, all of which cuts no figure "from a democratic stand point." Hearst wants to be president and like Bryan banks upon the credulity of the laboring people or the masses and, like Bryan, will, should he receive the nomination at St. Louis go down to defeat. Should he receive the nomination at St. Louis we may look for something like the following in the great dailies: "A grand free distribution to the American voters. A beautiful house and ten acres of ground near Alameda, valued at $10,000 to be positively given away. Each voter for W. R. Hearst to receive a ticket which will entitle him to a chance to win this valuable property."

There may be others than Hearst papers advocating his nomination but I haven't seen them. Perhaps he believes that "he that tootheth not his own horn shall not be tooted." These self instituted booms usually "die abooming."

Let me give Vigilant and Mr. Hearst a little unwritten history. No man has ever been elected to the high office of president of our land who has used dishonest methods to defeat an honest opponent. In future we will try and not be LESS VIGILANT.

BATTERIES GET THE RANGE. Guns on Shore and Aboard Ship Pour in Projectiles.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 27.—An official dispatch from Port Arthur to the Emperor says that at 1 o'clock this morning the Russian searchlight disclosed four large merchant steamers making for the entrance of the harbor supported by six torpedo boats. A heavy fire was opened on them by the batteries and some warships.

The torpedo boat Sini, commanded by Lieutenant Kriniski, turned the merchant vessels from their course by blowing up the prow of the first and then boldly attacked the enemy's torpedo boats. In the fierce fight which followed Chief Engineer Swyereff, of the Sini, and six marines were killed and the commander and 12 men were injured.

The Japanese plan to blow up the entrance to Port Arthur was frustrated, however, and the channel is still clear.

Vice-Admiral Makaroff, commanding the Russian naval forces at Port Arthur, has sent the following telegram to the Emperor:

"I beg most humbly to report that at 2 o'clock this morning the enemy made a second attempt to block the entrance to the inner roadstead. For this purpose they dispatched four large merchant steamers, convoyed by six torpedo boats to the entrance.

The enemy's ships were promptly discovered by the searchlight and were bombarded by the batteries and by the guard ships Bohr and Otvajey.

BRITT WINS IT.

Gets Decision Over Corbett in the Twentieth Round.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—James Britt, of California, was given the decision tonight over William Rothwell better known as "Young Corbett," of Colorado, in a 20-round contest at Woodward's Pavilion, for the light weight championship of the world.

Up to the 15th round Corbett's advantage was apparent, but in that round Britt rallied and rained right and left on various portions of Corbett's anatomy, forcing the champion to clinch to save himself.

The styles of the two boxers were entirely distinctive. Britt fought for the body most of the time, while Corbett devoted himself to the face, head and jaw.

Britt weighed just 129 pounds, but Corbett's weight was not made public, though it is understood that he was at least a pound and a half below the agreed weight 130 pounds.

Both men fought hard in every round. Britt, in his crouching attitude, was able to guard his stomach, though Corbett was able to land hard on his head and jaw. In the first few rounds Britt found the Denver man's stomach repeatedly, though his blows lacked depth.

It was without doubt the greatest fight fought in California. Britt's ability to assimilate punishment and his endurance were simply marvelous. At no time during the 20 rounds did Britt break ground. He always brought the fight to Corbett. Britt was severely punished, yet was at all times willing to take more, and finally outgamed the champion.

The pace that both men set was of a nature to make both men tired. However, their condition brought them after a minute's respite in the center of the ring with renewed vigor. Britt was better at the out-fighting; Corbett superior in the in-fighting. Britt had the best footwork and the greatest speed. Corbett showed himself the cleverer fighter at times and a heavier hitter. After the fight Referee Eddie Graney said: "I simply gave the decision to the man who had the best of the fight."

The fight began at 10 o'clock. Young Corbett, at 9:40, was the first to enter the ring. He was clad in a blue and white sweater and had both hands bandaged. After being cheered, he at once took his seat and proceeded to read numerous telegrams which had succeeded him. Corbett smiled confidently to his friends around the ringside. His condition appeared to be perfect.

Britt entered the ring at 9:45. He was introduced as the "Idol of the Olympic Club and the Pride of California." Britt was accorded an ovation which lasted several minutes. Jimmy looked a bit worried, but it was seen that his physical condition was good in spite of the low weight.

Immediately after, Corbett was introduced as the "Pride of Denver and the feather-weight champion of the world." His reception did not suffer in comparison with the ovation accorded the local favorite. Both men posed for a flashlight photograph.

LABELING THE BIG MAP.

Uncle Sam's Six-Acre Chart at the World's Fair is Made up of 819 Distinct Species of Plant Life.

Everyone of the 5,000 different collections of plants comprising the six-acre map of the United States in growing crops at the World's Fair is plainly labeled. The visitor will have no difficulty in determining the name of a certain plant and at a glance may learn something of its origin, history and habits.

In the great map, the first of the kind ever made, are 819 distinct species of plant life, and each species is plainly outlined and labeled. This includes not only a specimen of every plant grown in the United States, but in the plots bordering the map are many plants of all lands.

The map is an exhibit of the U. S. Government and is made by the Bureau of Plant Industry. David A. Brodie is the superintendent in charge and many of the plants were Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and that by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. This remedy is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results. Sold by C. C. Chitwood."
