GIVE US ANOTHER CHANCE.

The following clipping appeared in the editorial columns of the Washington Star: "E. C. Duell, a Seattle police officer, has been on a two months vacation and returned for duty one day this week. Duell, on the whole, is one of the squarest men that ever wore a policeman's star or uniform, and when he testifies in court or otherwise you can pretty safely put it down that he is telling the truth. "I visited Oregon and California while away and saw much of the country in both of these states. I was in the mountains of Oregon for a few days, where I was charged $7 per day for board and lodging. At Klamath Falls, a little mountain mining camp, I found a peculiar tribe of citizens. They always invite hundreds of outsiders to come there to do a piece of work that twenty-five men can do in less than thirty days. They were peculiar from the fact that their fingers were from two to three inches longer than that of the average American. I think nature has made them that way so they can the more easily extract everything that an outsider happens to have in his pockets when he gets there. Well, honest to my profession, I did not take a 'drink' while there, because it is against the principles of the Association of Policemen to ever take anything when he has to pay for it, but while there I saw on an average of fifty snakes for every hundred feet I walked. The town is really a snake resort. I saw so many of them that I wondered to myself if I had really broken the law and taken enough booze to make me see snakes when there really were none to see. California! Oh, yes! That is an out-of-sight state, and so far as I am concerned it will remain out of sight. I go to my beat today and I guess it will hold me for a while."

If the mistreated Mr. Duell will only give us another chance we will promise to give him all the work he can do and not charge him a cent for board and lodging. Our rock crusher is going now. He complains that we are unable to ascertain where that happened but feel assured that it never got any farther than being charged. We are not aware of his paying for anything while here, except his fine in the police court, and we understand that he borrowed the money to pay that with. Neither do we believe that anyone could be found who ever knew him to refuse a drink. In fact he had the reputation of being nothing less than a "saloon bum," hanging around the saloons looking for free drinks. There are quite a number of Klamath Falls citizens who would like a chance to get even with this "honest" member of the Seattle police, to the extent of several hundred dollars, which he "extracted" from them either by borrowing or running bills.

Those of our citizens who were grafted, have only themselves to blame, but a newspaper cannot care much for its reputation that will devote space to such rot as the above and then go on record as vouching for the reputation for truthfulness of their informant. We are thankful that Seattle is not in Oregon if these are fair samples of their police force and newspapers.

WANT LODGE AT ASHLAND.

At the Elks banquet at Jacksonville last Saturday night, Mr. Chas. H. Pierce in making his response to the toast "Ashland," reminded the members that Ashland was fast approaching 5000 population, and that our beautiful little city would in due time show its ambition to secure a new lodge for Southern Oregon at Ashland. At the conclusion of the brief remarks of Mr. Pierce on the subject, Judge H. L. Benson of Klamath Falls who was acting as toastmaster proposed the health of the new lodge at Ashland, which sentiment seemed to be met with hearty accord, particularly from those Elks who reside in Rogue River valley, Klamath county and Northern California. Co-operation of all Elks within the proposed new jurisdictional limits was asked, also from all within the State of Oregon.

One of the requirements established within recent years by the supreme lodge of Elks is that no new lodge may be started in any city of less than 5000 people. The Roseburg arles, and the press of the state is Lodge was already of considerable size before this ruling and is the only branch of the order south of Salem. Its present membership is nearly 300 and at an initiation some time this month at Roseburg is expected to be increased 25 or 30 by the acquisition of a large number of representative men from the coast counties, Coos and Curry. Mr. F. W. Jennings of Klamath Falls, made the statement at Saturday night's banquet that he believed fully 25 of the leading citizens of Klamath and Lake counties were anxious to become Elks if a lodge could be established nearer their homes. It now seems as if at least 100 could be assured a local lodge at the start, which would very soon grow to be as large and as strong as the Roseburg lodge now is.

Ashland, with her beautiful surroundings, climate, pure water, highly developed citizenship and usual enterprise in all matters, together with her unexcelled facilities for entertaining large crowds would seem to be admirably adapted for a local lodge of the Elks and it seems sure that any movement in that direction would be met with hearty support of our business men and commercial organizations. The Elks lodge at Roseburg is admitted to have been of incalculable benefit to that town, and is now one of its leading commercial features.

A contract has been let for the construction of an Elks Temple at Roseburg which with furnishings will cost about $20,000, and the dedication of same late next winter is expected to bring hundreds of members with their wives from all over the state.

It is possible that the Grand Lodge of Elks at its session at Portland next summer would concede a title to Ashland in the way of population limit to the end that a local lodge may be established sooner than it otherwise could be. —Ashland Tidings.

MORE IRRIGATION.

Government engineers are at work on another big irrigation proposition in interior Oregon and California, this time at the southern end of Goose lake. Roughly speaking, the plan is to irrigate a large area of barren land off the southern extremity of the lake in Modoc county, Cal., by taking water from this body. Goose lake is 35 miles long and from 10 to 15 wide, two-thirds of it lying in Modoc county, Cal.

An attempt was made by a California company to take water from the lake a few years ago, but Oregon people, fearing possible evil effects of lowering the lake, brought a successful injunction suit. The matter has been much discussed since, and is being again revived. It is said that to lower the lake two feet would reclaim 30,000 acres of mud flats and make fine meadow. Opinion on the Oregon side of the line is divided as to whether a ditch from the south end of the lake to Alturas would be a benefit or an injury to Lake county. It is generally conceded that lowering the lake would give West Lakeview better drainage and improve the sanitary conditions in that part of town.

RACE HORSES.

Some Fast Ones Coming In Daily For the Races Next Week.

Wm. Wood and Wm. Shook came in from Dairy Monday with a string of three race horses which they put into training at once. They were Uncle Tom, Gray Bob and a 2-year-old colt.

Orrin McCumber arrived Sunday from Brookvale Stock Farm with Louis Gerber's colt, Headlight.

S. B. Gardner came down Tuesday from Fort Klamath with his running horse, O'Conner.

Neil Sly arrived Tuesday from Keno with his 2-year-old, Jubilee, and also another horse.

INCREASE PAY OF TEACHERS.

State Supt. Ackerman Aids the Movement For Better Teachers.

"When we can get the farmers to realize that a teacher ought to be paid more than farmhands, and the taxpayers without children to see that more money put into the manufacture of good citizens is well spent, we may expect to bring about higher salaries for our teachers. To this end we are conducting an agitation throughout the state," said State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman, who was in Portland Saturday.

Mr. Ackerman regards the unwilling taxpayer, who objects to the already high taxes, and the farmer who figures that his hired man is paid only $30 a month, while the teacher gets $40, as the principle obstacles to higher salaries for instructors of the state. "It must be remembered," said he, "that the farmhand works 12 months in the year, while the teacher is the only one of any profession whose vocational lasts only a portion of a twelve-month. During the summer season the teacher ought not to be obliged to hunt up other employment to make both ends meet. Public sentiment is working for increasing teachers' salaries, and the press of the state is with us. "The law lately passed, providing that not less than $6 shall be levied for each child of school age in the county, will help the movement for higher salaries in most of the counties of the state, although in Multnomah County it will have no such effect, due to the fact that because of the high property values the tax already raised for school purposes exceeds $6 per capita.

"We find that country school boards are loth to raise a teachers salary because it then establishes a precedent which they will be obliged to continue, and some country school boards have been known to turn back money into the state school fund rather than raise the salary of the teacher.

The most encouraging feature of the school situation in this state now is the general compliance the teachers show with the law requiring attendance at institutes. The law makes a penalty to the district of $5 if the teacher fails to attend a required number of hours at the county institute. Teachers at first objected to the compulsion expressed in the statute, but they are now seeing the value of the institute work and willingly attend. Our institutes are of high character and must be helpful to any teacher. Teachers no longer come unwilling, as if driven like school boys.—Portland Telegram.

HONORED FULTON.

Our Junior Senator Will Take Place of Dolliver Through California.

Senator Dolliver, who was the speech-making companion of Fairbanks as far as Portland, has been compelled by reason of his throat giving out to give up the rest of the tour. The National committee has replaced him with Senator Fulton, which is a most flattering compliment to our junior senator, as Senator Dolliver's place is not easily filled even from the United States Senate. The first stop made in California by the two senators was at Redding Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, and both will speak at several other places in the Sacramento valley before reaching San Francisco. Senator Fulton will take part in the big meeting at the Bay City.

In speaking of the unexpected changes in the tenary of Washington and Oregon, Senator Fulton said, that it had been mapped out at Chicago by the National Committee, and because of the distance to the Pacific Coast, it had been necessarily modified. "Through most of the state of Washington our train was two hours ahead of the schedule arranged for it and a great many people were disappointed in not seeing Senator Fairbanks, and so it has been in Oregon. I will accompany the Senator to San Francisco, and after the meeting there, I must hurry back to Portland, as I have agreed to do some campaigning in Klamath and Lake counties."

ROOSEVELT LEAGUE MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Roosevelt League will be held at the court house on Saturday, October 8th. All those favoring the re-election of President Roosevelt are requested to be present.
