OREGON MILITARY ROAD GRANT.

Settlement Between the Booth-Kelly Company and the Government Will Hasten Opening of the Reservation.

Capt. O. C. Applegate, Superintendent of the Klamath Indian reservation, informed us that a cursory examination of the road grant lands is now in progress. The season is so late, however, that a thorough examination, section by section, will not now be undertaken, and this would probably take a longer time than the weather would probably admit of at this time of season. Capt. Applegate's contention has always been that the government should settle with the road company, or its successor, the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company, and leave the Indians the treaty lands, and in this view he seems to be fully sustained by this department. The purpose of the joint examination now in progress in which Mr. Kelly represents the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company, and Capt. Applegate the government, is to ascertain the character and probable value of the lands in the hope that through Congressional action, a settlement can be made that will be fair to all parties, and leave to the Indians the land covered by the grant and upon which the government has given them more allotments. This is a matter of general interest to the country since when the land questions are settled, the allotments could pass to the Indians and the tribal lands might soon be opened to settlement, and at least 25,000 hundred thousand acres, much of it excellent timber land will be added to the taxable area of the county.

JENNY CREEK TIMBER SALES.

Transactions in Valuable Timber Lands Indicate There'll Soon Be Something Doing.

William Reed, of the Portland firm of Pelton, Reid & Ward, which succeeded to a two-thirds interest in the timber interests of John Cook & Sons in the Jenny Creek and Pokeyama country, east of Ashland, has been in this section the past week, and it is reported that he has purchased several of the most valuable pine claims that were still outside the large holdings of that famous sugar pine belt, including the valuable claim of D. H. Yeager, for which it is reported Mr. Reid pays $4250. The papers in this deal were exchanged in Ashland, Friday. Several other valuable claims were also purchased, including those held by Squier Parker, Jacob Isler, J. Nelson and Andy Anderson, ranging in price from $1000 to $3200. It is thought by some who are well posted that Pelton, Reid & Ward are preparing to join in with Mason, of the old firm of Mason, Lindley & Co., who has large interests out in that country in the erection of a big new sawmill and the redemption of lumbering extensions. Mason is also a large owner of the Klamath Lake Railroad Company in its 32 miles of property now under lease to Hervey Lindley and there may be changes in this, it is rumored, after the first of the year.—Ashland Bldg.

BRIGGS-BENSON.

Early Morning Wedding of Miss Gail Benson Takes Her Friends by Surprise.

Even the wise ones were very much surprised when they learned that Mr. N. C. Briggs Jr. and Miss Gail Benson had been quietly married early Monday morning and had left for California on their honeymoon. The young couple were married at the home of the bride by Judge Benson, the bride's father. They left immediately after the ceremony for California, where they will be at home after December 1st, at Hollister. The bride is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. H. L. Benson, and is one of the nicest of Klamath Falls' charming young ladies. She is a girl of rare intelligence and beauty and will be a great loss to society here. The groom is a young lawyer of Hollister, Calif., who has spent about six months here as attorney for the Klamath Canal Co. He is also interested in the big Bush ranch, which was purchased this summer by California Capitalists.

WHY NOT BE FAIR.

Should People Who Are Developing the Country Be Subject to Personal Spite and Abuse.

For some time past, J. Scott Taylor, journalist of whose cognomen in the middle may be purely accidental, has with the assistance of H. H. Fink, who came here from somewhere, been regularly and persistently "knocking" the efforts of the Klamath Canal Company, and the people of this vicinity, on the subject of Government Irrigation. Mr. Taylor comes here to personally inspect the irrigation projects in this county which have been and are now being investigated by the engineers, and to learn the sentiments of our people in regard to the desirability of carrying out the proposed Government works. The Klamath project is considered one of the most feasible and Government has ever investigated, and if our people want Government Irrigation, now is the time for them to come out and say so. Messrs. Newell and Lippincott will spend four days here investigating the project before the Mass Meeting is held. It has been falsely represented to the Interior Department, and also to our Senators and Representatives in Congress, that the people of Klamath County did not want Government aid, and the U. S. Irrigation Committee, being in a position to know the details of the work necessary to procure Government aid, feel it to be necessary that every man who desires Government aid must attend this Mass Meeting and declare himself.

If the people want Government aid they should come out to this Mass Meeting and make their demand so emphatic that the Government will be compelled to grant the aid desired. N. S. Merrill, Chairman. O. A. Stearns, Secretary. W. F. Hill, H. H. Burnham, Jacob Ruck, J. Scott Taylor, Secretary, U. S. Irrigation Committee.

"No Tailor in Town?"

Mr. Mott, general immigration agent of the Northern Pacific, who is interested particularly in the development of the west, said in an address at Portland November 18, before the Irrigationists: "Eastern Oregon contains two-thirds of the area of the state, but Western Oregon contains two-thirds of the agricultural lands now in use. With the aid of irrigation the arid portion of Eastern Oregon would be capable of supplying 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, fruit and other cereals. It seems as if there is only one solution of the problem that will make this state one of the greatest states in the Union. That is, increase your rural population to three times your urban population. Put your savings and your local capital into the irrigating ditches that can be constructed in Eastern Oregon, which will transform the sagebrush lands into farms and fields of value and beauty. Irrigation makes the intense population. Let me call your attention to your conditions in Oregon. Thirty-four per cent of your people are engaged in agriculture, 6 per cent in professions, 26 per cent in trade and transportation and 21 per cent in manufacturing and machinery. That means that there are two living on one producer. "Change this gentlemen! And you can change it by the establishment of irrigation, which means intense population. You have in this direction. The government grinds slow but sure, and the first President of the United States who has ever lent his aid in this direction is Theodore Roosevelt, who has dipped his pen to help restore the arid lands to fields of value and beauty. "But you must show an interest in your state by promoting every private scheme by which it is possible to establish irrigation. The more you help yourself the more the government will assist you." CITIZEN.

Fred Buesing, who left a short time ago for a visit to his old home at Glenwood, Minn., writes to the Republic about his trip. He says: "I have just arrived home and found copy of your Klamath Republican of October 20th. I wish you would send me the Republic right along as I would like to keep posted through your paper. I had a very pleasant trip through California, stopping at Marysville and Woodland a short time, visiting San Francisco, Stockton, Vallejo, Napa City, Mare Island and other places of interest for a week or ten days; then went by Southern Pacific through Nevada, stopping at Reno a short time; then at Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah. I stopped at Colorado Springs, Colo. Kansas City, and St. Louis Mo. I stayed at the Exposition about ten days and would have remained longer but the weather turned bad and it commenced to rain very hard and I pulled out of home, by the Washakie Route. I found my home town very much changed for the better. There has been quite a building boom on here, about 150 residences were built during the summer. I have met people all along my travels and find it quite well known and talked of. In fact, I look for a good many people to come there the coming season, as lots of people are talking Lewis & Clark, and if we can get any kind of rates, many will visit Klamath County on account of Crater Lake and the Hot Springs. Also a number of people are inquiring about our timber and lands."
