CONTEST NOTICE.

United States Land Office, Lakeview, Oregon February 26, 1905. A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by Charles R. Baldwin, contestant, against homestead entry No. 2295, made June 7, 1904, for Wigsby, Lots 6 and 7 Sec. 4, Tp. 39 N., R. 6 E. W. M. by John Laughlin, in which it is alleged that said John Laughlin, has wholly abandoned said land, and has changed his residence therefrom for more than six months since making said entry, and has wholly failed to cultivate or improve said land, and has failed to establish his residence on said land during the first six months after making said entry; that said abandonment and all of said failures still exist and still continue; and that said alleged absence from the said land was not due to his employment in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States as a private soldier, officer, seaman or marine, during the war with Spain, or during any other war in which the United States may be engaged. Said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching said allegation at 10 o'clock a. m. on April 11, 1905, before Geo. Chastain, county Clerk of Klamath county, at Klamath Falls. And that final hearing will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. on April 19, 1905, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in Lakeview, Oregon.

The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed February 26, 1905, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such a notice be given by due publication, in the Klamath Republican, printed at Klamath Falls Oregon.

J. K. WATSON, Register.

EUROPE IN OUR MARKET.

Wonderful Absorbent Power of the Old World for American Products.

In an article in World's Work on "What Europe Means to Us" J. D. Whippleley says:

"Always buying more than it sells, lending more than it borrows, and in every way apparently giving more than it takes, Europe's constantly increasing population, wealth and power, form a mystery, for they are the most wonderful and fascinating of all economic phenomena.

"The United States has a population of 22 to the square mile. In the last 100 years Europe has sent 40,000,000 people to the United States and other new countries, and yet to-day has a population of 103 to the square mile, or nearly twice as many as when this emigration began. In the meantime wages have increased, wealth has piled up, trade has quadrupled and the purchasing power of the people of Europe has more than kept pace with all these advances.

"Even to estimate the annual domestic exchanges of Europe is beyond the reach of intelligible figures. The foreign exchange is a quantity which can be determined with more or less accuracy, however, and its amount—14,000,000,000, annually—conveys an idea of the tide of commerce that flows through this heart of the world.

"The imports of these 18 countries amount to $8,000,000,000, the exports to $6,000,000,000, showing an excess of purchases over sales amounting to $2,000,000,000. The imports from abroad, meaning from countries other than European, are to supply European deficiencies, and these are largely of food and raw materials.

"About 65 per cent. of the total exports from the United States are of agricultural products, though much of this might be regarded as manufactured goods because many agricultural products are put through manufacturing processes. Roughly speaking, the American people sell $900,000,000 worth of such products a year to foreign buyers. Nearly 90 per cent. goes to Europe, hence about four-fifths of the American goods sent to Europe supply food and raw materials.

"American products feed the operatives in European mills and factories who are making goods for all the world. They provision the foreign ships which carry the world's commerce, and keep down the cost of living in Europe by supplementing the comparatively scanty supply of home-grown foods. These agricultural products of America are now so necessary to Europeans that they are admitted without serious restrictions to nearly all European markets."

STORY OF A PHYSICIAN.

Patient Who Sacrificed Her Life for Love of Her Abundant Hair.

Physicians hear strange things. A physician said the other day:

"Mrs. Smith is dead. If she had consented to have her hair cut off she would still be alive. Her heavy hair killed her.

"When I told her that she must lose her hair, she said she would rather die. But her husband didn't want her to die, and he made up his mind to cut off her hair while she slept. One night he carried to bed with him a big pair of shears.

"With some difficulty he hid the shears under his pillow. Then, in the middle of the night, he took them out cautiously, and he advanced them toward his wife's long, thick braid. She lay on her side with her back to him; but just as he was about to snip off the braid close to her head, she sighed uneasily, and she turned over on her back, with the braid safe under her.

"He swore below his breath, and waited, shears in hand, for an hour. But she never stirred.

"For three nights Smith too, the shears to bed with him, and each time that he would go for his sleeping wife's hair with them, she would move out of the way. The thing seemed almost supernatural. The woman, asleep, protected her hair from the shears quite as well as she could have protected it if she had been awake.

"The morning after the third night Smith forgot about the shears when he got up. He left them under his pillow and went off to work. Naturally, Mrs. Smith found them.

"You took those shears to bed with you to cut off my hair with," she said to him on his return. "If you had done it, I'd never have spoken to you again."

"Smith gave up after that, and his poor wife kept her hair, but not her life."

Retaliation at a Dance.

She was young. It was her first season, and it pleased her to snub her cousin most unmercifully whenever he asked her for a dance.

"No," she protested, one evening, "you can't see my programme—it's all full."

"But there'll be extra. Can't I have an extra?"

"Ye-es," returned the young woman, grudgingly, relinquishing her card, "but don't take the first one, it's promised."

Later in the evening, when she looked to see which dance her cousin had appropriated she found that she had food for reflection. The young man had put his name down for the four hundred ninety-ninth extra—Sunday.
