PAID SMOKERS OF PIPES.

Paris Tobacco Houses Hire Many Men to Color Their Meerschaums.

"With the growth of the hobby of smoking meerschaum pipes," said the Hefendorfer, of Philadelphia, reports the Louisville Herald, "there have sprung up concerns which make a business of coloring these pipes."

"How do they do it? Well, in the most natural way imaginable. By smoking them. In Paris there are two firms which employ about 1,000 men to do nothing but smoke. They smoke pipe tobacco in order that they can smoothen a great length of time without getting a headache."

"I have seen these men at work. They are a queer set. Some of them are persons of high educational attainments, who, being out of other employment, do not object to sitting in a cool spot, reading and smoking. It's a snap for them."

"Others of these hired smokers are ignorant fellows, who have never achieved success in anything but smoking."

"A few women are in the gathering, but they are all sorry looking wrecks. Some of the smokers are diseased. Many of them have consumption. But this does not endanger the person who smokes the fine meerschaum pipe later on, for the pipes are boiled and baked to eliminate all germs."

"The officials in Paris are trying to break up this business, claiming that it endangers the health of the hirelings."

Aluminum Horse Shoes.

In the Russian army aluminum horseshoes are said to have been tried with good results. A few horses in the Finland dragoons were first chosen, and shod with one aluminum shoe and three iron shoes each. The experiments showed that the aluminum shoes preserved the foot better than the iron ones.

UNITED STATES AS A FARM

Whole States Devoted to One Crop and a Vast Domain Still Remains Untilled.

The area of the United States, exclusive of Alaska and insular possessions, is 3,600,000 square miles. Census returns give 650,000 square miles of this as "improved farm" land. An interesting illustration lies in assuming a segregation of the principal farm products within specific areas of familiar boundary. In the following arrangement the areas, if not absolutely accurate in all cases, are sufficiently close to give a good idea of what the national farm would look like if it were parceled out in such a manner.

Thus planted, Maine and New Hampshire would be the oat field. Rhode Island, with 300 square miles from eastern Connecticut, would be the tobacco plantation. The rest of Connecticut, with Long Island, would be the potato patch. Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Delaware would form a vast wheat field. Virginia and West Virginia would be a hay field. Maryland would be planted in rye, barley and buckwheat. North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia would be covered with corn. There is a choice between Texas or a combination of Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin as the pasture and grazing land and for the cultivation of minor crops and garden truck. With this vast area thus occupied, is left nearly three-quarters of the national domain in the form of unimproved land and forest. It is the biggest farm in the world and an empire is left for settlement and cultivation.

STORY OF SIAMESE TWINS.

Barnum, the Circus Man, Asked Peculiar Questions by a Visitor from the Country.

The late P. T. Barnum was a keen student of human nature, as well as a natural humorist, and nothing which set forth human traits that were odd or amusing escaped his attention. He was fond of telling stories of incidents that brought out features in human character, and one of them that delighted him immensely was connected with the Siamese twins. When he was exhibiting those oriental freaks the press of the country made them widely known and they became soon one of his best drawing cards. One day there came to see them a back-country rustic, who was perfectly absorbed in them, and inquisitive enough in regard to them to require almost a volume of information to answer his innumerable questions. Mr. Barnum happened to be the one questioned, and he was asked their age, occupation, original home, whether they were single or married, their weight and stature and their religious belief. Nothing at any rate was too trivial or irrelevant for the rustic to think of, all of which interested the showman intensely. Finally the bucolic visitor started slowly, but reluctantly, to leave, but after walking away a few steps he returned and said with the most solemn simplicity: "They are brothers, I presume?"

Horrid.

Patience—They always ask me to play when they know I can't play without any music."

Patrice—I see.

"The next time I go there I'll take my music with me."

"Just so they won't ask you to play, I suppose."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Real Thing.

"What is tact, mamma?" asked small Florama.

"Tact, my dear," replied the knowing mother, "is a woman's ability to make her husband believe he is having his own way."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Watches Him.

She—Why is it a woman never looks at the man she's marrying when at the altar?

He—I don't know; but I do know she keeps her eye on him pretty well after the wedding.—Yonkers Statesman.
