Amend Local Option Law "Twixt Love and Money"

Amendments are being proposed by initiative petition, to the Local Option law. These petitions are now being circulated in Klamath Falls and throughout the county. The proposed amendments increase the number of signers necessary on a petition, in order to secure a vote on local option, from 10 to 20 per cent. Another amendment to be proposed provides that the precinct shall be made the unit in conducting these contests, the object being to prevent a combination of "Dry" precincts from imposing prohibition in a "wet" precinct, as is allowed under the law as it is now constructed.

The saloon men are naturally the most interested parties, and yet the petitions are being signed by a large number of the businessmen and those opposed to a closed town. It is claimed that if there is a genuine sentiment in favor of no saloons in a precinct or county, that there will be no trouble in securing 20 per cent of the voters to sign a petition. The objection to the Local Option law as it stands, however, lies in the fact, that a few cranks, who are seldom tax payers, have it in their power to force a county to go to the expense of an election every year if they should desire. This is not done with any real hope of success, but simply to cause annoyance and expense to the saloon men, and mainly to gain notoriety.

E. L. Smith of Hood River, whose name has been mentioned frequently in connection with the Republican nomination for Governor, thinks modern politics a little too strenuous for him.

He says: "A man who really wants to be Governor of the State of Oregon has to make three separate campaigns. He first has to secure the signature of voters for a petition in a certain number of precincts in seven counties upon which he is enrolled by the Secretary of State as a candidate. He then has to wage a campaign for his nomination in which he has to fight members of his party. Then still again, unless he is willing to throw up his hands and be counted out, he has to make another campaign to secure election. All this campaigning requires valuable time, hard work and money. The primary law is of good intent, but it is not for me."

Herbert Van Allen is the son of a millionaire and engaged to his cousin Mable.

While on a yachting cruise he meets a pure and lovely country girl, Lillian Brough, ward of Major Warrington, a blind veteran. Although Lillian is betrothed to Martin Clench, who is absent on a whaling voyage, she and Herbert fall in love. Clench returns and, maddened with jealousy and evil suspicions, threatens Herbert, who warns him that he is armed. Martin snatches Herbert's revolver and attempts to murder him, but the weapon misses fire. In a scuffle which ensues Martin accidentally kills himself and Herbert is accused of his murder. Lillian by her woman's wit, saves her lover from arrest and conceals him. He begs her to fly with him, but she refuses to do so unless as his wife.

They are married hurriedly by Uncle Davy, a justice of the Peace, and they escape on Herbert's yacht. Herbert's uncle and Julien Hawkes soon separate the young couple, and abandoned by her husband before the honeymoon is over, Lillian's reason is dethroned. Herbert finds that love is more precious than money and returns to his wife, when he is stricken with remorse at her pitiful condition. To Lillian the right she was deserted is ever present, and by acting out the scene which caused her insanity, in every detail, with the difference that she finds her husband with her instead of having abandoned her, she recovers her reason as suddenly as it left her, and all ends as plays should. Admission 25 and 50 cents. Reserved seats on sale at Mannings Confectionery Store.
