DAIRY DOINGS

The county is having a bridge built on Lost River some miles below the Gap; there are those who think one is needed much worse at the Upper Gap.
C. C. Pearson is making a kiln of brick at his place three miles north of Dairy; but he is having trouble with his clay, as it is so rich with vegetable mold that the bricks frequently crack in the drying process.

The merchants of Dairy are doing a thriving business this spring, and they deserve it.
G. D. Grizzle, the tombstone man of Klamath Falls, has opened a valuable stone quarry on the mountain-side northeast of the valley, and has been getting out stone bases for monuments this spring. The stone is a grey conglomerate, almost as hard as granite. He says it is the best stone he has been able to find in the county. He has bought the land and thinks himself fortunate.
Farmers have little to do just now save to sit in the shade and watch their grain grow and get ready for harvest.
Range cattle are fat and sleek. They fill themselves with rich grasses in the mornings and evenings and lie down in the shade chewing their cud during the day and at night. The cow is as lazy as some people I know.
It is doubtful if there is a healthier climate anywhere than here. People have no malarial diseases, no pulmonary complaints, asthma and phthisis are rare, and even stomach troubles are infrequent. The Great White Plague was never known to develop in this health-giving atmosphere. As a health resort I believe Klamath county has no equal on earth. With an active, outdoor life the person who cannot get well here might as well make his peace with his Maker, for there is surely no better.

A student long ago asked the president of Oberlin college if he could not be permitted to take a shorter course of study.
"Oh, yes," replied the president, "but that depends upon what you want to make of yourself. When God wants to make an oak, he takes a hundred years; but when he wants to make a squash, he takes six months."—Instructor.

That Was All.
Tenderfoot—I understand there was some difference between Cactus Cal and Alkali Ike.
Buck Hans—They're considerable difference. Cal's dead an' Ike's alive.
Tenderfoot—Yes, but what was the original difference between them that led up to the killing?
Buck Hans—Ike was quicker on the trigger, that's all.—Philadelphia Press.
He Did As He Was Bid.
Fair One—Really, I—I am extremely sorry, but I cannot say yes—at present.
Suitor—And yet I dared to hope you loved me.
Fair One—I do, Jack, I do; but yours makes the thirteenth offer I've had and you know how superstitious I am. You must ask me again after I've received another proposal.—Aly Sloper.
His Gentle Hint.
"How much of a salary do you get?" asked the inquisitive diner.
"Oh, I don't get any salary," replied the obsequious waiter. "The gentlemen that dine here are such perfect gentlemen that I don't need any regular salary or wages."
As the diner reached down into his pocket for a tip he was heard to mutter something about curiosity always being costly.—Chicago Post.
A Fine Arrangement.
First Nurse Girl—Seems to me y'r puttin' on a heap o' style drivin' in the park with a moneysgrammed kerriage, and coachman and footmen, too. Does y'r missus lend ye her private rig?
Second Nurse Girl—She sends me to take her pet dog out for an airin'.
"But where's the dog?"
"Under th' seat."—N. Y. Weekly.
Will Get His Deserts.
Naggus (literary editor, inspecting manuscript)—Your story is good enough so far as I have got, Boris, except that the hero is rather fine drawn. He's entirely too good for this world.
Boris (struggling author)—I know it, Naggus. I kill him off in the last chapter.—Chicago Tribune.
Somewhat Reason.
He—So Miss Willing has gone to Europe, has she? I thought she was going to marry young Smitherton.
She—She would have married him but for one thing.
He—And that was—?
She—He didn't ask her.
